CAPTURE OF GANG OF 5 AND WOMAN EXPECTED IN LINDBERGH MURDER

PANIC OF KIDNAPERS BLAMED FOR KILLING

Failure to Bring Adhesive Tape to Silence Cries Believed Cause.

New York, May 15 (A.P.).—The New York Times says police have information the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped and slain by a gang of five men and one woman whose identities are believed to be known to New Jersey authorities. The arrest of one or more of them is expected within a few days.

On the basis of information furnished by Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" of the $50,000 ransom payment, and by Morris Rosner, undercover intermediary, the paper says, State police have been able partly to identify the criminals and to reconstruct the first coherent picture of the crime.

Reconstruction of Crime.

The Times' story, in effect, is as follows:

Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., was stolen from his crib on the night of March 1 by three men, one believed to be a German, another an Italian and the third a Brazilian. The leaders of the band, both Americans, remained in hiding in a shack in the Sourland Mountains, and the woman, also an American, was brought into the conspiracy to care for the child.

The kidnapers had no intention of doing away with the child at first, but resorted to murder when their plans began to go wrong.

The three actual kidnapers traveled to the home of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh near Hopewell, N. J., in an automobile bearing New York license plates. The woman stayed in the car and the German and one confederate entered the house.

Panic Caused Murder.

After carrying out their purpose the party are believed to have lurked in the neighborhood for some time, and possibly witnessed squads of police scouring the countryside. It was at this point that the criminals became panic-stricken and are believed to have battered their charge to death. They forgot to bring adhesive tape to seal the baby's lips, and with his unusually strong lungs his screams could have been heard for some distance.

Still they went ahead with ransom negotiations with confidence that Col. Lindbergh would pay any amount to obtain the child's return in the belief he was alive and would not betray the kidnapers to the authorities.

The disclosures of Dr. Condon and Rosner have led some investigators to believe that the gang with whom the elderly lecturer was dealing and the one about which Rosner had been given information were one and the same, but that the group with which John H. Curtis, Norfolk interventer, was working, was made up of rank impostors seeking to extort money from Col. Lindbergh.

Col. Lindbergh Active in Hunt.

Hopewell, N. J., May 15 (A.P.).—The feverish hunt over land, sea and sky for the Lindbergh baby killers was given momentum by the personal efforts of Col. Charles A Lindbergh today while the aged "Jafsie" of the case sought to pick from a rogues'

W. A. Clark, 3d, Killed With Pilot in Crash

Late Senator's Grandson and Former Lindbergh Associate Die.

Cottonwood, Ariz., May 15 (A.P.).—W. A. Clark 3d, 36, and Jack Lynch, 43, of Los Angeles, former copilot with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, were killed today by the fall of their plane in the foothills north of Clemenceau, Ariz. Mr. Clark was a grandson of the late Senator Clark, of Montana, and a heavy stockholder in the United Verde Copper Co.

The plane fell from an altitude of 2,000 feet after it went into a tail spin. Mr. Lynch was giving Mr. Clark a lesson in blind flying when the accident occurred. Witnesses were unable to say who was piloting the ship.

The plane landed squarely on its nose, the impact smashing the motor and cowl back into the ship.

Mr. Clark was the son of W. A. Clark, jr., Western copper magnate. Both he and Mr. Lynch were married.

SENATE, FACING BIG JAM, GOING ON 12-HOUR DAY

Night Sessions Will Be Held to Get June 10 Adjournment.

BUT 23 LEGISLATIVE DAYS NOW REMAIN

(United Press.)

Facing one of the worst legislative jams in history the Senate will go on a twelve-hour day today in its endeavor to adjourn on June 10 and go home for the summer. Only 23 legislative days remain for enactment of tax, economy, relief and nine appropriation measures.

Outside of an unemployment relief bill and two or three financial bills, the House has completed its work, and will more or less mark time.

If Congress completes its program, including the gigantic relief project now contemplated, it will leave a record of financial legislation unequaled since the busy prewar Wilson administration when the Federal Reserve act was put on the statute books. The total accomplishments loom large despite the criticism and bickering, which have characterized the present session.

Revolt on Adjournment.

The probability of adjournment by June 10, upon which leaders are set, has been clouded by a revolt over the week-end in the House against adjournment, and by the differences of opinion which have developed over the joint unemployment relief program sponsored by Senate Democratic Floor Leader Joseph T. Robinson, and President Hoover.

Permitting these difficulties take care of themselves for the moment, Senate leaders will devote chief attention immediately to the tax bill. Lights will begin to burn tonight in the Senate wing of the Capitol.

A very important vote, the first on the tax bill, is due today. This will be on the amendment of the multimillionaire Senator James Couzens (Republican), Michigan, to restore war-time income and surtax rates. If this amendment should carry—and it has gained supporters—this would upset the tax situation somewhat.

Economy and Jobless Relief.

While the tax battle rages on the floor, two committees are at work on the next legislative business, the economy and unemployment relief bills. The Senate economy committee expects to complete a bill next week about the wreck of the House measure.

No such prompt action is expected from the committee of Democratic leaders, which is trying to draft a compromise unemployment relief bill out of the slightly divergent proposals of Senator Robinson and President

HINDU-MOSLEM RIOT IN BOMBAY IS FATAL TO 30

GUERRILLA WARFARE LEAVES 400 INJURED

Murder, Pillage and Arson Rampant; Women and Children Killed.

Bombay (Monday), May 16 (U.P.).—The entire northern section of Bombay was transformed into a battlefield for guerrilla warfare today as British troops vainly struggled to suppress rioting among Hindus and Moslems.

More than 30 persons were known dead and the toll was mounting as women and children were involved in the conflict. About 400 were injured. The fighting became steadily more severe.

Buildings, filled with women and children, were set afire by rioters. Many persons leaped to death in the streets.

Many Stay in Flames.

One entire street was ablaze. Police reported that many persons remained in their blazing homes, preferring to die in the flames rather than rush out to be killed by the mob.

For several hours the troops were unable to halt an outbreak of guerrilla tactics adopted by rioters after the police commissioner had summoned military authorities to take charge.

Murder, pillage and arson were rampant in many sections of the city. Natives barricaded themselves in houses and turned back police and troops which attacked them. Police set fire to houses to drive the rioters out.

Police Fire on Fighters.

The fighting began on Saturday when the traditional rivalries between Hindu and Moslems flared into violence. Police restored order, but on Sunday the fighting was renewed when Moslem youths stoned the homes of Hindus.

Later pedestrians were mercilessly beaten and stabbed. Police opened fire on the demonstrators, but failed to hold the outbreak.

The situation was tense because of the old quarrel between Hindus and Moslems—one of the outstanding obstacles in the path of a national reconciliation which would aid the Mahatma Gandhi's movement for Indian independence.

PREMIER INUKAI SLAIN BY MILITARIST BAND; TERROR SEIZES TOKYO

Inukai Ardent Foe Of Military Groups

Inaugurated Gold Embargo and Policy of Mild Inflation.

(Associated Press.)

For the second time within a dozen years, one of the strongest and most fearless foes of bureaucracy and militarism in government in Japan has been slain by an assassin.

The death yesterday of Premier Suyoshi (or Tsuyoshi) Inukai bears a marked similarity to the assassination of Premier Takashi Hara, archfoe of the militaristic politicians, in 1921.

The three most prominent friends of the United States in Japanese public life also have been removed by assassins. On November 14, 1930, Premier Yuko Hamaguchi was shot by a student and in August, 1931, he died from the effects of his wounds. Baron Takuma Dan, managing director of the vast Mitsui interests, was slain March 5, this year, less than a month after the assassination of former Finance Minister Junnpsuke Inoue, leader of the Min-

Six in Service Uniforms Kill Statesman in His Own Home.

FASCISTS ACCUSED; CABINET QUITS POST

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Tokyo (Monday), May 16 (U.P.).—Military fanatics assassinated Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai last night in a violent antigovernment outbreak that spread terror through the Japanese capital. The cabinet resigned today.

Reactionaries raced through the streets in automobiles, hurled bombs at government buildings and banks, fired revolvers into the air and scattered Fascist-like propaganda denouncing capitalists and demanding political reforms to "purify" the government.

The 77-year-old white-haired premier was shot down in his own home by six men, who demanded that he receive their leader. They brandished pistols at the servants.

"Don't shoot," said the premier, going to the door. "I'll listen to your demands."

"Shoot! Shoot!" he yelled.

Policeman Also Slain.

Two men held the frail old statesman, while another shot him in the head and face. He died at midnight, with his wife at his bedside.

The reign of terror apparently was part of an unsuccessful attempt to put a reactionary or Fascist government in power.

The Seiyukai (government) party headquarters, the Bank of Japan, the central police headquarters and the residences of Count Makino, lord keeper of the privy seal; Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa and Admiral Kantaro Suzuki, the grand chamberlain, were among the buildings damaged in a dozen bombings.

Fascist groups, which included many in military uniforms, demonstrated in various parts of the capital, firing revolvers and distributing propaganda.

One policeman died of wounds inflicted by a bomb thrown at the premier's home. Two policemen, one newspaperman and a guest of Premier Inukai were among those wounded in the demonstrations. Eighteen military men, including five officers, who led the violence and the assassination, voluntarily surrendered to police.

Keeping Emperor Hirohito closely informed of developments, the cabinet met in urgent session. The home minister, Kisaburo Suzuki, ordered

GANG OF FIVE SEEN BY JAFSIE ON BOAT

Quoted as Revealing Nicknames and Nationality of Armed Men.

New York, May 15 (A.P.).—Dr. John F. Condon (Jafsie) is quoted by the Daily News as saying the man to whom he paid $50,000 ransom for the return of the Lindbergh baby was one of a gang of five, all of whom he met later on a boat in Long Island Sound.

"Jafsie," it was previously understood, negotiated with only one individual—the man to whom he turned over the money in a Bronx cemetery the night of April 2. (John Hughes Curtis, the Norfolk intermediary, has numbered at five the band with which he and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh were dealing.)

The Daily News story further quotes the elderly Bronx lecturer as disclosing the nicknames of two of the gang—John and Doc—and as describing three of them as of German, Italian and Spanish extraction. He was said to be under police guard for fear of reprisals from the criminals.

"It was about a week after I had met the first one—John," Dr. Condon related, "that I was told I would be taken on board the boat where the baby was. I was blindfolded and rowed out to a vessel off Throgga Neck in the Bronx.

"When I got on deck they took the bandage from my eyes. I was in the center of a circle of five men. Each one had a pistol pointed at me. I'll admit I was a little nervous, but I didn't show it.

"'Put down your guns,' I said. 'I'm not armed. I've been a baseball

2 GIRL HIKERS LOST FROM CHURCH PARTY

The girls were found safe at 1:30 this morning.

The woods in the Potomac Valley above Seneca, Md., were being thoroughly searched early today for two girl students of Central High School, who disappeared from a hiking party composed of members of the Sunday school of the All Souls' Unitarian Church.

The missing girls are Ann Clark, 16 years old, a sophomore at Central, and the daughter of Austin H. Clark, a curator of the National Museum, living at 1818 Wyoming avenue northwest, and Harriet Brundage, 17 years old, the daughter of Frank H. Brundage, a civil engineer attached to the International Boundary Commission, living at 709 Varnum street northwest.

The girls were missed at 7:30 o'clock last night when a roll call was made of the hiking party which, for four hours, had been roaming through the woods above Seneca.

Brazil Sends Warships To Halt Strike Disorder

Rio de Janeiro, May 15 (A.P.).—The federal government today ordered two warships and two airplanes to the State of Sao Paolo, which is torn by strike troubles.

Leaders of the strike movement were arrested by the Sao Paolo authorities in a raid on the headquarters of the printers union. The raid occurred as the leaders were holding an executive council.

MOSES RAPS GARNER FOR HOOVER ATTACK

Refers to Speaker's 'Burned-Out Leadership;' Scores Defeat of Sales Tax.

Picturing "the burned-out leadership which Mr. Garner thought he had over the House of Representatives," Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, president pro tem of the Senate, yesterday assailed the Speaker for his recent criticism "of statements issued by President Hoover on the economic situation."

Senator Moses' statement said:

"The Hon. John Nance Garner is depicted in the morning papers as fingering the butt of a cigar and using what Sairey Camp called 'langwidge.'

"It is difficult to know, upon an outbreak like this, whether it is Speaker Garner or Candidate Garner who is doing the talking. However, the collocation in the present instance is excellent. The cigar butt typifies the burned-out leadership which Mr. Garner thought he had over the House of Representatives; and the 'langwidge' is symptomatic of the state of mind of Democrats generally, who continue to think that their fading political prospects may be sustained by renewed of the President of the United States.

"In contrast to these circumstances stands the President, who even under the most pronounced pressure of some of his party associates, has consistently refused to make a single partisan or personal criticism of any member of the opposition.

"Mr. Garner knows perfectly well, just as the whole country knows, that under the President's leadership and

ROOSEVELT SEEKING 100 VOTES THIS WEEK

Hopes for Delegates in Eight States and Capital, but Will Lose in Jersey.

(Associated Press.)

Franklin D. Roosevelt's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination will start up again today with his supporters claiming 100 or more delegates will be added to his column before the week is over.

Opposition to the New York Governor will take New Jersey's 32 in tomorrow's primary without a contest. Alfred E. Smith, who is expected to control this group along with Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, also is conceded a majority of Connecticut's 16 to be named in convention tomorrow.

The Roosevelt forces, however, expect to offset the loss of these 40-odd

Roosevelt Fight Looms Today in Kansas Meet

Lawrence, Kans., May 15 (A.P.).—A fight over the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt neared as delegates assembled tonight for the State Democratic convention here tomorrow.

Supporters of the New York executive, led by Gov. Harry Woodring and Guy T. Helvering, State chairman, claimed sufficient strength to control the 20 votes allotted the State for the national convention. Anti-Roosevelt leaders, among them W. P. Waggener, of Atchison, Kans., claimed enough votes to block an instruction for the aspirant now leading the scramble for State delegations.

Chicago Police on Guard At Japanese Consulate

Chicago, May 15 (A.P.).—The consulate and home of Muto Yoshio, Japanese consul here, were placed under police guard today following publication of reports of the terroristic outbreak and bombing in Tokyo in which Premier Suyoshi Inukai was killed.

In addition to the blue-coat details, the industrial squad at headquarters was ordered held in readiness for any disorder.

Tokyo Sought to Quash News of Assassination

Shanghai, May 15 (A.P.).—Japanese official efforts to suppress news of the Tokyo outrages today were revealed when local offices of the Japanese news agencies failed to issue any reports concering them.

Officials of the agencies said they had received instructions from their Tokyo offices to withhold all news of the assassination of the premier and the series of bombings.

Body of Boy Found In Shed Near Home

Lad, 7, Strangled to Death and Covered by Canvas; Manhunt Begun.

Detroit, May 15 (A.P.).—The body of 7-year-old John Chonacki was found today crammed into a baby carriage in a shed near his home in suburban Hamtramck. He had been strangled and the body covered with burlap sacks and a piece of canvas.

The child's uncle, Frank Jackimovicz, 22, found the body when he went to search for his nephew at the request of the boy's mother, Mrs. Emily Chonacki, a young widow. Police also joined in the search at the mother's request.

A cousin, Arthur Jackimovicz, 5, told police he saw John go into a garage at the rear of their home probably two hours before the body was found. So far as police have learned, that was the last time he was seen alive.

Capt. Robert Dollar, 88, In Coma, Grows Weaker

San Rafael, Calif., May 15 (A.P.).—Capt. Robert Dollar, 88-year-old veteran of the shipping and lumber industry, was said today by his physician, Dr. Rafael G. Dufficy, to be growing weaker every minute. He has been ill two weeks with bronchial pneumonia and for the last 24 hours has been in a coma.

Dr. Dufficy last night said the end was near. The illness started with a severe cold.

Drys Fighting With Backs To Wall, Methodists Hold

Council Declaration Asserts 13 States Will Support Prohibition and Exercise Veto on Other 35 Voting for Repeal; Temperance Plea Made.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 15 (A.P.).—A call for a new, revitalized temperance crusade to keep in force the prohibition law was sounded today before the men's council of the Methodist General Conference.

"Today we are literally fighting with our backs to the wall," Prof. George Croft Cell, of Boston University School of Theology, asserted. His statement later was adopted as a council declaration.

"The wets have surpassed us in thought and strategy for the past decade. They have outthought us, outgeneraled us, outfought us. We may not witness the political debacle of the temperance movement, we may not lose the legal and constitutional bulwarks, but right now there is the greatest danger of it, far greater than we know."

Besides the threat of repeal, Prof Cell said, the dry cause was facing an even greater peril in the fact that although 35 States might vote against the prohibition law, the remaining 13 States could keep prohibition a Federal statute.

Citing a block of 13 dry States of tremendous strategic importance, and an encouragement to defeatism, Prof. Cell said the cause of temperance needed more than 13 States for victory.

"Thirteen States can always veto repeal, but how much virtue will that veto have in it once the outlawry of the alcoholic drink business has ceased to be the majority opinion of the American people?"

He called present conditions in prohibition matters a "crisis" and said "Methodism expects every follower of John Wesley to do his duty." Any Methodist pulpit, he added, where a minister is not free to denounce men and measures connected with anti-prohibition moves "has ceased to be a Methodist pulpit in principle and should cease to disgrace the name."

The meeting also was addressed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, who stated that not until the Nation subordinated selfish special interests and purposes for the common good would America start upward from the "morass" of the depression.

Gaithersburg Mill Destroyed by Fire

Herbert L. Diamond Plant Burned Mysteriously; Loss, $25,000.

Fire of mysterious origin last night consumed Diamond's mill at Gaithersburg, Md., despite the efforts of a skeletonized volunteer fire department and a crowd attracted by the towering blaze. The loss was estimated by Herbert L. Diamond, owner of the mill, at $25,000 and was said to be partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered at 11:40 p. m. by Mrs. L. L. Walker, proprietor of a restaurant across the street from the mill. She notified the volunteer fire department authorities, but only one engine and a few firemen were on duty. The remainder of the personnel and equipment had gone to Seneca, Md., in the search for two girls reported drowned.

Mr. Diamond said the mill had been in operation but little lately. It was understood that there was no grain in storage at the time. A quantity of valuable milling machinery was in the building, it was said. The burned building was of frame construction, roofed with tin. The glare of the blaze could be seen for miles.

2 Steamers Collide In Fog Off England

Passengers on British Ship Taken Off; Weather Delays Liner.

London, May 15 (A.P.).—The British steamer Roumelian and the French steamer St. Nazaire collided in a fog off the Needles (the western point), Isle of Wight, today, and the Roumelian was badly damaged. The St. Nazaire suffered but slight damage.

The British craft sent out an SOS and a lifeboat from Yarmouth answered, embarking two women and two men passengers. The four were taken to Southampton, while the crew stayed aboard and maneuvered the filling Roumelian slowly toward Southampton. The steamer had a bad hole near the waterline.

From Southampton came word that the liner Milwaukee, due at Cowes Roads at 1:30 p. m. to disembark New York passengers, had not arrived at midnight owing to dense fog. A tug searched fruitlessly for her throughout the afternoon. The liner was reported anchored off the Isle of Wight.

Prison Is Uneasy As Assault Looms

Arizona Guards Alert on Plot of Former Convicts; Mrs. Judd in Cell.

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., May 15 (A.P.).—A spirit of uneasiness hovered today over the Arizona Penitentiary as prisoners and guards awaited an expected assault by a gang of former inmates. Machine guns topped the 22-foot walls. Guards manning the wheelhouse, which controls the gates, carried pistols with Holster-flaps pinned back.

The prison superintendent, William Delbridge, announced last night he had discovered a plot headed by a convict released five days ago to effect a wholesale delivery of criminals from the incorrigible section. The penitentiary "grapevine telegraph" spread the news to the inmates soon afterward.

Delbridge said the first step of the plan called for kidnaping of himself as a pawn to force guards to open the gates and cells. One of the machine guns is within 15 feet of the cell of Winnie Ruth Judd, under death sentence for a double murder.

Reichers Says Cross Winds Carried Him From Course

Describes Flight Through Low Clouds and Poor Visibility East of Newfoundland and Hazardous Descent at Night on Rough Sea Near Liner.

Winds that carried his speedy low-winged monoplane far off his course are blamed by Lou Reichers, Arlington, N. J., aviator, for the failure of his planned two-stop flight from Newark, N. J., to Paris. Reichers, 31-year-old pilot, tells of his experiences in the following radiogram from the steamship President Roosevelt. The ship is due in New York Friday.

By LOU REICHERS.

Steamship President Roosevelt, at Sea, May 15 (A.P.).—The flight from Newark to Newfoundland was uneventful except for some poor visibility and rain.

I received a weather report at Harbor Grace from Harry Connor, chief officer of the Baltimore Mail Line ship the City of Hamburg, who laid out my course and furnished me with navigation data.

He indicated weather O. K. So I refueled and took off, flying the course Harry radioed me from aboard his ship in midocean. The first hour out was clear and cold and I sighted several icebergs, then low-hanging clouds obscured the sea and for at least four hours I did not see it again. After that I got only occasional glimpses through holes.

When eight hours had passed I came down through a hole to have a look underneath. The visibility was poor and I could see no indication of land, so I climbed up again over the clouds and flew another half hour.

I repeated the same performance, but still no land again at nine hours, and at nine and one-half there was still nothing but water. I knew then that I had been carried by cross winds either to the north or south of Ireland. Whenever I did spot water I could see from the whitecaps that surface winds were southwest, so I assumed my position to be north.

Turning south, I flew for half an hour. Still I could see nothing but water, so came to the conclusion then that winds out of the north, pos-

POISE IS RECOVERED BY ANNE LINDBERGH

Bereaved Mother Apparently Has Passed Crisis; House Crowded With Guests.

Hopewell, N. J., May 15 (A.P.).—Anne Lindbergh has tapped her reserve strength and found new energy.

The crisis precipitated by the finding of the broken body of her stolen son apparently had been weathered today and the young mother again sought to forget her sorrow in minor housekeeping problems.

An undertaker, it was understood, had delivered an urn bearing the ashes of the curly-haired infant to the home from which he was kidnaped, but little was said by the household about the topic that was closest to them all.

The spring sunshine that streamed into the residence of native stone frequently found its way into the conversation of the family.

Col. Lindbergh eased the tension by trips to the police headquarters into which his three-car garage was converted. He even paused to inspect the motor of one of the little used machines housed in the building.

Mrs. Lindbergh had her mother constantly at her side. Her sister and borther, Constance and Dwight Morrow, jr., came from college when the baby's body was found. But the capacity of the residence has been taxed by the number of officials remaining there overnight and neither of the students spent more than a few hours with their sister. Her elder sister, Elisabeth, however, has been here for long periods.

Neighbors Pray For Lindberghs

Churchgoers in Hopewell Offer Sympathy to Bereaved Parents.

Hopewell, N. J., May 15 (A.P.).—Hopewell churchgoers today bowed their heads in prayers of sympathy for Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, referred to by local clergymen as "our bereaved neighbors."

The Rev. John H. Ginter, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, led his congregation in a brief prayer, explaining that the tragedy was "too shocking for words and the less said about it the better."

The Rev. Goodwin B. Webster, of Calvary Baptist Church, said: "I hope America will hasten the time when such acts can not be committed."

Prayers were said by Dean William Waldron at the Second Baptist Church, which is attended by William Allen, the Negro who found the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr. Father Michael Dalton, chaplain of St. Michael's orphanage, also conducted his 500 little charges in a prayer of sympathy for the Lindberghs. The orphanage owns the ground on which the baby's body was found.

Roosevelt Refuses Physical "Stunt"

Says Terms as Governor Proof of Stamina as Executive.

Warm Springs, Ga., May 15 (U.P.).—Ike B. Dunlap, of Kansas City, long a close friend of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, today urged the governor to "do some kind of stunt to convince the people of the United States that he was physically qualified to fulfill all the duties of the Presidency in case he is nominated and elected."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," the governor was quoted as replying. Roosevelt added that his two terms as Governor of New York obviously could not be disregarded if there were any question as to his physical stamina.

Dunlap said a "whispering campaign" was afoot "to stop Roosevelt." He was insistent that the governor's physical condition should be fully explained to the people. Roosevelt was once crippled by infantile paralysis, but now is able to walk without great difficulty.

Girl,2, Found in Woods; Wandered for 18 Hours

Denison, Tex., May 15 (A.P.).—Two-year-old Melba Geane McGirk was found and returned to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McGirk, early today after wandering nearly 18 hours in woods southeast of Denison.

Her disappearance at play yesterday led to fears she had been kidnaped. More than 200 organized searchers, including police and firemen, spent the night looking for her. She smiled broadly when she saw her parents, drank a glass of milk and went to sleep.

Roosevelt Gaining In South, Is Claim

Clark Howell, Jr., Holds 9 States Are Sure and 3 Likely for Him.

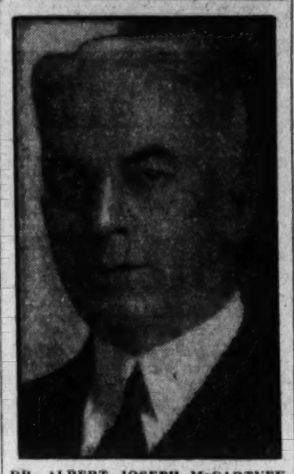
New York, May 15 (A.P.).—A prediction that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt would have the convention vote of nine Southern States, and probably three more, was made today by Clark Howell, jr., business manager of the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution in a telegram to the Roosevelt Business and Professional League in New York.

The Georgian made his forecast on a survey just completed by him. He said the "certain" States were Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Florida.

There were indications, he wired, that North Carolina would follow suit and Virginia, after a favorite son vote for former Gov. Harry Byrd, would swing to the New York executive on the second ballot. He placed Texas in the same class as regards Representative Garner. His telegram contained an admonition to "recalcitrant leaders" not to "cheat the party of success."

Sermon on Lindbergh Tragedy Is Applauded

Dr. McCartney Delivers Impassioned Plea for Crushing of Crime.



DR. ALBERT JOSEPH McCARTNEY.

A storm of applause broke in the fashionable Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, on Connecticut avenue, yesterday morning at the conclusion of a sermon on the Lindbergh tragedy by the minister, the Rev. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, in which he expressed the hope "that the dastardly deed may serve to bring America to her senses."

So moved was the congregation by Dr. McCartney's impassioned discourse that it was voted to have copies of the sermon distributed to every member of the church, and it also was decided to try to arrange to have the sermon repeated over the radio.

"If this crime can not kindle such a flame of righteous indignation that shall help purge this Nation of its lawlessness, then God help America, for she is lost, utterly lost, and it is but a question of time until our boasted land of freedom shall find her common destiny and be one with Nineveh and Tyre," Dr. McCartney declared. "This dastardly deed may serve to bring America to her senses and arouse the people of the land as one man in a determination to clean the Stygian stalls of our great cities and sever the alliance between the underworld and crooked politics, whose representatives are thieves and murderers, child-stealers and extortionists, and root out the poison nests of crime that infest this land."

"It takes a tragedy like this to shock the world into its senses. If the heart of this country, shocked by the pitiful remains of yonder little child in Hopewell, can only be galvanized into a vast determination to change the whole face of human society, to have millions make a vow to God as one man to come away from our worship of false gods and our alliance with lust and adultery and greed and our casual attitude toward lawlessness, then some blessing may be distilled from this cup of woe. Unless we react to this crime after some such manner, then woe to our country, for there is nothing left but surrender to crime and lust and communism, and the proud name of Columbia shall be brought low in the dust. Oh! That this foul and unspeakable murder might arouse anew this spirit of the real America, the spirit that made America, the spirit that was America!

"Let us begin with the children," he said. "The trouble with us is that we have reared up a generation of young men and young women who have no real sense of God and therefore no sense of responsibility to society. The training of children in the ethics of life and religion has either been wholly neglected in the home or they have been turned over to the innocuous training of our third-rate Sunday schools by parents who are bankrupt of their own faith and long since have shifted all responsibility for the well-being of the children whom they have brought into this world.

"Another answer to this crime can be regard for the law so far as we ourselves are concerned. It is our lawlessness that creates this moral atmosphere in which these crimes that so outrage society today thrive and prosper. Lawlessness has reached the proportions of a national calamity. I know it is the most popular pastime amongst us to dump all this lawlessness on the doorsill of prohibition, but, I tell you the trouble lies in the homes of fathers and mothers who have not the backbone nor the patriotic ardor nor the Christian courage to set our growing boys and girls an example. Every time you patronize a bootlegger you contribute to the moral atmosphere that makes these fearful crimes possible and you are participating hand in glove with Al Capone and all his lecherous crew.

"What this country needs is a great revival of genuine religion.

"Where shall this revival begin? Where else than in your lives and in mine?

'It's not my brother, it's not my mother,
It's not my sister, it's not my father;
It's me, O Lord!
Standin' in the need of prayer.'

"If your heart is hot with indignation over this tragedy at Hopewell and if your hands reach out to take hold upon something that you can do to change things, then there is one practical thing you can do. You can change your attitude toward God. 'And a little child shall lead them.'" gallery the likeness of the extortionist to whom he paid $50,000 ransom.

Dr. John F. Condon, the 72-year-old educator who tossed the packet of money to a man in the murky stillness of a cemetery near his New York home, appeared at New York police headquarters shortly after noon. He was accompanied by three men believed to be New Jersey detectives.

They went at once to the Bureau of Criminal Identification, where thousands of criminals' pictures were on file. Hours later they still were poring over photographs.

Gallery Search Futile.

When they finally emerged from the building, Dr. Condon made the statement:

"I couldn't do a thing."

Previously he had said he knew the name, nationality and physical characteristics of the man who perpetrated the hoax upon him.

Whether this man—and the five gang members with whom John Hughes Curtis and Col. Lindbergh himself negotiated—played a part in the kidnaping and murder or merely tried to commercialize a crime committed by others was the major moot question confronting officials.

In the words of Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf:

"Col. Lindbergh is actively cooperating with the police authorities and is assisting us in every way he can."

Colonel Thanks Jafsie.

Col. Lindbergh, in a letter made public today, in his behalf expressed the appreciation of himself and Mrs. Lindbergh for the efforts of Dr. Condon to return his kidnaped son. The letter follows:

"My Dear Mr. Condon:

"Mrs. Lindbergh and I want to thank you for the great assistance you have been to us. We fully realize that you have devoted the major portion of your time and energy to bring about the return of our son.

"We wish to express to you our sincere appreciation for your courage and cooperation. Sincerely,

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

Up and down the Eastern Coast today raced a flotilla of 25 cutters, some hundred smaller Government craft and a complement of airplanes, all heavily armed, in quest of the vessel used by the gang which tortured Col. Lindbergh with evasive reports about his son, whom they claimed to be their captive.

Have Description of Boat.

The Coast Guard searchers had a full description of the boat and the men, furnished them by Curtis through New Jersey officials.

They even knew the nicknames of the quintet whose boat for weeks had maneuvered up and down the seaboard, sending cryptic messages to Curtis and Col. Lindbergh, making appointments only to break them, harassing an already frantic father with messages of hope and then messages that plunged him into despair, leading him on until the very moment when he received the tragic news he would never see his first-born alive again.

The Coast Guard units were not reporting direct to the garage on the bleak Lindbergh estate, where the colonel was aiding crack detectives in mapping out the hunt. But arrangements had been made for receiving there the news of any important discovery.

Using a grand jury inquiry as his agency, District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, in New York City, looked forward to piecing together the complete narrative of the "Jafsie" negotiations, conducted in part through newspaper advertisements.

For assistance he said he would subpena Dr. Condon, Frank Rosenhaim, owner of a restaurant where Dr. Condon dines frequently; Al Reich, former boxer and bodyguard to Dr. Condon; Milton Gagilo, a friend of Rosenhaim's who drove Dr. Condon to the Lindbergh estate before the latter was empowered to act for the aviator, and an unidentified taxicab driver reputed to have delivered a note from the extortionists to Dr. Condon.

Meantime, the sunny spring weather brought long lines of automobiles into the Sourland countryside from all directions.

State troopers placed a barrier 2 miles from the Lindbergh estate on the only road leading into the grounds. All traffic was diverted.

Five miles away there was more congestion on the narrow road down which the kidnapers must have sped that windy March night with their helpless victim.

Across the road from the wooded section in which a truckman had spied the little skelton Thursday afternoon, a refreshment stand had been erected.

umpire most of my life and I'm used to settling arguments without weapons.'

"They all lowered their pistols except one fellow they called 'Doc.'

"'That may be all right,' he said, 'but there is a fixed penalty for the crime we've committed—50 years. We aren't going to take any chances. If you ever tell a soul about this meeting, we'll get you if it's the last thing we do.'

"They made no effort to conceal their faces. One of them talked with a German accent, one with an Italian, and another with a Spanish accent. I couldn't make out the nationalities of the other two.

"I asked John when he was going to show me the baby. But he said they had decided the day before to transfer the child to a hiding place ashore. It was at that time they promised to send me the baby's sleeping garment, which I received through the mail a few days later. They sent the exact kind the baby was wearing the night it was taken."

Dr. Condon was told that the gang had two women associates, one of whom newspapers identified as the woman who called on him in the Bronx with a message and later met him by appointment at the Tuckahoe, N. Y., railroad station with further instructions.

It was "John"—the German—who accepted the ransom payment, "Jafsie" added, and it was "John" he most distinctly remembers. He described the man as about 35 years old, a blond, about 5 feet 8 inches in height and of athletic build. He wore a cap several sizes too small and kept it pulled down low over his eyes.

Women's Benefit Group To Meet Mrs. M. W. Davis

The junior branch of the Women's Benefit Association will meet Mrs. Mabel West Davis, of Port Huron, Mich., sister of Mrs. Bina West Miller, the founder of the association, at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the clubrooms, in the Washington Loan & Trust Co. Building. A reception will be given her tonight at the same place.

FOREIGN PROPERTIES IN MEXICO MENACED

Hidalgo State Enacts Law to Confiscate Land "Needed for Public Utilities."

Mexico City, May 15 (A.P.).—American and British investments totaling several hundred millions of dollars are jeopardized by the new "public utility law" of the State of Hidalgo, Jose Cruz y Celis, president of the National Mexican Chamber of Commerce, declared today.

The law makes private property liable to confiscation "for public utility uses" on payment of 3 per cent of its value. Twenty years is allowed for payment of the other 97 per cent.

The measure provides that if the state government decides, after several years of control, that a property is not suitable as a "public utility," it may be returned to the private owners, who must reimburse the state for all payments made under the condemnation proceedings.

The chamber of commerce president said the law made it possible for the state to seize a rich mining property by paying only 3 per cent, work the rich ore veins, and then hand back the worthless remainder to the original owners. Hidalgo produces between 10 and 20 per cent of the world's silver.

"This is an assault against private ownership," he said. "It will cause serious menace to commerce and industry and the lack of confidence it promotes will have a lasting harmful effect. Under the lack of security resulting from this law, who would want to invest any capital in that state?"

He predicted the measure would be declared unconstitutional.

Mexican-Peruvian Break Fails to Affect Missions

(Associated Press.)

Rupture of diplomatic relations between Mexico and Peru did not appear yesterday to have affected their respective missions here in any way.

The countries have no direct negotiations pending. Their closest association at the moment is in the Chaco dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia. Mexico is one of the five neutral countries which are using good offices to bring these countries into agreement on a nonaggression pact. Peru is interested in the negotiations to the extent of having joined in approval of recent neutral action urging Bolivia and Paraguay to abandon warlike movements. Further than that, however, the Mexican Ambassador, Dr. Jose Miguel Guig Casaurano, and Peruvian Ambassador Manuel de Freyre y Santander have not been in especial contact with each other.

Both are interested in avoiding an American copper tariff, having sent memoranda to the State Department. A recent move in Lima to unite Latin America against the United States tariff, especially on copper, has not been taken seriously by most observers here.

HOOVER IS EXPECTED TO GET NEEDED VOTES

convention votes by capturing possibly all of the following: Kansas, 20; New Mexico, 6; Montana, 8; South Carolina, 18; Vermont, 8; District of Columbia, 6; Tennessee, 24; Oregon, 10, and Nevada, 6.

Those in Oregon and the District of Columbia will be selected in primaries; the others in State conventions.

Reputedly Favors Young.

Gov. Roosevelt has no delegates in the field in New Jersey. The delegation will be uninstructed but controlled by Mayor Hague, who is allied with Mr. Smith. He reputedly favors Owen D. Young, however, as his first choice for the presidential nomination and either Newton D. Baker or Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, as his second.

Mr. Roosevelt will come to grips again in Oregon's primary on Friday with Gov. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma, over whom he has already scored smashing triumphs.

In all, 154 Democratic delegates will be chosen this week to bring their total to 960. This will leave only 194 to complete their convention total.

President Hoover, who needs only 44 more pledged votes to cinch renomination, is expected by his managers to pick up these easily out of the 87 Republican delegates to be selected during the week as follows:

New Jersey, 35; Montana, 11; Alabama, 19; Vermont, 9, and Oregon, 13.

G. O. P.'s Big Problem Is Rum.

Little interest attaches to the Republican selections. What to do about prohibition is the biggest problem confronting the party in power.

The statement of Postmaster Geu-eral Brown in Toledo Saturday night that the antiprohibition victories in the Ohio primary probably would have a definite influence on the shaping of the party platform was read here with interest, but no comment was forthcoming.

The prohibitionists maintained Mr. Brown was opposed to the eighteenth amendment himself and he might have been expressing a hope rather than a conviction.

"The national convention will adopt a platform to which we all can subscribe," Mr. Brown said after a meeting of the Lucas County Republican central committee.

He told interviewers his statement could be interpreted to mean that the convention will take some action acceptable to those desiring a change in the prohibition laws.

Women Are "Plank Conscious."

A statement that the American woman "for the first time in her political history has become plank-conscious" was sent yesterday from prohibition defenders to President Hoover.

The law observance committee announced the statement was turned over to Walter Newton, one of the White House secretaries, to be transmitted to the Chief Executive.

This was done, said a statement, "in order that the President himself might see how the minds of large, influential groups of women were riveted on securing an enforcement plank in the coming party platform."

The committee is headed by Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, Mrs. William Tilton and Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong. The announcement said the statement to the President had appended telegrams from Frank Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher; the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Women's Missionary Society, Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Country Editor Publishing Co., Staten Island, and many others.

Crusaders Support Beer Tax Proposal

(Associated Press.)

Support "to the utmost" of the O'Connor-Hull bill for a tax on 2.75 per cent beer was announced last night by the Crusaders, antiprohibition organization.

Rufus S. Lusk, executive vice commander, in a statement said the certainty of a record vote on the measure, which will be voted on in the House next Monday as a result of a petition signed by 145 members to call it up, "is another sign of the onrushing collapse of prohibition."

An erroneous announcement Saturday by a House clerk placed the name of Hancock (Democrat), North Carolina, instead of Hancock (Republican), New York, upon the petition for a vote to legalize and tax 2.75 per cent beer.

NICARAGUA REGRETS KILLING OF MARINES

President Moncada Calls on Followers to Prevent Future Casualties.

Mobilization of native authority in Nicaragua to prevent the killing of American Marines there has recently been inaugurated by President Moncada, it was learned here yesterday. The Charge d'Affaires of the Nicaraguan Legation, Dr. Luis Manuel Debayle, announced that the President of Nicaragua has deplored the insurgent activity of Sandino sympathizers, who have been responsible for the recent casualties in the marines.

Dr. Debayle made available the text of a recent speech of the president and declared:

"President Moncada has determined to prevent the deaths of the American marines now in Nicaragua by summoning the people of Nicaragua to the defense of their homes against the incursions of the Sandino bandits."

The President of Nicaragua, who has always remained extremely friendly to the United States by his personal friendship with Secretary of State Stimson, will not be a candidate for reelection this year. In his recent speech the president said:

"I believe that the marines have done us a great favor by their moral, political and civilizing influence. I shall always be happy to remember that the American Nation has been an influence for good in our country, but, in another sense, we should demonstrate to the American Nation that they do not need to die for us. Always, whenever a home is attacked, when women are violated, it should not be strangers, but the son, the husband, or the father who is called upon to defend the hearth.

"It is our duty to be patriots. We owe more to Nicaragua than to anyone. Nicaragua is our mother and as such we should defend her."

12 Kept Ignorant Of Baby's Slaying

Prejudice Fear Is Basis for Keeping Chicago Kidnap Jury Uninformed.

Chicago, May 15 (A.P.).—There are at least twelve men in the United States who haven't heard the Lindbergh baby is dead—and probably will not hear of it for several weeks.

They are the jurors in the trial of four alleged members of a kidnaping syndicate which preyed on wealthy victims throughout the Midwest. Attorneys fear they might be prejudiced against the defendants by the news.

The jurors were locked up over the week-end and the trial adjourned for two days because of public indignation after finding of the child's body.

The defendants are Ward C. Swalwell, former assistant prosecutor of Cook County; John Pingera, Edward Finnen and William Thomas. They are accused of kidnaping Dr. and Mrs. Max Gecht. Mrs. Gecht laid the police trap that brought about their capture.

Baptist Convention Is Near Labors' End

Preachers Tell Thousands Lord Is Calling World Back to Religion.

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 15 (A. P.). Its budget-making and revenue labors ended, the Southern Baptist convention today turned aside from routine sessions to hear inspirational sermons by outstanding ministers. At an open meeting the thousands of delegates and visitors listened to Dr. George W. Truett, of Dallas, and Dr. W. R. White, of Nashville.

Dr. Truett declared the trumpet of the Lord was sounding how to call the world back to the fold of Christianity, peace and progress. He urged a heeding of this call to overcome the problems of a world which he described as torn in governmental, social, educational, moral, religious, economic and industrial structure.

The world shoved itself up to a false feeling of great prosperity, Dr. White declared, and thereby strayed from the right track. "We were caught by the spirit of the times and not the spirit of the Lord," he said. "The world needs to come back to whree it got off the track."

Wet Speech Sent Dry's Constituents

(Associated Press.)

The House of Representatives postoffice is busy apologizing for mixing the mail of Representative Britten, of Illinois, an antiprohibitionist, and Representative Abernethy, of North Carolina, a dry.

The North Carolinian recently had placed in the Congressional Record an address by him and ordered a number of copies sent to his congressional district. The envelope bore his name and the title of the address: "A Heart to Heart Talk With My Constituents."

However, when the envelopes reached North Carolina the recipients found inclosed a vigorous attack on prohibition by Britten. The House postoffice issued a formal statement that the incident was accidental.

ARCHIE ROOSEVELT RAPPED FOR "GIFT"

Cash Bonus Foe Assailed by Patman in $807,246 Mail Contract.

(Associated Press.)

A response to recently expressed opposition to the cash bonus for veterans by Archibald Roosevelt came yesterday from Representative Patman (Democrat), Texas, in the charge that Mr. Roosevelt had received since 1930 gifts from the Government amounting to $779,004.

Mr. Roosevelt, son of the former President, heads the national economy committee which recently also urged a reduction in what its members consider unwarranted Government payments to former service men. Mr. Roosevelt is himself a veteran.

Mr. Patman, a leader in the fight for payment of the bonus, said the shipping company of which Mr. Roosevelt was part owner and director, obtained in 1930 a ten-year contract from the Government to carry the mail from Baltimore to Hamburg.

"To date the Government has actually paid by reason of that contract the sum of $807,246," Mr. Patman said in a statement. "Other steamship lines would have rendered the same service for not to exceed $28,242. Therefore, Mr. Roosevelt's company received a gift from the Government amounting to $779,004."

Mr. Patman said Mr. Roosevelt was jointly interested with J. P. Morgan in several ship lines which have contracts to carry Government mail, and that similar situations prevailed there.

Announcing he expects to start a movement in the House within a few days to prevent further payments on ocean mail contracts, Mr. Patman said: "It violates every sense of decency for a group of persons receiving such gifts from the Government to ask that insurance benefits, which the veterans paid for with their own money, and hospital benefits for the disabled be cut off or reduced."

SENATE WILL BEGIN 12-HOUR DAY TODAY

Hoover. It will resume its work today.

Opposition has developed among both Republicans and Democrats to the President's proposal to double the bonding facilities of the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finnance Corporation for the purpose of making loans for such "self-liquidating" city and municipal projects as bridges and tunnels to provide jobs.

Smaller Bond Issue Likely.

A straightout Government $2,000,000,000 bond issue, such as Robihson proposed, seems more acceptable in most quarters. There is general agreement, however, for a fund of about $300,000,000, to be supplied either by bond issue or from the Reconstruction Corporation, for direct relief through loans to States. A compromise seems likely.

Suggestion of the unemployment relief proposal inspires new ideas, while other issues continue to provoke congressional tempers.

Representative Fiorello LaGuardia (Republican), New York, suggested in a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, made public last night, that the construction relief project include loans for building homes. Such construction, he said, could start immediately, while other projects might be delayed. Some cities have many empty apartments, he conceded, but that, he added, is because rents are too high.

Veterans Held Coerced.

Aroused over attempts to reduce compensation for war veterans as part of an economy program, John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, declared in a statement last night that most of the form letters from war veterans to members of Congress urging such a course are due to orders from large corporations for which they are employed. Employers have coerced them, he said.

SYMPATHY OF U.S. CABLED TO JAPAN

(United Press.)

The assassination of Premier Inukai of Japan, culminating a long series of violent and sanguinary political episodes in the Far East and Europe recently, caused deep distress to officials here.

Returning last night from his visit to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, Secretary of State Stimson expressed shock at the assassination. "My sympathies go to his family," the Secretary told newspapermen at the station.

Acting Secretary of State Castle promptly instructed American charge d'affaires at Tokyo, Edwin L. Neville: "Please express to foreign office on behalf of American Government and people deep sympathy with the Japanese government and people in this hour of national bereavement."

The attack on the premier and accompanying violent incidents in Tokyo were officially regarded here as an internal political affair of Japan, and there were no reports of antiforeign manifestations, or of danger to Americans or the embassy.

Developments in the capital of Japan were disquieting here to the extent that they suggested a badly strained domestic political situation which might tend to affect adversely the international attempts now in progress to establish a harmonious international situation across the Pacific.

Reports that the attacking party consisted of members of a "young officers association" gave special significance to the assassination, since this organization is said to have represented itself as opposing weakness and corruption in government. Pending further information, therefore, there was an uneasy feeling among international observers that a radical Fascist movement might be developing in Japan.

Reports to the State Department from Mr. Neville revealed that the attack on Premier Inukai was not an isolated incident.

Japanese Embassy officials minimized the political significance of the outbreak. They said it did not represent a general Fascist movement, but was an effort of a small group of young radical officers who wanted to precipitate a military dictatorship.

This group, it was said, has not hitherto attracted serious attention, and therefore wanted to make a demonstration. Embassy officials anticipated the prompt resumption of tranquillity and continued public order in Tokyo.

Revival of 1917-18 Tactics Expected to Dispel Slump

By JOHN J. DALY

As the Nation used emergency tactics during the war, the Federal Government now invokes the same measures to battle the economic situation and scatter the depression.

It means getting the slump out of the trenches by Christmas.

It means a draft on optimism, the spirit of youth and of '76 alike, to follow the flag—getting Americans to believe in America, the invincible glory of the good old U. S. A.

It means the calling out of the citizen army to chase gloom away, to rid the Nation of the invasion of fear.

* * * *

REVIVAL of the old slogans used during the war might help some:

Keep your head down, Depression.

The Marines have landed and the situation is well in hand.

Prosperity, Here We Come.

And it might mean, too, the enlistment of the 4-Minute Men, eating 3-minute eggs for breakfast and making 1-minute speeches every minute on the minute.

It would be well to mobilize men and machinery, in this war, the men scrapping machinery—the cause of all the trouble—instead of machinery scrapping men.

Flags flying, bedecked with service stars.

Do your bit, and pay your dues and taxes.

It means swinging the "big guns" into action—big business men lifting industry from the flat of its back.

* * * *

IT MEANS, by and large, a clarion call to the colors. Then, as the manhood—the flower—of the Nation starts off down the line, swinging into step, mothers, sisters and sweethearts standing on the sidelines, the band will strike up and the boys will sing that grand old marchine song, to the tune of "The Long, Long Trail:"

There is long, long green a-growing
Out in the land of our dreams,
Where prosperity is flowing
And a bank roll gleams;
There's a grand old total-summing
That will make our dreams come true
On the day when we'll be coming
With that long, long green for you.

PREMIER OF JAPAN IS KILLED IN TOKYO REIGN OF TERROR

strong military precautions throughout the nation. All important buildings in Tokyo were placed under military guard.

Finance Minister Korekiyo Takahashi became acting premier pending official resignation of the cabinet, which was decided upon as a result of the premier's death.

Although there have been evidences of widespread reactionary and Fascist activity in Japan, the outbreak on Sunday was entirely unexpected. The capital was quiet and nearby resorts were crowded by care-free crowds when the militarists began their violent demonstration aided by crowds of civilians.

The United Press correspondent was standing near the Mitsubishi Bank when one of the four or five automobiles involved sped past. One of the occupants of the car rose and hurled a bomb at the bank. It was small and did little damage, but exploded with a terrific roar. The demonstrators apparently desired to cause terror rather than damage.

Two of the automobiles converged on the premier's home. Six men got out. Two entered from the front and four from the rear.

The front door group broke into the house, where the premier was entertaining guests. They demanded to see him at once.

"He must meet our leader," one of them said, "here, near the door."

Surrender Immediately.

The four others joined them from the rear. All carried pistols. One man was a naval lieutenant, another a sublieutenant. The others were in army uniform.

As they stood there, threatening the servants, the premier walked calmly to the entrance. More than ever in the face of a crisis he was the calm, imperturbable leader, veteran of almost half a century of political activity.

He saw the pistols and asked them not to shoot, offering to hear their complaints. But when one of the men began to address the premier their leader cut him short and gave the command to open fire.

Two men seized the premier by the shoulders. He could offer no resistance. A pistol cracked and the ball struck Inukai in the temple. The pistol was raised again and a second bullet struck him in the nostril.

There was more shooting. A guest, named Tanaka, was wounded. Then the gunmen walked back to their automobile.

In a final gesture of defiance as they drove away, one of them hurled a bomb at the premier's house. The assassins went immediately to police headquarters and surrendered.

Loyal to Emperor.

The premier was unconscious, dying of his wounds. Physicians hurried to his home; the cabinet members met in extraordinary session at his bedside.

A blood transfusion gave hope that he would rally, but the bullet wounds proved too much for a man of his age and at midnight he died.

Meanwhile, the terrorists had continued their raids through Tokyo, distributing National Socialist or Fascist propaganda, which said:

"Down with the disloyalists. Up with the emperor. End the old corrupt political leaders. Down with the financial oligarchy. Down with privilege. We are nationalists—neither of the left nor right.

"We want restoration of the imperial power. Direct action is necessary to save the country."

At 5:40 p. m. one of the automobiles raced up to the central police station. A bomb was thrown and exploded. Shots were fired, injuring a policeman and a newspaperman. A few minutes later another car sped past the office of the newspaper Osaka Mainichi, which was bombed. The official residence of the foreign minister was damaged by another bomb.

Many Fascist Factions.

Army officers hurriedly redoubled the guard around the imperial palace to protect the emperor.

Two bombs were thrown in front of the Seiyukai party headquarters and another struck in front of the residence of Count Makino, but without causing any damage. Two bombs were thrown at the residence of Admiral Suzuki, where two policemen were wounded.

Demonstrations were breaking out in various districts, but the violence aroused only a small number of supporters and the situation was soon under control. Advices from the provinces said they were calm.

There are many Fascist-like factions in Japan, including the Kokuhonsha, or National Foundation Society; the Dai Nippon Kokusuikai Sohonbu, or National Spirit Preservation Society, and the Shuyo, or Loyalty Federation. Baron Hiranuma is president of the Kokuhonsha and the Shuyo.

War Minister Confers.

War Minister Sadao Araki returned from Kamakura, where he was spending Sunday, and ordered all important offices, banks, utilities and the homes of millionaires put under guard. He attended the cabinet meeting and then was received by the emperor, with whom he discussed the situation for 20 minutes.

Later, it was disclosed that the demonstrators also shot Z. Nishida, one of the former leaders of the reactionary society, "Blood Brotherhood," which was responsible for the assassinations of Junnosuke Inouye, the famous Japanese finance minister, and Baron Takuma Dan, noted industrialist, in March.

It was believed Nishida had betrayed the organization at the time of the Dan and Inouye murders.

W. C. Forbes Shocked At Slaying of Premier

West Point, N. Y., May 15 (A.P.).—W. Cameron Forbes, former Ambassador to Japan, who was visiting the Military Academy today to address the corps of cadets on the Philippine Islands, said when informed of Premier Inukai's assassination:

"I am greatly shocked to hear the sad news. I had hoped we had seen an end of assassination of high officials in Japan. Inukai was a personal friend who had always treated me with great courtesy and consideration. I regard his death as a great loss to his country."

SOVIET'S ALUMINUM PLANT STARTS TASK

Important Link in Five-Year Plan Expected to Make Supply Sufficient.

Moscow, May 15 (U.P.).—The enthusiastic prediction that the Soviet Union soon would be independent of foreign aluminum producers was made today in connection with the opening of the first Russian aluminum plant at Volkhov, near Leningrad. The plant is an important part in fulfillment of the Soviet's five-year plans.

The press hailed the opening with optimistic predictions of its success and declared that, at the end of the second five-year plan, it would be producing 200,000 tons of aluminum annually. This would be equal to about three-quarters of the present world production.

The first complete report on industries throughout Russia in April disclosed both successes and failures in the nation's desperate race to complete the five-year plan this year—the fourth.

The oil, coal and steel output for April struck a blow to the government's hopes when it fell behind the output for March.

On the other hand, production of iron was substantially increased, although it is still somewhat below schedule. More serious than the iron situation, however, was the fact that the April report showed a lower production of textiles and in other light industrials as well as a failure to raise the quality of these goods.

The government recently has made every effort to force the various light industries to increase efficiency and to bring their organizations up to schedule. The leadership in these industries has been severely criticized and changes have been made frequently in an effort to improve both quality and quantity in conformity with the plans laid down by the government.

INUKAI ARDENT FOE OF MILITARY GROUP

Nakaoka by name, was inspired to attack Hara with a knife at a railway station by the bitter recriminations of the opposition press, according to the Japanese-owned English paper, the Japan Times.

Hara was head of the Seiypukai party, as was Inukai, and like Inukai was a great political organizer. His maneuvering in 1920 gave the Seiyukai group the greatest advantage any Liberal party had had in many years.

The death of that premier cracked the party from end to end and its power crumbled gradually until 1924 when the few remaining nuclei burst apart.

Soon there appeared the Minseito, another liberal party, which gathered its strength from the shattered Seiyukai groups and the Kensei-Kai, a minority faction.

What the Seiyukai needed was strong, trustworthy leadership. Inukai, a veteran of the birth of representative government in Japan back in 1880, stepped into the breach.

As a member of the Kakushin Club (Reformists), which traced its origin back to the famous progressive party of the late Count Okuma, Inukai was one of those who had worked with the Seiyukai against the bureaucrats at the turn of the century.

So Inukai was persuaded to draw back into the Seiyukai fold those who had strayed away. He was so successful that in the crisis of 1929 he was elected to the presidency of the party, which was tantamount to the premiership if the party came into power.

The opportunity came in 1931. As two ministers of the loosely knit Minseito fell in rapid succession, much of the Minseito strength, which had formerly been Seiyukai, was attracted to Inukai.

Minseito Cabinet Dissolved.

Meanwhile the new Minseito cabinet, headed by Reijiro Wakatsuki was torn by dissension. The Manchurian issue and the economic depression did their part.

The retrenchment policies of the Minseito finance minister, Junnosuke Inouye, who himself was assassinated, were causing disagreement among the ministers.

The Wakatsuki cabinet fell, and the only surviving elder statesman, Prince Saionji, whose advice always is sought by the emperor, suggested that Inukai try his hand at a government.

Inukai scorned coalition, and from the newly welded Saiyukai drew every minister except war and navy. He accomplished a successful combination within 24 hours.

In this year's election, the old gray fox, Inukai, and his Seiyukai were returned to power with 301 of the 466 seats in the House. Except for differences on military policies, he successfully weathered several storms in the House. The gold embargo and a policy of mild inflation were inaugurated.

Inukai was born in April, 1855, of prominent parents, in the town of Okayama-Ken, in the far southwestern part of the main Japanese Island of Hondo.

Editor of Tokyo Newspaper.

He spent his early youth in the exclusive private university, Keio, in Tokyo, and married the daughter of an outstanding resident of the capital.

He was editor of the Hochi Shimbun, large Tokyo newspaper, in the days when the late Emperor Meiji was preparing to give the Japanese representative government.

He took a large interest in the first political campaigns that culminated in the first representative ministry of 1890.

Before that, however Inukai had started the Tokai Economic Magazine, and strongly advocated trade protection, a principle for which he stood until his death.

He was elected to the House of Representatives in 1890 from his native Okayama-Ken prefecture and served in the House in that capacity until the end.

He was minister of education in 1888, and once held the portfolio of communications. He wielded strong power behind the scenes in many political maneuvers, and had the reputation of being, as the Japan Times has put it, "a veteran politician of stanch principles and strong character."

U. S. Prelate Preaches in Vatican City

Vatican City, May 15 (A.P.).—Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, of San Francisco, preached today at the American Catholic Church of Santa Susanna. On Thursday the archbishop expects to leave on a tour of ancient churches at Perugia, Sienna and Assisi. When that is completed he will go to Dublin for the Eucharistic Congress.

Civil Liberties Union Members Quit Kentucky

Knoxville, Tenn., May 15 (A.P.).—Members of the American Civil Liberties Union, headed by Arthur Garfield Hays, were en route home today after a futile attempt to enter the southeastern Kentucky coal fields.

Barred from entering Bell County, Ky., when told by officials that bloodshed might follow their visit, the group, which included Mr. Hays and Dudley Field Malone, returned to London, Ky. Advised there they must leave in four hours, Mr. Hays and six of the party came to Knoxville by train. All expressed the opinion their trip had proved that "civil liberties do not exist in the southeastern Kentucky coal regions."

LEBRUN ASKS PRESS TO AID WORLD PEACE

French President Pleads for Tolerance; Cites Need of Understanding.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)

Paris, May 15.—A clear understanding of international affairs has never been more necessary than it is today in facing the world's vital problems, President Albert Lebrun declared in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

The new president of the French republic voiced a plea for a tolerant world press "to make it possible to live peacefully in this world."

"The world press has a preponderant role to play in stabilizing world peace and world economics," he said. "Never has a clear understanding of international events been more necessary than at present."

Lebrun, elected to the presidency last week to succeed the assassinated Paul Doumer, was in the midst of pressing duties which have filled the first few days of his term. Pending removal to the Elysee Palace this week, he has continued to work in his old office where he conducted business while president of the senate.

The president's statements regarding international understanding closely followed a declaration made to the United Press by Edouard Herriot, who may be the next premier, that the foreign policy of France in the future would be based on close cooperation with liberals in the United States.

Lebrun said he expected to carry out the program which Doumer had outlined for this summer. This includes fourteen official visits to the provinces, starting tomorrow. The ceremonies for this week, however, have been postponed until August.

The new president expressed regret that tradition obliges him to be almost a prisoner within the garden walls of Elysee Palace for the next seven years.

Laborites Beaten In Australia Vote

United Party in Landslide Wins Election; Premier Hogan Returned.

Melbourne, Australia, May 15 (A.P.).—Victoria's Labor government is expected to resign Wednesday after seeing its majority in the house of assembly swept away by a United Australian party landslide in Saturday's state election.

Latest returns indicated the final party standing in the new assembly will be: United Australian party, 33; Labor, 15; Country party, 14; Independent Labor, 2; Independent, 1; total, 65.

Premier E. J. Hogan, who was returned by acclamation, lost all except one of his supporters as the remainder of the Labor group went over to the extremist cause of Thomas Tunpicliffe, who has been acting premier.

G. C. Webber, minister without portfolio in the Labor government, and H. S. Bailey, minister of mines, were defeated, and incomplete returns indicated Attorney General William Slater and R. T. Pollard, minister without portfolio, would lose their seats.

One Killed, 2 Hurt, 16 Held in Rum War

Woman Arrested as Slayer When Rival Factions Battle 36 Hours.

Toledo, Ohio, May 15 (A.P.).—Warfare between rival liquor interests that had blazed intermittently for the last 36 hours, came to a climax early today and final accounting by police revealed one man dead, two wounded and sixteen persons, including a woman, under arrest.

Mrs. Mabel Candela, a cousin of the two wounded victims, was arrested and charged with shooting to death John Incorvaia, 33, when he entered her house, pistol blazing, in search of the wounded men. She claimed self-defense, detectives said.

The climax occurred when Andrew Ferrera, 32, of Detroit, Mich.; Sam Ferrera, 41, and George Bessese were subjected to a barrage of shotgun slugs from a passing automobile as they sat in a car parked at the curb before Mrs. Candela's house.

Andrew was hit in the arm and Sam Ferrera's eyes were injured by flying glass. They escaped to the Candela cellar. The attacking party halted and Incorvaia was dispatched to the house alone to complete the job. He was killed when he entered, pistol in hand.

McKellar, in Hospital, Is Reported Improved

(Associated Press.)

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, was declared out of danger of an attack of pneumonia, and his condition was reported improved yesterday at Emergency Hospital, where he was taken Saturday.

The senator was ordered to bed after collapsing as a result of overwork. He has been leading an economy drive in the Senate, and was a member of the special economy committee working day and night in the formulation of a bill.

NOTABLES ATTEND OXFORD GATHERING

Meeting of Group Is First of Series to Be Conducted at Shoreham Hotel.

A distinguished and cosmopolitan audience last night attended the series of meetings being conducted here by leaders of the Oxford group movement at the Shoreham Hotel. The movement is described as embracing a modernized version of their tenets of the New Testament.

Justice Harlan Fiske Stone, of the United States Supreme Court, members of Congress and Diplomatic Corps, clergymen, educators and Army and Navy officers, were in the throng which attended the gathering.

Francis Elliston, young Oxford graduate, was one of the speakers, who drew the rapt attention of his audience. Mr. Elliston told of the mental processes experienced by himself which led to his accepting the principles embodied in the movement drawing its designation from his alma mater.

Baroness Lillian van Heeckeren, of De Steeg, Holland, spoke of progress among the Dutch people of the new movement.

Carl Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture during the administration of President Wilson, was among the speakers. He said that the Oxford movement is the answer "to the present world crisis," and that its universal acceptance would bring about a large measure of world tranquillity.

Other speakers were Col. Hugh Belgrave, retired British army officer, who, with Mrs. Belgrave, addressed the gathering. Col. Belgrave told of experiences during the Boer War in South Africa and recounted incidents which he said indicated to him the feasibility of the new movement.

A Post reporter was informed by members of the 22 Britons who came here recently to advance their cause here that there is "nothing new" about their theories. One of them said that "out of self, into Christ, into others" is an apt condensation of their ideas.

3 Explosions Cause Of $500,000 Fire

Business Area of Illinois Town Is Swept; Four Firemen Hurt.

Centralia, Ill., May 15 (A.P.).—Fire, which started from three terrific explosions of undetermined origin in a furniture store here early today, destroyed seven business buildings, damaged four others, and for a time threatened the entire business district.

The flames were brought under control after three hours, with an estimated loss of more than $500,000. Four firemen were burned slightly while fighting the flames.

Seven large brick buildings were destroyed, and four others, including the Centralia Sentinel Building, were badly damaged. Flying embers, carried by a high wind, ignited buildings as far as three blocks away. Sixteen business establishments were wiped out. Fire departments from Mount Vernon, Salem, Carlyle and Sandoval responded to calls for aid.

$25,000 Theft Laid To Banker's Cook

E. F. Hyde's Former Butler Also Accused of Robbing His Home.

New York, May 15 (A.P.).—Elizabeth Hopkins, for eleven years a cook in the home of E. Francis Hyde, retired banker, was held in $5,000 bail today on a charge of grand larceny.

With Andrew Nygard, Mr. Hyde's former butler, she is charged with robbing the 90-year-old banker of $30,000 worth of furniture, antiques and jewelry in the past six years. Both were dismissed April 6, police said, for intoxication. Nygard will be arraigned tomorrow.

The first estimate of the property allegedly stolen by Nygard and Miss Hopkins was $100,000. This was reduced to $30,000, of which Miss Hopkins is alleged to have taken $25,000.

Police said the two had worked independently, but each was aware of what the other was doing. Not until detectives began to investigate the ownership of the property stored in a warehouse were the thefts discovered.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE rental and purchase figures offered to Columbia in their taking over of Station WJSV, in the vicinity of Washington, indicates a sharp rise in the value of radio stations here.

It has been learned from authoritative sources that the rental price for WJSV, a 10,000-watt station, is $20,000 a year for the first five years, and $40,000 a year for the next ten years.

Station WJSV, it is understood, has been offered for sale outright to Columbia for $400,000 if purchased within the first five years, and $600,000 within the next five years, and $800,000 within the following five years, or fifteen years hence.

This is in striking contrast with a value of $20,000 set upon Station WRC, in Washington, built by the Radio Corporation, but now owned by the NBC. Perhaps double that amount was spent at the time remodeling the old ship transmitter which the station still uses.

When the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co sought a raise in rates about eight years ago, it reported the value of Station WCAP, which was then owned by that company, but ceased operations when the telephone company went out of the broadcasting business, as $90,000.

IT is known that M. A. Leese, owner of Station WMAL, has been offered $250,000—some say more—for his station, which uses only 250-watt power, but has a very good wave.

That being true and anyone with sufficient imagination to assume WRC could be bought from the NBC might easily attribute a value to it of $300,000 upward, depending upon how badly the purchaser wanted the station. The figure might easily be hiked up to a half million.

When Station WEAF in New York was sold for $1,000,000, it was figured that $200,000 of that was for equipment and $800,000 for the wave length and station contracts. That is probably about the right proportion in any radio sale. The Federal Radio Commission, to the contrary notwithstanding, it is really the wave lengths which are being bought and sold—the free air which the people are supposed to own.

Tribute will be paid to Gen. Jose de Martin, Argentine liberator, by the Sons of the American Revolution during ceremonies to be heard both in this country and Argentina tomorrow, beginning at 4:30 p. m. Addresses by Dr. Felice A. Espil, Argentine Ambassador and Judge Josiah Van Orsdel, of the Sons of the American Revolution, and music by a United States service band will be shortwaved to South America through Station WGY, Schenectady. Listeners in Washington will hear the broadcast through Station WRC.

AN innovation will be introduced in the Wilkins Coffee Quarter-hour tonight. In cooperation with the American Legion, a job auction will be held. The legion will furnish Herluf Provensen, regular announcer of the program, with a list of the names of men who are in desperate need of employment. Provensen will go over the list before the microphone, describing the qualifications of each applicant. Listeners will be asked to call up Francis Miller, of the legion, at Station WRC, immediately following the broadcast, advising him of any odd jobs they may have which these men could do about the home or office. Each man will be given a number and the first person requesting his number will be given preference.

Effect of the Government economy program on the American merchant marine will be the subject of an address by Senator Frederick Steiwer, of Oregon, during the National Radio Forum program tonight (WRC, 9 p. m.).

The third act of the opera, "Siegfried," from Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs," is scheduled to be heard from Covent Garden, London, at 4 p. m. today via WMAL. Sir Thomas Beecham will direct the orchestra.

The first act of Wagner's "The Flying Dutchman" is scheduled for Wednesday, 2 p. m., over WRC, also direct from Covent Garden.

LENORE ROMNEY, who will be heard again on WRC at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, revealed a versatile acquaintance with bards ancient and modern in a new feature, "Poetical Hitchhiking," inaugurated last Tuesday. So often readers are stilted and affected, but Mrs. Romney spoke naturally and in a pleasing manner, which will doubtless assure a wide audience.

"Mrs. Romney, poetry reader, and WRC are to be congratulated for inaugurating a new poetry program over the air," writes a listener. "Poetry is becoming more and more popular day by day, especially here in the National Capital, where there are 80 poets with thousands of followers."

Cliff Edwards, stage and screen star, known as "Ukulele Ike," will make his debut as conductor of a novelty orchestra in a series of six broadcasts, starting tomorrow (WRC, 6:30 p. m.). Many of his stage and moving picture hits, including "Singin' in the Rain," will be presented during his microphone appearances.

"CHEERIO" temporarily adopted a new role when he appeared as an announcer during a recent program. He introduced a friend, Mrs. Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of governors of the Westchester Choral Society, who spoke on "Music." * * * Ignace Paderewski, speaking in behalf of his native Poland and world peace, will be heard over WRC Wednesday, 9:30 p. m., when a Polish dinner is broadcast. * * * WMAL has scheduled a broadcast of The Bouquet, a Belmont track event, tomorrow, 2:15 p. m. * * * George Burns and Gracie Allen will be with Guy Lombardo when he takes the air tonight, WMAL, 9 o'clock. * * * "Mona Lisa," the hit song from the Continental musical comery, "Bow Bell," will be featured by Jack Kerr, tenor, tomorrow night, WMAL, 9 o'clock. * * * "Chloe," "That's Why Darkies Were Born" and "Valentine's Farewell," from "Faust" are among the songs selected by Lawrence Tibbett, barytone, for tonight's broadcast. * * * Bernt Balchen, Norwegian-American aviator, will be guest speaker with the Gypsies tonight (WRC, 8 o'clock). * * * Howard Claney, who makes a hobby of painting, is doing portraits of several of his fellow announcers. * * * Arkansas will be honored in the "Parade of the States" tonight, and hill-billy songs will dominate the program * * * Johnny Marvin will be featured with Hugo Marini over WRC beginning this morning.

The announcers and artists at WMAL are having a chance to hear how they sound on the air. The boys in the radio store underneath the station are recording most of the local programs and presenting the disks to the performers as soon as they are through. So far they have made records of the Army and Navy Bands, Stanley Bell, Frank Young and Leonard Davis.

PRIOR to having it sung on the radio, a song writer took a composition to the copyright office in Washington and said to the man at the desk: "I want to have this song copyrighted."

"Song?" the copyright attendant queried. "We do not know what a song is here."

It was then explained to him that the author wanted to copyright the words and music.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

And a delightful spring afternoon coat in greige woolen, with tiny capelet of leopard. (Courtesy of Maison Heim, Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 15.—The first news of fall fabrics and colors has come from Paris—and I just have to pause this bright early summer day and tell you about it all!

Greige, you know—that grayish-beige, or that beigy gray? Well, this color is, of course, one of the best for this summer, and perhaps as a consequence the fabric manufacturers are making it in a darker shade for fall!

Brown may not be a new idea for autumn—but that it is far from out of the picture might interest you. Browns of the dark, rich, almost black shades will be made this month and worn this fall. If any tone is best in fall browns, it is rose—but if any is not good, it is greenish brown—which is not to be confused with blue brown!

The only blues we should have for fall are those of sapphire and bright navy. For the fabric weavers think that the extreme popularity of all blues for this summer will mean that the very elegant women will be a bit tired of them by fall. True it is that a lovely lady who indulges largely in blue for this season will hardly repeat the color in her fall wardrobe!

And there the prediction rests. Because fabric makers being the ones who naturally set the styles, in color at least, can not decide whether Miladi will be about ready to whole-heartedly accept bright, hard colors—or be tired of them and look for deep, rich autumn shades. So—if I am allowed to go a bit further—I say that you can choose which ever you wish, and which ever suits you best, and be quite sure to be in the right!

* * * *

Oh yeah! Pajamas for only $1.95! So we took the 50,000 nickels—and bought tons of 'em f. Dawn Mirage, with some sort of an idea in mind that we would be saving Paris pajamas thereby. And what happened? They fit like—well, they won't let me say what in this collom—and what then? We tried to take 'em back and couldn't—and got so-o-o-o-o-o mad and finally compromised by getting credit on 'em and making some pajamas that fit. It just made me believe that you, too, might like to have a basic pajama pattern that would actually fit and be flattering to your figure—one that could be used for house pajamas, or lounging, or even sleeping pajamas. So we ups an' made a leaflet telling you how to make real pajamas—and the leaflet is yours for sending a stamped, self addressed enelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post.

* * * *

I have always loved leopard! And when Mamzelle sends us from Paris some "croquis" from Heim, one showing a spring afternoon coat in greige woollen with leopard capelet, I just had to sit right down an' sketch it for you. That one is on the smaller figure, and on the larger figure is a black woollen tailleur from the same house, with a separate scarf of black galliac. They call it a cravat in French!

* * * *

Fashion French Pronounciation

A "croquis" is pronounced "croak-ee" with the emphasis about evenly distributed on both syllables. And it means "rough sketch" or "rough outline" or "design." You will be asked if you wish a "croquis" of a model that is suggested for your own special self—that is, if you are important enough to have a special design made for you at all!

Au revoir!

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

BATHING SUIT SEASON WILL SOON BE HERE AND WISE WOMEN ARE PREPARING NOW.

NOW is the logical time to prepare for the bathing suit season and its demands on beauty. The beauty-wise woman never puts off for tomorrow, nor for the last minute, she anticipates seasonal changes and their resulting demands on fashion and beauty. She exercises the year 'round, as a matter of fact, and is never caught napping. And she goes in for an especially strenuous "molding" campaign in the merry, merry month of May, the better to appear when she seeks the surf in summer.

Elsie Pierce.

Look your figure in the face, and your legs and thighs particularly. After the summer season many women put their legs in "cold storage" so to speak, they hide them under long skirts and forget to exercise them into shapely loveliness. When they are once more ready to do their summer song and dance they get a jolt.

Start today. Look at your legs. Others will. Are they in proportion to the rest of your body? Too thin? Too stout? A gracefully rounded curve to the calf, but no flabbiness? A taper to the ankle? If not, no time like the present to exercise. Remember that exercise is the best little normalizer in the world. It breaks down fatty tissues where there is an accumulation of superfluous flesh and it builds up muscles that are underdeveloped.

Swimming, tennis, walking, golf, dancing are all splendid leg exercises. Rope jumping is wonderful for those who are in perfect physical condition and can do it without becoming short of breath, panting or puffing. In addition to these pleasurable methods of exercising the legs, one can follow two or three special exercises daily.

One reader is looking ahead to summer as the time of tights and sighs. Haven't you often seen women on the beach sporting a face that looked twenty and shapeless, flabby, knotted and lumpy thighs that looked twice that age.

Simple Exercises.

The running in place exercise is excellent for calves and ankles. Here is another simple and effective exercise. With hands at sides, raise on toes, at the same time raising arms overhead. Inhale as you raise on toes, exhale as you return to position. Repeat ten times. The squatting exercise is splendid for legs, thighs and hips. Hands on hips, raise on toes, then bend knees and keeping the back straight squat to sitting position. This is a little difficult at first, but gradually you will master it and it will work wonders for you.

Lying on back, raise right knee to chest and down, then left knee to chest, then both. Repeat each six times. The bicycle exercise is another excellent one.

For those who wish to carry on a very extensive "beautiful legs" campaign I have a complete bulletin on the subject and a self-addressed envelope will bring it to you. It outlines exercises, as well as a formula for a developing cream and one for a reducing lotion.

Elsie Pierce, famous beauty lecturer, will answer any questions on beauty you wish to ask her. Address Miss Pierce, in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE TEMPTATION OF A PARTIAL SCORE.

WHEN a partnership has been successful in the making of a game, and has also amassed a considerable partial score on the second game, there is a strong temptation to take considerable risk to complete the game and thus secure the worthwhile bonus given for a two-game rubber. This policy is generally a winning policy, as aggressive tactics, under these conditions, if based on the necessary playing-tricks, will win more often than they lose. However, the greatly increased penalties, to which a vulnerable player is subject for failure to complete his contract, suggest that any Overcall have a reasonably firm foundation in playing-tricks, if otherwise Penalty Doubles, even on low contracts, may result disastrously for the vulnerable player. Experience has demonstrated that, when vulnerable, it is generally safe to overcall with a bid of one-odd, holding a fair biddable five-card or longer suit, if the hand contains at least 1½ honor-tricks—or with a four-card suit, if holding at least 2 honor-tricks in the hand. Overcalls, with very weak trump suits, risk the danger of massed trump strength in one of the opposing hands, and hence the possibility of a disastrous set.

North—Dealer.

East-West vulnerable; part-score—90.

	♠ Q ♡ A K 9 6 5 ◇ A Q 8 ♣ A 7 6 4
♠ 9 ♡ J 4 3 2 ◇ J 10 9 5 2 ♣ Q 10 8	N W E S	♠ K J 6 5 2 ♡ 10 7 ◇ K 7 6 ♣ J 3 2
	♠ A 10 8 7 4 3 ♡ Q 8 ◇ 4 3 ♣ K 9 5

The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1♡	1♠(1)
Dbl.(2)	Pass	Pass(3)	Pass

1—While the hand contains 1½ honor-tricks, the chosen trump suit is extremely weak, and the general make-up of the hand suggests a pass as the better course.

2—The make-up of South's hand is such as to clearly dictate this bid. The length in spades makes it probable that East can not satisfactorily develop the hand. South can not raise North's heart bid, and a bid of notrump with an unstopped diamond suit may be disastrous. The Double is for penalties, but, of course, permits North to bid again if his hand requires further action. South reasons that if the combined North and South hand will produce a game, then the Penalty Double must be very profitable, in view of the vulnerability of the East and West players. North's holding of 4½ honor-tricks causes him to believe that the Penalty Double will be more profitable than any attempt at game. The bid, in any event, does not warrant a further bid, in view of his partner's Penalty Double.

In the play, South opened the Queen of hearts, and the contract of one spade was set 4 tricks for a loss of 1,400 points, East succeeding in winning only 3 tricks with his meager holdings. It is well to be prepared to seize the initiative from an attacking adversary, but in order to do so there should be an adequate Force ready for the counter-attack, to prevent an overwhelming disaster if the enemy's strength is greater than anticipated.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Due to the increased penalties which a vulnerable side may incur, caution in making an Overcall must be observed.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

North—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ 10 4 ♡ J 10 9 5 ◇ 10 ♣ A K Q 9 6 4
♠ 6 5 ♡ 8 7 6 ◇ A Q 9 6 5 ♣ 10 7 5	N W E S	♠ K 8 7 ♡ A Q 2 ◇ J 4 3 2 ♣ 8 3 2
	♠ A Q J 9 3 2 ♡ K 4 3 ◇ K 8 7 ♣ J

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

POT ROAST FROM SUNDAY FURNISHES TASTY DISH

WITH leftover pot roast of beef resting serenely on the larder shelf, our dinner for tomorrow is as good as "done," so to speak. But tonight's repast still rests in the offing, for seriously do we advise against feeding the family too much of even a good thing, and pot roast is that, as every one well knows. So let's "rest" on the pot roast question for tonight and, since eggs are at a low, rivaling the stock market, let's plan for a mushroom omelet. French fashion, a nice, green salad, tea biscuits and a strawberry blanc mange with cream as desert. These recipes will not be necessary to today's column, so we may now turn our attention to leftover pot roast and tomorrow.

TUESDAY'S DINNER.

Beef and Rice en Casserole with Tomato Sauce

Savory Carrots

Bran and Raisin Muffins

Fresh Pineapple

Tea or Coffee.

Beef and Rice en Casserole With Tomato Sauce.

2 cupfuls cooked beef—chopped fine
1 cupful cooked rice
2 tablespoons breadcrumbs—soft
3 teaspoons butter
¾ cupful stock or hot water
1 egg
1 tablespoon onion—minced
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Mix together the cooked meat, the onion, salt and pepper. Add the well-beaten egg and the stock. In the bottom of a greased casserole place a layer of the cooked rice and then a layer of the meat. Cover the top with breadcrumbs and the butter, cut in small pieces. Bake for twelve minutes in a hot oven and serve with tomato sauce.

Tomato Sauce.

2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups strained tomatoes—cooked.

Melt the fat and add the flour and salt. Cook until blended and add gradually 1½ cups strained, cooked tomatoes. Cook until the mixture thickens. Serve hot over the meat.

Savory Carrots.

6 carrots
½ tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Pepper to taste

Cook carrots until tender.

Drain and place in saucepan with melted butter and seasoning. Reheat and serve.

Bran and Raisin Muffins.

2 tablespoonfuls shortening
¼ cupful sugar
1 egg
1 cupful milk
1 cupful bran
1 cupful flour
¼ teaspoonful salt
3 teaspoonfuls baking powder
1 cupful raisins

Cream shortening and sugar together and add the egg. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. To the creamed mixture add the bran, then the milk alternately with the dry ingredients. Fold in the raisins. Pour into greased muffin tins and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees).

The Weight Guide.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey: I am quite a bit overweight and very much in need of your advice. Why is it that I am so very much hungrier now than I was when I was thinner? I was thin, quite thin, once upon a time, although some folks would never believe it. I can eat any time at all and that makes it so difficult to even consider a regular diet. MRS. H. C.

There are several reasons, all of which might have a great deal to do with this increased appetite of which you speak. First, it may be that the accumulation of fat in your cells prevents the food you eat from burning as freely and brightly as it should. Because you do not derive as much energy as you should from your food, you do not realize that you have really eaten all that you need, and that is the reason you feel hungry almost all of the time. For this same reason you are also apt to feel tired and lazy and sleepy.

Another cause for an unnatural appetite may be that you have overeaten to such an extent that your stomach has been stretched way out of proportion. Also, it may be that you do not eat the right foods. You must have plenty of the vital foods, fruits and milk and vegetables, so that your tissues will be well fed. If they are hungry, you will have that unsatisfied, gnawing feeling. Too many fuel foods, sweets and starches, will also cause unnatural hunger. They are so quickly digested that your stomach soon feels empty. Last of all, it may be habit, pure and simple. Nibbling between meals, lunching at bedtime, &c., grow on one very easily, to the point that the habit becomes a craving.

The first thing to do, then, is to adopt a diet to reduce your weight. This is most important and it is so easy once the right way is made clear. Let us hear from you soon if you should like our reducing menus and good luck.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

FATTEN WITH INSULIN.

WHILE insulin has failed to meet certain promises made for it by its overenthusiastic advocates, new fields for the product are opening up. Diabetes is increasing steadily. The number of known cases is larger partly because diagnosis is better, but principally because of our diet and habits. Certainly the general use of insulin has not eliminated diabetes as a health problem. While diabetics live longer and more comfortably and efficiently when they use insulin, it has not proved of great value as a cure. It is an excellent remedy for diabetic coma. I am sure we would feel lost if we tried to care for diabetics and had no insulin to use, but we must try to find some other way out of the diabetic hole.

To offset this disappointment in insulin, the medicine has been found of value in some other fields. One of these is in helping people to put on weight. It has been proved that insulin, given hypodermically daily, will make a man hitherto with no appetite eat like Henry VIII and will cause a walking skeleton to look like Uncle Sam, 1929 model. Men who use this treatment, including the diet that goes with it, have been known to fatten more than a pound a day, a rate that can not be long maintained without causing an objectionable waistline.

In all probability this new use of insulin will have only a limited field of usefulness. It is too much trouble, too inconvenient and too expensive for use except by those who are emaciated to a marked degree. This is not a large group, and it must be further decreased by the subtraction of those who are emaciated because of organic disease. If a person is very thin because of consumption, cancer or some other wasting disease due to a well-entrenched infection, or some other cause that is difficult to get at, there will not be much use in his taking insulin. On the other hand, a very large proportion of the underweights can bring themselves up to a satisfactory level by such simple procedures as changing to a diet richer in carbohydrates and fats, by sleeping more, keeping more regular hours and cultivating poise and relaxation. Most members of this group, provided they have some persistence, will prefer the diet-rest plan of cure.

However, there still remains a considerable number of persons who are good subjects for insulin as a fattening agent. In properly chosen cases insulin used for this purpose has proved its value.

ABOUT IODINE.

O. G. writes: An osteopath in a lecture claimed that iodine is filth. Another says that iodine in this country is made mostly from fertilizer.

1. What is iodine, the 7 per cent solution in alcohol?
2. How is iodine procured here and abroad?
3. Can iodine be used with assurance that it is safe and pure as sold in drug stores?
4. What is the standing of iodine?

REPLY.

1. Iodine is a mineral like iron. It is found in rocks, in the soil and in water. Sea water is rich in it, as are animals and plants that live in sea water. Vegetables have a varying content of iodine, dependent mostly on where they are grown. What is commonly called tincture of iodine is a solution of the mineral in alcohol.
2. Mostly from seaweed and sea water; partly from mineral compounds of different salts. Neither A nor B is right. They are about the length of the alphabet from the truth.
3. Yes, within limits. Since alcohol evaporates old tincture is apt to be too strong. By "assurance that it is safe and pure" I assume you mean that it contains nothing but alcohol and iodine.
4. Excellent in its field.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF May 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 12:30 p. m. to 2 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:15 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Life will demonstrate on May 16 that no human is completely immune to the strategical movements of Fate, which uncannily select our weakest points for its attack on us. An unkindly mood will be fostered by the day's influences, and waspish tongues may carry lovers across the Rubicon of love from which they will not return to a former status of affection.

The child born on this May 16 will neither be industrious nor of an inquiring mind. It will, however, have a sense of the fitness of things, and will not be a shirker of duty. It will love material comforts and pleasures far too much not to put up a fair fight for their possession.

Born on May 16, you live for your work and shut the door to all other interests. You will be far more wedded to your job or some absorbing hobby than to any human being. One is struck by your happy, unhurried efficiency. Your efforts never appear studied, forced or unskilled. You prefer to be your own master, and far too much possessed with your own sagacity to often seek advice. You are too practical-minded and clear-eyed to easily surrender to the luxury of rich illusions. You figuratively live a ground-floor existence—on the spot and in the thick of things which make up your own individual life. You have the spiritual strength to stand up against naked realities.

You are fond of serious, intelligent discussion and meaty conversation, but never like to be a listener to or sharer of monkey chatter. Constant companionship is not essential to your happiness; you quite enjoy the indulgence of a few hours' solitude spent in contemplative thought or reading. You keep still if you can not say anything good about a person, and you are not easily prejudiced by idle gossip.

If you be a woman, your magpie habit of acquisitiveness is probably noticeable in your home or room. You attach a sentimental value to things, and you like your own bric-a-brac around you. You are a person of good taste, but are far too thrifty to be called extravagant.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

MORE ABOUT DELPHINIUMS.

A LITTLE later in the season you will be writing and asking me why the leaves of your delphiniums turn yellow. Of course, I cannot answer this question except in a very general way. Plants of any variety which become yellow are diseased. When the foliage of the larkspur turns yellow uproot the plant and cut away any diseased area in the crown that you may find, then plant the root in a new location. But, before planting, dust it with sulphur.

When you find a delphinium with black stems and decayed leaves, look the plant over carefully. If you find the entire plant is affected, all you can do is to take it up and burn it. If only a small portion seems affected, remove the diseased area and dust the wound with powdered sulphur.

As I explained on Monday, all delphiniums should be sprayed at the time growth starts. This is preventive treatment, and should be continued each week until the plants have attained some height.

Never permit water to stand about the crowns of these plants. If it does, the crowns will begin to show signs of decay. After cold weather sets in, it is well to place a shovelful of coal ashes over the crowns of these plants to prevent decay. In order to prevent slugs from damaging the plants, use coal ashes as suggested for a winter covering. But, if you neglected to use ashes last winter and slugs are now active in the soil about your delphiniums, better use a poison bait, distributing it in generous quantities.

Last season I received many letters from readers asking me why the leaves of delphiniums curled. This is a form of blight which may be counteracted by avoiding fresh manure when planting and by free use of lime.

Growers tell us that a little iron sulphate in the ground proves of great value in combating blight. One authority also recommends incorporating sulphur with the soil, also the use of Bordeaux mixture as a spray in the early part of the season.

When using any spray, do not expect results until after you have made four or five applications.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

Deliciously fresh and simple—and practical, too.

In green dimity with white dots was this model carried out. The berufled neckline and brief sleeves were of crisp white organdie with picot edge.

You can make it in about an our's time. Just a few seams to run up on the sewing machine. Have the edge of the ruffles finished professionally with picot edge. Or if you prefer, you can buy some rumling all ready to sew to the dress.

There are dozens of schemes for this cute model, so enticingly cool.

Style No. 2838 may be had in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1½ yards of 35-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

ALEXANDRIA BAKERY IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The Colonial Bakery, A. Malas, proprietor, 904 King street, was swept by fire about 8 o'clock last night. No estimate of the damage could be given by Fire Chief James M. Duncan, as the proprietor could not be located. The building is owned by Chauncey Brothers, who stated the place was insured, but that damage could not be determined until a more thorough examination could be made.

The building is joined on the west by Montgomery Ward & Co. and on the east by the Jane Marie Shoppe, a ladies' dress and coat shop. No damage was done to either place. The Jane Marie Shoppe is under the same roof but has a heavy partition between the two places of business, and only a light dampness from the water penetrated, but the stock was unharmed.

Clarence McIntosh, 18 years old, colored, of Hamlet, N. C., found hurt by Special Officer Griffith, of Potomac Yards, at the extreme south end of the yards at an early hour yesterday morning, died several hours later in the Alexandria Hospital as the result of his injuries. It is supposed he fell from a freight train and his legs were severed.

The thirty-second annual convention of the Graduate Nurses Association of Virginia will be held in Alexandria May 24, 25 and 26, presided over by the State president, Miss Emma C. Harlem, of the University of Virginia, at Charlottesville.

The gathering will convene at 9:30 a. m., May 24, in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, with invocation by the pastor of that church, the Rev. Norris A. Lineweaver. The address of welcome will be by City Manager Wallace Lawrence.

The afternoon session on the first day will be presided over by Lillian Bayley, field supervisor, tuberculosis out-patient service, State Department of Health. Other speakers will be Dr. Horton Casparis, department of pediatrics, Vanderbilt University, and Dr. P. M. Chichester, health officer of Arlington County. Round-table discussion will be conducted by Miss Clyde B. Shuman, former director of Red Cross nutrition service, and Miss Miriam Dailey, public health nurse, Pulaski County, Va.

The alumnae dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock that evening in the George Mason Hotel.

May 25 the session will open at 9 a. m. and will be known as education section. This will be presided over by S. Virginia Tucker, R. N., superintendent Lewis-Gale Hospital, Roanoke. Speakers will be Miss Florence L. Hall, extension home economist, United States Department of Agriculture, and Miss Mary A. Lindsley, managing director, Dodge Hotel, Washington.

At 1:30 that day there will be a Red Cross luncheon, M. Sabina Neel, public health nurse, Manassas, presiding. At 3 p. m. the delegates will go to Arlington and will be entertained at tea at the home of Mrs. Sue Brown.

May 26 will be designated as private duty section. Talks will be made by Pansy E. Fletcher, R. N., medical college of Virginia School of Nursing Alumnae Association, Richmond; Miss Janet M. Geister, R. N., director at headquarters, American Nurses Association, New York; Mrs. Ethel Evans, R. N., president Grace Hospital Alumnae Association, Richmond, and Miss Charlotte Pfeiffer, R. N., State chairman, superintendent Stuart Circle Hospital, Richmond. That afternoon election of officers will close the session.

While the convention is being held in Alexandria, the Eighth District Alumnae Association is hostess. Mrs. Mae Cavanaugh Bowman, Alexandria Alumnae president, is general chairman. Miss Fanny Carter, superintendent Alexandria Hospital, is chairman of the reception committee, and will be assisted by Miss Ora Smith, Mrs. Marjorie Foard and Mrs. Howard Fannon. Decorations, Miss Mary Monroe and Mrs. Irene Roszel. Mrs. John Walton Tulloch is publicity chairman.

Miss Fannie May Quayle, aged 19 years, daughter of Mrs. Clarence E. Campbell, died on Saturday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dixon, 207 Gibbon street. The funeral will be held from the home at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Rev. N. A. Lineweaver, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

The May meeting of the Alexandria High School Parent-Teacher Association unit will be held at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon, when officers to serve at the coming term of school will be elected.

Fall on Steps Injures Takoma Park Woman

A fall down the steps of her home caused serious injuries early yesterday to Mrs. Winnie Brannon, 36 years old, of 11 Westmoreland avenue, Takoma Park, Md.

As she was about to descend the cellar steps Mrs. Brannon fell, and the noise of her fall was heard by her husband, George Brannon. He took her to Walter Reed Hospital, where she was treated for a possible fracture of the skull and a possible fracture of the spine. Mrs. Brannon is a former Navy Department clerk.

STREETS RENAMING MEETING IS CALLED

Committee of Arlington Civic Federation to Work on Task Tomorrow.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Plans for the uniform renaming of all streets in Arlington County will be considered at a meeting of the street naming committee called by County Manager Roy S. Braden for tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at his office in the county courthouse.

The committee was named by the executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation and includes persons representing all sections of the county. It will be the duty of the committee, in conjunction with the county government, to eliminate the many duplications of names of streets.

When the work of the committee is completed, a task that is expected to be difficult due to the unwillingness of some residents to have their streets renamed, the county will place markers at every intersection. It is estimated that the cost of such markers will be approximately $7,500.

The Catholic Woman's Club, of Arlington County, will give a dinner tomorrow evening from 5 to 7 o'clock in the auditorium of St. Charles School for the benefit of the church and the school fund.

The committee in charge is headed by Mrs. Stephen E. Childs. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. Veitch, Mrs. A. Beuchert, Mrs. A. B. Coleman, Mrs. M. Blumenthal, Mrs. J. Thomas Manning, Mrs. H. W. Hendley, Mrs. W. T. Tinker, Mrs. E. James, Mrs. L. Kale, Mrs. J. McCausland, Mrs. E. Burke, Mrs. M. Walsh, Mrs. Hugh J. McGrath, Mrs. F. Pearson, Mrs. E. C. Carroll, Mrs. M. Primrose, Mrs. E. Talented Children To Dance in Revue

Hoffman and Hoskins Kiddies Will Appear at National Next Sunday.

"Review of Revues" will be presented at the National Theater by Hoffman & Hoskins Kiddies, next Sunday, at 8 p. m.

A review of each year since 1921, when Hoffman & Hoskins staged their first Kiddie Review, will form a prologue to the show. Artistic ballets, snappy jazz dances, adagio dances way beyond children and many novelty numbers are said to make Hoffman & Hoskins Review of 1932, far surpass all former years.

The costumes will be gorgeous and the scenery effects beautiful. The cast includes 150 of "America's most beautiful and talented children." The oldest performer is 16 and the youngest 2.

Women Wets Open Repeal Drive Today

Mrs. W. B. Mason to Direct District's Campaign for Members.

Mrs. William B. Mason, chairman of the District Council of Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, will launch "National Repeal Week" in the District with a campaign for increased membership.

The campaign, which will be formally inaugurated at 10 o'clock this morning, will be carried on by volunteers who will enroll new members and explain the purposes of the organization. The organization will be quartered at 813 Fifteenth street northwest, 727 Seventeenth street northwest, 1622 H street northwest and 1311 Connecticut avenue. Posters will decorate the windows of the headquarters.

The District drive is being carried on simultaneously with campaigns in 42 States and will be concentrated on increasing the local membership from its present number of 3,600 members to 5,000. The national membership is 600,000 and is expected to total more than a million as a result of the campaign.

Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, national chairman, said last night in a radio address: "Wear the wet label proudly. Vote for wet candidates, pile up wet majorities and end the dry nightmare by voting for repeal."

SEVERAL ARRESTED BY FAIRFAX POLICE

Men Charged With Liquor Violations Face Grand Jury Action Today.

The already large list of prohibition cases which are to be considered by the Circuit Court of Fairfax County, Va., which opens its May term today, was increased by activities of the county police over the week-end.

Among those arrested for the violation of the State prohibition law were Albert Henderson, said to be an employe of the Maderia School near Great Falls. He was charged with operating an automobile while drunk, hit and run, transportation and possession of ardent spirits, and carrying firearms. He was held for grand jury action.

Jackson Baker of Falls Church was arrested for driving while drunk. Walter Cameron and Thomas Eutwisle, of the Fort Humphreys Fisheries Bureau, were arrested for the transportation and possession of ardent spirits. All were held for grand jury action today.

Continuing their drive against drinking liquor and disorderly conduct at the public dance halls in the county, police Saturday night arrested five persons, charging them with being drunk. They were William H. Peay, 29, and L. H. Whitlock, 29 of Richmond, Va., arrested at Bull Run; Edwin M. Thomas, 25, of 484 H street southwest, and Benjamin J. Mathew, 20, of 627 I street southwest, Washington arrested at Centerville, and Sergt. John W. Amason, 35, of Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, arrested at Chimney Villa on the Lee Highway near Merrifield. George B. Bowers, of 2405 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, was arrested for being drunk near Hybla Valley. All were fined or released on posting collateral for a hearing today.

Four men were committed to the Fairfax Jail by Mayor L. P. Daniel of Falls Church. They are: Ammons Smith, 27 for being drunk and disorderly; Herbert Parker, 25, for assault and destroying property, and Raymond Dunn, 25, for assault and drunkeness. The trio was fine $15 and costs and sentenced to jail for fifteen days each. Wendelien Massrih, 75 years old, was given a 50-day jail sentence for begging on the streets of Falls Church.

Due to the rainy weather during the past week the closing date of the Fairfax County clean-up week has been extended to include next Saturday, according to announcement of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr, of Fairfax, general county chairman of the campaign. He has urged that the clean-up should not only be for rubbish but should include insects and their breeding places as well.

Agent Derr has asked that all sheep raisers of the county attend demonstrations this morning at the C. W. Boyd Farm on Sleepy Hollow road, near Falls Church, at 8 o'clock and at the Willard Farm in Fairfax at 10 o'clock. Speakers will be George C. Herring, animal husbandman of the extension service of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, and C. G. Potts, animal husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A series of leaders' meetings has been planned for this week by Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent. Tomorrow morning she will meet with the special 4-H Club committee leaders at Fairfax, where plans will be made for the annual 4-H Club summer camp. Tomorrow afternoon she will meet with the club leaders, who are making plans for contests in demonstrations, judging health and growth. A county try-out contest will be held on June 17.

Wednesday and Thursday Miss Thomas and Miss Belle Burke, district demonstration agent, will give special marketing instructions to women who are participating in the weekly women's market at Alexandria. They will meet the Franconia Club on Wednesday morning and the Annandale Club that afternoon to give instructions in wrapping, grading and standards. The same program will be repeated Thursday at a meeting of the Navy Home Demonstration Club.

Friday all 4-H Club leaders of the county will meet at Fairfax to plan for the summer work, the county demonstration contest and the summer camp to be held at the Madeira School on the Potomac River, near Great Falls.

Clerk Quits Nap to Join Romancers

Far be it from Arlington County Clerk John A. Petty to destroy the romantic wishes of any prospective brides and bridegrooms, although the business of issuing marriage licenses is a dull affair after the first few hundred.

County Clerk Petty was having his Sunday afternoon nap when two young romancers tapped timidly on his front door and asked for help. They wanted to get married.

Mr. Petty, rather than disappoint the prospective bridal couple, summoned his deputy clerk, Mrs. Edith Gordon, who issued the license to William Thompson, 29 years old, of Bluemont, Va., and Hazel Broy, 23 years old, of 620 North Carolina avenue southeast.

Clarendon Man Hurt As Auto Is Overturned

Charles Oliver, of Clarendon, was seriously injured yesterday morning when the automobile he was driving sideswiped another car and turned over on the Lee highway near Legato about 3 miles west of Fairfax. The police did not get the name of the second driver.

He was rushed to the Alexandria Hospital by Capt. Heywood J. Durrer, of the Fairfax County police, and it was said that he was suffering from lacerations about the head and possible internal injuries.

CAPTURES IN HOLDUP WIPE COUNTY SLATE

Arlington Authorities Hold All Major Cases Now Have Been Solved.

With the arrest of Sergt. John A. Velke, 30, attached to the Medical Corps at Fort Humphreys, Va.; William B. Babcock, 25, of 718 Eighteenth street northwest, Washington, and George T. Belew, 25, of 2213 Rhode Island avenue northeast, who are lodged in the Arlington County jail as a result of activities of Washington authorities in cooperation with Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, all major police investigations in the county have been completed, police declared yesterday.

The three men are held in the county jail on charges of robbery in connections with the holdup Thursday of the East Falls Church Bank, branch of the Falls Church Bank, and four other Virginia holdups.

The auto dealers' tags, used in the bank holdup, were recovered yesterday. The tags were found buried in the mud on the Annadale road between Falls Church and Annadale.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, who with Sheriff Fields was in Washington Saturday night when the trio were placed under arrest by District of Columbia authorities, stated yesterday that bonds for the men would be set at a high figure. He stated further that their cases probably will come before the grand jury at the opening of the June term of the Circuit Court.

Two Former Army Pilots Plan 'Round-World Hop

Oklahoma City, May 15 (A.P.).—Two former Army pilots announced plans today for an attempt to establish a new globe-circling flight record in June. The fliers, Jimmie Mattern, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Bennett Griffin, of Oklahoma City, said they planned to use a new plane owned by Mattern and head eastward from either Chicago or New York.

Details of the projected flight were agreed upon at a conference here with their backers, John Mabee, Tulsa drilling contractor, and Harry Turner, Oklahoma City oil man. Wiley Post, Oklahoma City pilot, and Harold Gatty, Australian navigator, hold the record of eight days and eight hours.

LESS THAN A MONTH.

Congressional leaders have tentatively fixed June 10 as the date of adjournment. That agreement gives Congress less than four weeks in which to pass the revenue bill, the appropriation bills and a few other measures that are vital to the welfare of the country. If Congress is disposed to proceed in a business-like manner, there is no doubt that all necessary legislation can be enacted during that time.

Business men are looking anxiously toward the adjournment. So long as Congress remains in session uncertainty prevails and business refuses to go forward. This attitude is no disparagement of the constructive action which has been taken by Congress since it assembled last December. It is merely recognition of the fact that business can not plan ahead when unfinished legislation of an economic nature hangs over it.

When the tax bill has been definitely moulded into law, every industry will know just what additional burden it must bear. When the budget is definitely balanced, the sound credit of the United States will be reaffirmed and confidence will be strengthened. Business will not rely upon the good intentions of Congress after witnessing two reckless stampedes in the House. It is waiting for a fait accompli.

The effect of legislative uncertainty upon the credit expansion program of the Federal Reserve system is especially noteworthy. Reserve banks are buying up Government securities in an effort to pump additional credit into business through the regular banking channels. But the commercial banks are not passing this additional credit on to the public because of the uncertainty in the financial and business situations. Threats of inflation in Congress make the banks extremely cautious. Such measures as the Goldsborough price-fixing gesture passed by the House, the Steagall bill to guarantee bank deposits, and the Robinson program for a $2,000,000,000 bond issue throw cold water on the credit expansion movement. No constructive results can be expected from the credit expansion drive until the threat of fanatical economic legislation has passed.

Between now and June 10 Congress will be occupied with the supply bills, taxation, banking reform and a few other measures in the reconstruction program. It is absolutely necessary that most of this legislation be enacted, and there seems to be a disposition to consider it from a non-partisan viewpoint. But if Congress should return after the national conventions, the situation would be completely changed. The House and to some extent the Senate would be free to indulge in fantastic legislation for political purposes. Partisanship would be the order of the day. Nothing constructive could be accomplished, but industry and business would be kept in a state of constant turmoil.

Congressmen themselves have much to lose and nothing to gain by returning to Washington after the conventions. A concerted non-partisan drive to complete the work of this session by June 10 would give both parties a good record to carry "back home" and would be a powerful stimulus to public confidence.

VIOLENCE IN JAPAN.

The assassination of Premier Inukai yesterday in Tokyo was accompanied by terrorist manifestations by men in naval and military uniforms. Manifestoes were scattered through the streets, and numerous bombs were thrown at official residences, banks, and newspaper offices. Eighteen of the agitators surrendered.

The outburst is attributed to zealots of the military party, who have repeatedly threatened violence against government officials because of their refusal to go to extremes in Manchuria and at Shanghai. Many organizations of a fascist character have appeared, with memberships embracing men of high rank in the government. The agitators proclaim their allegiance to the emperor, and demand "direct action."

Although the American charge d'affaires at Tokyo reports that there is no sign of an antiforeign movement, it is significant that the four Japanese leaders recently assassinated were charged with friendship for America. The American consulate at Nagasaki was bombed last week.

Premier Inukai was regarded as more militaristic than his predecessors. The foreign relations of Japan doubtless deterred him from pursuing as vigorous a policy in China as the extremists desired. Former Foreign Minister Shidehara, sometime Ambassador at Washington, is in hiding, under threat of death, because of his refusal to yield to the demands of the military party in the conduct of operations on the mainland.

A correspondent of The Post residing at Tokyo, who is especially well qualified to pass judgment, has reported that a reign of terror prevails and that more assassinations are to be expected. It is his opinion that a reactionary revolution is inevitable, and that manifestations against America will occur. The war party is apparently determined to intimidate moderates of all parties, and to override all obstacles, such as treaties and the pressure of foreign powers in behalf of peace.

AN IMPRACTICAL DREAM.

Railway labor leaders compliment Alfred E. Smith when they take up his scheme to cancel the war debts in return for the purchase of American goods, but they reflect no credit upon their own judgment. No one took Mr. Smith's proposal seriously at the time it was offered to the public. It is surprising that a labor union group should now fall into the same delusion.

The chief elements in this alleged trade-stimulating project are a 25-year moratorium on war debts and reparations, and cancellation of the war debts in proportion to each debtor nation's imports from the United States. In any one year the amount of cancellation could not exceed 25 per cent of a debtor nation's purchases in this country. Reduced to simplicity, it is a gigantic scheme for defrauding taxpayers in order to pay bounties on exports.

Europe's war and reconstruction debts to this country are owed directly to American taxpayers. How could Congress justify use of that money for the direct benefit of the people who are engaged in growing and manufacturing products for shipment abroad? If Congress wishes to encourage the dumping of American goods abroad, it would be more honest and direct to place a straight bounty on exports.

Apparently this fanciful project is based on the belief that it would greatly extend American foreign trade. Its advocates begin with the assumption that Europe is bankrupt and can not pay her debts to this country. How, then, could Europe buy more American goods? Industry in Europe is stagnant and the markets are glutted with commodities. How could that situation be improved by dumping American goods upon the European market further to demoralize European industries? The debtor countries could better afford to pay the United States in gold and maintain their own industries in operation than to agree upon an abnormal import program that would disrupt their national economy.

Repercussions could also be expected in this country. American interests would be tempted to build up industries in expectation of a big demand from abroad. When that demand failed to materialize those industries would collapse.

American citizens perform no service to their country when they try to devise means whereby foreign debtors might be assisted in squirming out of their obligations. Such schemes as this are particularly obnoxious because they encourage European politicians to press for outright cancellation of the debts. When Americans indulge in fantastic dreams of saving the world, Europeans can hardly be blamed for their willingness to load their burdens upon Uncle Sam's shoulders.

RECONSTRUCTION LOANS.

So much prominence was given to loans to railroads in the early days of the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that exaggerated importance has been attached to this feature of the relief work being done by this organization. Advances to railways represent only about one-fifth of the distribution so far made, and the sum of $98,000,000 will soon be exceeded by the amount paid to farmers. No apology is needed for the aid extended the common carriers. Not only is the operation of the transportation system of the nation of vital importance to all, but railway securities are widely held by all classes and form a large part of the investments of savings banks, insurance companies and like institutions whose stability concerns the entire public.

In an address in Philadelphia, Henry J. Allen, assistant to General Dawes, disclosed some interesting facts with regard to the work of the Reconstruction Corporation. During the eleven weeks that it has been functioning a total of $317,000,000 has been loaned to 2,000 banks. Of this amount 70.7 per cent was loaned to banks in towns of 5,000 or less population, 86 per cent to centers of less than 25,000, and only 5.4 per cent to cities of over 1,000,000 population. This is convincing evidence that the great bulk of the funds are going into communities where the benefit will be reaped by the small business men.

Of the $200,000,000 specially set aside for loans to farmers for the purchase of seed, stock, and to make needed improvements, $75,000,000 has already been distributed. Railroads at last report had been advanced $98,000,000; insurance companies, $18,000,000, largely for the purpose of aiding them in making loans to policy holders. With the exception of one railway loan which met with congressional criticism, the money advanced to these companies is being used for new equipment and necessary work.

In order to open 134 closed banks, with deposits of $146,000,000, Mr. Allen explained that the corporation had taken decided action with the result that these deposits are being made available to the depositors. In the first week of February, when the corporation was organized, bank failures averaged 90 per week. Now they are down to about normal, the average being only six a week. As a specific illustration of how smaller interests are being aided Mr. Allen cited the case of a contractor who built a Texas school. The bank on which his voucher for $27,000 was drawn could not pay that amount. It received help from the corporation and the contractor was paid. He retained $8,000, the remaining $19,000 being divided among eight sub-contractors.

In remarkably short time the corporation has perfected a nation-wide organization and is by no means confining its credit relief to the larger units of business, but rather, as the figures show, helping smaller institutions that find a considerable portion of their resources tied up in unrealizable paper due to the depression. It has efficient and practical machinery in operation for extending assistance where it is most needed. If the proposed new and larger plan for the aid of States and the financing of large revenue-producing projects becomes a reality the utilization of the facilities already established by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will effect a great saving in time and cost of such distribution destined for relief of needy and unemployed.

Mayor Walker headed the parade of 5,000 marchers down Fifth Avenue, demanding "beer for taxation." If the banners had said "beer for relaxation" the parade would have swelled to 500,000.

INGERSOLL AT ARLINGTON

From the Boston Transcript.

It seems like an irony of fate that the body of Robert Green Ingersoll, whose greatness in the American record rests upon his pleadings at the bar, his political speeches, and his eloquent lecturing against biblical revelation and in favor of other ideas and causes in which he was zealously interested, should just now have been borne to rest, as a soldier, in the Arlington National Cemetery. "Bob" Ingersoll was only incidentally and transiently a soldier; for though he was the efficient colonel of the Eleventh Illinois Cavalry in the Civil War, it was as an orator, and particularly as an exponent of free thought on religious matters, that he won his great repute. It was after the Civil War was well over that he became famous. Perhaps his enshrining among the warriors at Arlington is to be taken as an indication that his platform riddlings of the "Mistakes of Moses" is to be taken by his countrymen as something to forget, whereas his services as a soldier of the Union are deemed the real matter in his life worthy of his country's enduring honor.

Robert Ingersoll devoted his highest talents to antireligious propaganda. His lectures along this line were listened to and applauded by millions, and his books, of which his lectures were a sort of suggestion and summary, had the widest possible circulation. It seems to be undeniable that he had Moses deeply entangled in certain contradictions of statement, as well as in much naive cosmological error. There was a peculiar pungency in his utterances that filled free-thinking listeners or readers with triumphant delight. But somehow Moses goes on and on, and the fame of his brilliant critic is lost in the reputation of a soldier. The record of the Civil War colonel survives; the "Mistakes of Moses" were written on sand.

For that matter, Ingersoll was not altogether irreligious. Speaking at the funeral of a friend, toward the end of his own life, he freely admitted the validity of the hope of something after death. He seemed to confess that such a hope is an irremovable part of human nature. And human nature, in a sense, was Ingersoll's god. In politics, he was a pure idealist. One of his most celebrated speeches was the one he delivered at the Republican national convention at Cincinnati in 1876, nominating Blaine for President, in which he spoke of his hero as the "plumed knight," "wearing the white flower of a blameless life." He believed thoroughly in his judgment of the man. His humor, another leading element in his oratorical power, was inextinguishable. His round, rather babyish face appealed ineffaceably to his audiences. He was the embodiment of epigrammatic persuasion. But his total credulity regarding Revelation barred his way to high political preferment. His countrymen heard him gladly, but followed him not. Perhaps it is as well that he should sleep through the centuries among the soldiers rather than with the statesmen or the intellectual leaders.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GROWING UP.

Since the mother's been away
Little Janet's had her chair
At the table day by day
And has played the lady there.
With a roguish touch of grace
And a manner quaint to see,
With a smile upon her face
She has ruled it over me.

For a full long week she's played
Being Mrs. Nellie Guest,
Ruling master, cook and maid
As the mother at her best.
With a charming little frown
When I reached for chocolate cake,
I was told to put it down,
Since it causes stomach ache.

Little Janet, only nine,
Has been mistress of us all.
She received with manners fine
Every guest who came to call.
And I've learned a lovely fact
In the week which now has flown,
Just how much in every act
Like her mother she has grown.

Is It Heroic to Save a Man From Robbers and Then Frisk Him Yourself?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WRONGS and injustices, like disease germs, flourish and multiply when they are hidden from the light.

And the best of men, shielded from criticism or strong enough to ignore it, see little evil in a wrong that pays them a profit.

Because these things are true, and because it is man's nature to get as much as he safely can, veterans of the Great War will be tempted to abuse their power more and more as further victories teach them how great it is.

Men who get their living from the public are afraid to criticize them. Members of Congress dare not deny them anything they ask. They are without restraint except that imposed by their own sense of honor.

Does the Congressman's heart in truth bleed for them? You know better. He obeys them because he needs their support to hold his job. He would ignore them wholly if that course promised him more votes.

He cares no more for them than he cares for other men, yet in order to keep his job he will bankrupt the nation to meet their demands. "Keep me in office," he says to them, "and I will loot the Treasury for you."

What does the veteran really deserve? Does he deserve more than other men? Consider the matter sanely and without fear.

Whose country is this? If it belongs to the people, it belongs to the veterans. Does a man deserve reward for defending his own property?

Is it every citizen's duty to defend his country? As much his duty as it is to defend and support his family. Does he deserve reward for defending his family?

Free men are not slaves, to be rewarded for service to a master.

Most of the veterans served because they were drafted. Most of them never were under fire. Their pay, plus board and clothing, was more than many of them ever had earned. The war was the one great thrill of their lives. It did them more good than harm.

Are they jobless and in need today? No more than other citizens. They are a cross section of America, neither richer nor poorer than the average.

Those injured in service deserve everything. They must have everything they need if it takes the last dollar possessed by those who escaped the war unhurt.

But the others, as sound and prosperous today as other citizens are, must remember that their country still needs defenders.

Of what value is "loyal service" if men use it as an excuse to damage the country more than the enemy did?

Proper Policy.

Kansas City Star.

The policy of the Government should be to continue to provide adequately for those clearly entitled to Government compensation, whether the disabled or the dependents of those who lost their lives in the wars, but at the same time to refuse further compensation of any kind to those already well paid and to trim out of the pay roll those who are drawing unmerited pay. This latter class is much more extensive than the country can readily believe. The petition carried to Washington the other day by Archibald Roosevelt and signed by other veterans, declared that undeserved veterans' pay has reached the stupendous sum of $450,000,000, or nearly one-half of the total cost of the veterans' department.

No Foundations.

Hartford Courant.

No better definition of this bonus proposal has been given than that offered by Secretary Mills when he referred to it as "a measure designed to pay an obligation not due, in money that is not honest." The bonus as a bonus actually commanded little real support in Congress. It was only when it was tied up with a scheme to inflate the currency that it began to gain a dangerously large number of adherents. The thought that those clamoring for the bonus could be appeased by the simple device of issuing new currency was too much for some congressmen to resist. They would form a good nucleus for the revival of the Greenback party, but as soon pass into deserved oblivion.

Jack Garner's Leadership.

Springfield Republican.

The effect of the mangling of the House economy bill is undeniably depressing, foreign opinion revealing itself in the movement of the exchanges against the dollar. The bill must be regarded as a failure in view of the vote cast against it on its passage by Chairman McDuffie, who reported it in its original form. From $210,000,000 in savings proposed to some $42,000,000 in the bill as passed is a comedown by no means heroic.

Speaker Garner's victory in the California presidential primary can not cover up his continued discomfiture as the leader of the House. The House has now collapsed for the second time in a crisis of the budget-balancing process. To think of Speaker Garner as a great parliamentary leader under these circumstances is to indulge in illusion much more than most observers of the scene can be capable of.

Placing the Responsibility.

New York Times.

A Democratic senator, Mr. Harrison, calls upon the President to bring order out of chaos. The budget is not balanced. Tax plans have gone astray. "If ever there was a time," he says, "when the President ought to speak out to his leaders in Congress it is now." But the President has been speaking out to his leaders, and appealing to his adversaries, vigorously and consistently since Congress convened five months ago. On the importance of Federal retrenchment and the necessity of balancing the budget he has spoken in no less than 21 messages, statements and addresses; four in December, two in January, three in February, four in March, and eight last month. Responsibility for the chaos which now exists in Washington rests upon those members of Congress who have blocked the President at every turn and bolted their own party leadership.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A patriotic yearning in Colonial and Revolutionary days created the basis for American industry. That desire caused in New York the formation of the "Society for the Promotion of Arts, Agriculture and Economy." "Daughters of Liberty" held all-day sessions for spinning in Providence, R. I. The first graduating class of Rhode Island College wore at commencement clothes of American manufacture.

The class of Harvard, 1768, were commended for agreeing to graduate dressed wholly in domestic fabrics. Women of Hartford, Conn., pledged themselves to retrench their expenses and to give "preference to the manufactures of their own country." Similar movements were instigated in various other places, such as Halifax, N. C., Richmond, Va., Germantown, Pa., Boston, Mass., &c.

Even the Commander in Chief of the American Army, the 200th anniversary of whose birth we are now commemorating, said in a letter to Gen. Lafayette: "I have been writing to our friend, Gen. Knox, this day, to procure me homespun broadcloth of the Hartford fabric, to make a suit of clothes for myself. I hope it will not be a great while before it will be unfashionable for gentlemen to appear in any other dress. Indeed, we have been too long subject to British prejudices."

An enormous expansion of importation resulted at the restoration of peace. The excessive expenditure for imported merchandise led to an extensive importation of specie, and a period of hard times ensued. Paper money was lavishly issued as a panacea for economic distress. It declined steadily in value and, in spite of all efforts, was accepted only at a discount.

Speculators arose to take advantage of the situation. Loss of confidence followed, trade declined, debts increased, general business demoralization prevailed, and economic distress engulfed the populace. The country drifted hopelessly and, as a result of the inability of Congress to raise money, the credit of the Government became negligible. The Nation showed signs of disintegration and was on the verge of anarchy.

That was our condition under the Articles of Confederation. Compare it with those under which we are now suffering. Let us return to the ideals of our forefathers—a pride in that which is American.

Newsboys Criticized by D. H. K. Who Says Police Should Stop Racket.

To the Editor of The Post, Sir: On the night of the Jefferson Day dinner, people leaving the hotel at the close of the program of speeches were met by boys selling a newspaper—not The Post, of course—shouting "Lindbergh baby on way home." Persons who bought papers soon discovered that they had been hoaxed, for there was not a word in them to support the venders' cries.

Last night at about 7 o'clock a man at F and Thirteenth streets, selling a paper, stimulated business by shouting again and again: "Jafsie confesses! Jafsie tells all!" His customers were fooled. There was nothing in the paper regarding any confession by Jafsie.

These are but two examples of a common racket, played at the expense of the gullible public. The venders say the circulation managers tell them what to shout. The circulation managers say the venders use their own imaginations. Between the two, the people are cheated.

The subject ought to be taken up by the police. D. H. K.

Oklahoman Suggests That American Courts Be Modeled After Those of Canada and England.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the redcoats of Canada can always get their man, why not arouse the people to demand that Uncle Sam have a similar organization?

If the courts of Canada and of nearly every other civilized nation of the world get better results in the way they handle crime, urge the people to demand that Uncle Sam do likewise.

Amend and change our laws, modeled after English and Canadian laws, so that the judges and courts will be run in a way that will protect the innocent and honest people of the United States.

Make the people of this beloved country of ours admit that unless something is done, we may as well do without the expense of courts and the farce of trials.

Let honest criminal lawyers amend the "rules" of the courts that give all the advantage to the criminal.

More power to you and others like you who can, if you will, so arouse the American public that something will be done.

Bread Before Beer, Florida Readers Say, Condemning Wet Slogan.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The slogan "We want beer," the beer parade and the proposition for 4 per cent beer before the House seem out of place when so many people are crying "We want bread."

In the fiscal year ended June, 1914, 66,189,476 barrels of fermented liquors were sold. The sales value of the lot would be approximately $1,641,489,000. Such a sum spent for bread would help the farmers and the unemployed industrial workers. Spent for beer, it would help the farmers very little, and the unemployed practically not at all.

If only the wealthy bought beer, its sale might be of some benefit to the country. But it would be the poorer people who would buy it. And since they cannot live on beer alone they would be spending their money for something they can do without. They would have that much less to buy the things they must have in order to survive. Bread is life, but beer is only a luxury. Let us solve the bread problem first.

SOCIETY

Secretary and Mrs. Hyde to Be Hosts to President and Mrs. Hoover at Dinner Tomorrow Evening

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER will be the honor guests at dinner tomorrow evening of the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde.

The Secretary and Mrs. Hyde and their daughter, Miss Caroline Hyde, spent the week-end at Atlantic City, where they went by motor.

The Vice President, Mr. Curtis, heads the list of distinguished personages who will act as patrons and patronesses for the annual Shoreham Saddle Club horse show, scheduled for May 21 at the Equitation Field in Rock Creek Park.

The show is being given this year under the auspices of the District chapter of the Women's Overseas League and the proceeds will be devoted to the league's relief work in the District.

Mrs. Bryan K. Ogden is president of the league and Mrs. Wallace Chiswell is chairman of the horse show committee.

The league's membership in the district is small, the rules of the organization requiring that a member actually have been a veteran of the World War campaign overseas. Mrs. Larz Anderson is vice president of the local chapter and Mrs. Margaret Wood Robbins is chairman of the relief committee. Miss Mabel Boardman and Miss Lena Hitchcock, former national president, both claim membership in the District chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gann Included in Patrons.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President, and her husband are included in the list of patrons. Others are Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, U. S. A.; Senator and Mrs. James Couzens, Senator and Mrs. William E. Borah, Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Keefer, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. J. A. Johnston, Brig. Gen. Pelham Glassford, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend and Mrs. Larz Anderson.

The show will open at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur spent yesterday at the Cabinet camp at Rapidan earlier in the day they attended the ceremonies at Wakefield, when the historic shrine was turned over to the United States Government by the Wakefield Association.

Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard have been joined by their daughter, Miss Janet Sheppard, who has been studying in New York for several months.

Mrs. Latimer, wife of the late senator from North Carolina, was the guest of honor at a small luncheon given by Mrs. Wirt Robinson on Saturday at the Shoreham. The other guests were Mrs. Edward C. McClelland, Mrs. James Patton, Mrs. Robert C. Watson and Mrs. David Lake.

The Minister of Ecuador and Senora de Zaldumbide entertained at dinner on Saturday evening, when they had as their guests the Minister of Guatemala and Senora de Recinos; Mme. Sacasa; the former Bolivian Minister and Senora de Medina; the Secretary of the Legation of Panama and Senora de Chavalier; Mr. and Mrs. George Oakley Totten, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell, jr.

Brig. Gen. Francis Le J. Parker, U. S. A., has as his guest at Wardman Park Hotel, Mr. Thomas D. Parker, who came here a day or two ago from his home in Belvedere, Calif., to spend some time.

Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, with her daughter, Miss Ana Vare, motored to Washington yesterday to spend a short time, coming here from their home in Germantown, Pa., and they have engaged a suite at Wardman Park Hotel for the duration of their stay.

Mr. Bruce Crane Weds Miss Winnie Davis Long.

Miss Winnie Davis Long, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Long, jr., of Hartford, Conn., was married to Bruce Crane, son of Mrs. W. Murray Crane, of New York and Dalton, Mass., and the late Senator Crane, of Massachusetts, Saturday afternoon in Asylum Hill Congregational Church, Hartford. A small reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Miss Katherine Long was her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Martha Blake, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson and Miss Elinor Jaynes, of Hartford; Miss Virginia Hutchinson, of Bethlehem, Pa.; Miss Louise Crane, of New York, and Miss Elizabeth Cross, of Chicago.

Winthrop M. Crane 3d, of Dalton, was best man for Mr. Crane. The ushers were Edmund Allen, of St. Louis, Mo.; Benjamin Sturgis, Franklin A. Park, Eric Warbasse, Jack Park and Jack Holwill, of New York; David R. McIlwaine, of Hartford; Gregory Price, of Washington, and Arthur Crane, of Dalton.

Miss Long attended a private school in New York and is a pianist. Her father is vice president of the Connecticut and Phoenix Fire Insurance Cos., of Hartford, and the Equitable Fire & Marine Insurance Co., of Providence.

Mr. Crane was graduated last June from Yale. He is with the Crane paper mills, of Dalton.

Miss Marjorie Campbell Ruckman is visiting relatives of her father, the late Brig. Gen. John Ruckman, in Illinois.

Miss Anne R. Humphries and Mr. Willis S. Warren, both of Washington, were married Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the Francis Asbury Methodist Church, Sixteenth and Lamont streets, the Rev. J. J. Rives officiating. The sister of the bride, Miss Clara G. Humphries, was maid of honor, and Mr. Sanford Warren, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of beige crepe romaine trimmed with dark brown, shoes and hat to match and wore a corsage of gardenias. The maid of honor wore a gown of flesh chiffon, hat of the same color trimmed with dark brown, with dark-brown slippers, and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley. The bride's going away suit was of beige boucle cloth, brown hat and shoes.

Lieut. G. W. Mundy, of Fort Crockett, Galveston, Tex., and Lieut. J. E. Holley, of Fort Hoyle, Md., are at the Powhatan.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Gordon are spending a few days in New York. Mr. Gordon is counselor of the American Embassy in Berlin.

Child Welfare Thrift Shop Board Will Meet Today.

The annual meeting of the executive board of the Child Welfare Thrift Shop, 1011 E street, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Willard. Members of the board are Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, Mrs. John R. Williams, Mrs. Victor Cushman, Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. Thomas Bell Sweeney, Mrs. John Gulick, Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. Barry Mohun and Mrs. Jouett Shouse. The shop is operated for the benefit of the Children's Hospital, Children's Country Home, Prenatal Clinic of Columbia Hospital and the Child Welfare Society.

Lieut. Comdr. Paul J. Searles, U. S. N., has been transferred from the Canal Zone, where he resided with Mrs. Searles in Panama, to this city, and they have taken an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

The gardens of Chatham and Gunston Hall are two interesting additions, graciously offered for visits by the pilgrimage of the Virginia Association for the Preservation of Antiquities tomorrow. Mrs. E. Rust Smith, of the Shoreham Hotel, is the directress of the Washington branch.

The list of patrons and patronesses for this event includes: Senator and Mrs. Carter Glass, Senator and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, Mgr. Bucky, Bishop and Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, Mrs. Violet Blair Janin, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Ellis, Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, Mrs. A. R. Shands, Mrs. M. de Clare Berry, Miss Mary Ambler, Mrs. Ryan Devereux, Mrs. J. Jerome Lightfoot, Mrs. Mary Duncan Abbe.

Buses leave south entrance to Treasury at 9 a. m. tomorrow, but, in case of rain, Wednesday. Luncheon in Fredericksburg is included in the ticket. Among those who will entertain lunch companies there are Mrs. E. Rust Smith, Mrs. John Bennett and Mrs. J. Jerome Lightfoot, the last named having guests from Pennsylvania.

Miss Grace Colton Blackwell will give a dance recital in the Little Theater of Wardman Park Hotel this evening, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Her pupils, who range in age from 3 to 15 years, will participate, with a doll number being offered by the youngsters, and classical, as well as modern interpretations by the older classes. A very entertaining and enjoyable evening is anticipated, and every one is invited to attend. Tickets may be procured at the hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. William J. B. Orr entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham Saturday evening, their guests including Col. and Mrs. Frederick A. Ramsay, Dr. and Mrs. Sterling V. Mead, Dr. and Mrs. R. Lyman Sexton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Flavelle Koff, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin C. Dutton, Mr. and Mr. Lloyd F. Gaines, Miss Anna Grove and Mr. Richard E. Thigpen.

Mr. Henry K. Bush-Brown To Speak at Arts Club.

Reminiscences of Henry K. Brown, the famous American sculptor, will be the subject of an evening's illustrated talk at the Arts Club tomorrow evening by his kinsman, Mr. Henry K. Bush-Brown, of New York and Washington, also a distinguished sculptor in his own right. Mr. Bush-Brown was a founder of the Arts Club of both New York and Washington, and was the first president of the latter.

Mr. and Mrs. Will C. Barnes and Miss Clara Hill will be the club's hosts of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic William Wile and Miss Helen Wile have returned to Washington from New York, where they attended a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Halle for their daughter, Miss Rita Halle, and Frederic William Wile, jr., whose engagement was recently announced.

A garden party for the benefit of the work for missions and poor churches will be given at the Convent of Perpetual Adoration, 1419 V street northwest, on the afternoons of May 23 and 24, weather permitting.

Mme. Debuchi will be hostess at the tea table; Mrs. William Kearney Carr will sell in her booth homemade cakes and ice cream; dolls, Mrs. Rudolph Leinter; this booth will be the feature attraction. On sale will be dolls of many lands and mostly dressed by wives of the diplomats now on duty in Washington; Mrs. Frank McIntyre will sell homemade candies. Novelties, Mrs. Alexander L. P. Johnson; surprise tree, Mrs. John Galen Carter; lemonade, Mrs. Henry L. E. Johnson; puppett show, Mrs. Paul Henry Bastedo; Au bon Marche, Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie; gate, Mrs. Edgar Crosy; posters, Mrs. John junior committee. Mrs. William Goodyear Johnson; treasurer, Mother Martin. Mlle. Official to Retire After 43 Years

James Yochum, construction superintendent of the Otis Elevator Co., will retire this week after a continuous service of 43 years in the elevator business.

Mr. Yochum, who since 1905 has been a superintendent in the Otis Co., began his career with the Morse-Williams Co., of Philadelphia and New York, in 1880. He came to Washington in 1912.

As a token of esteem 60 men, all of whom have served under Mr. Yochum, banded together to give their employer a purse of gold. The presentation was made by Frank Comfort, prominent Philadelphia elevator construction worker.

Three Win Awards For Scholarships

W. W. S. Claytor Granted Fellowship at University of Pennsylvania.

Three Washingtonians are among those awarded fellowships and scholarships by the graduate school of the University of Pennsylvania, according to announcement yesterday by Dr. H. Lamar Crosby, dean of the school.

William W. S. Claytor received a Harrison fellowship, carrying $1,000 and tuition. Winona Von Ammon and Mrs. Anna R. Johnson Thompson were recipients of university scholarships which give tuition free.

Twenty-four fellowship and 37 scholarships were awarded in all for the year 1932-33. Leading the awards were the Penfield Traveling scholarships in diplomacy, international affairs and belles-lettres.

Pan-American Program To Be Heard Thursday

An extensive program of Pan-American music will be played by the United States Marine Band and Pan-American artists on the esplanade of the Pan-American Union Building Thursday from 9 to 11 p. m. The program will be broadcast over Station NAA, and the concluding half hour will be sent out over the red network of the National Broadcasting Co.

All of the music to be played is the work of Latin-American composers. Announcers over the radio will be Enrique C. Canova and Herluf Provensen. Capt. Taylor Branson will conduct.

District Legion Resumes Bicentennial Fiesta

The District of Columbia department of the American Legion, which is endeavoring to raise sufficient funds to send the drum corps to the national convention at Portland, Oreg., is staging a Bicentennial fiesta at Fourteenth and R streets southeast this week, with the Bernardi Greater Shows providing all the various entertainments.

The inclement weather last week handicapped the success of the venture.

Relics Presented Mt. Vernon Group

Washington's Camp Bed and Knee-Buckle Are Given Association.

Some interesting relics have been presented to the Mount Vernon Ladies Association of the Union now in session.

Among them is a knee-buckle of Washington's, presented by Mrs. James Love, of Liberty, Mo. This buckle was given to her mother by Miss Ann Washington, who inherited it through one of Washington's brothers.

Some letters written by Nelly Parke Custis to Mrs. C. C. Pinckney, of Charleston, S. C., were presented by Mrs. Alice Felder, a descendant of Edmund Rutledge, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

A camp bed used by Washington was presented by Mrs. Adger Smythe, of Washington, formerly of Charleston, S. C. The bed is in three parts, which can be separated and the ends used as chairs.

NATIONAL PLAYERS' TESTIMONIAL FUN

20-Act Vaudeville Program Is Produced for Delight of Big Audience.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Accounts were balanced for the National Theater Players last night.

The testimonial performance, planned to reimburse the members of the repertoire company who cut their own salaries in order to meet the demands of the musicians' union and thus prevented the closing of their season at the end of two weeks instead of the minimum of ten that had previously been announced, attracted a near-capacity house that vigorously applauded every turn on a twenty-act vaudeville program that ran uninterruptedly from a prompt 8:30 first curtain until almost midnight.

Following the conclusion of the last act, a hilarious skit participated in by the entire personnel of the National Theater Players, as well as many of the others who had taken part in the bill, a reception was held on the stage. Many of the audience greeted their favorites in person and expressed something of the enthusiasm for their cause that had prompted their presence in the first place.

In addition to the membership of the National Company, last night's program enlisted the services of a large number of radio artists, personalities and acts from other local theaters, representatives of Capitol Hill, the Washington Baseball Club, the critical fraternity of the daily press and other interests anxious to lend a helping hand to their brothers of "the profession."

The bill was opened with the specially made film, "Crystallizing the News," directed by Arthur de Titta, of Fox Movietone News, for the White House Correspondents' banquet. This was followed by George Wilkinson, of WRC, who scored the first hit of the evening with two songs, "Home On the Range" and "Song of the Vagabond."

Player's Own Contributions.

Other smash hits were recorded by George O'Connor and Matt Horne, perennial Washington favorites, featuring their latest song sensation, "Saloon;" George Reid, National Broadcasting Co.'s "One-Man Minstrel Show," who offered an impersonation of Walter C. Kelly's "Virginia Judge" in place of his familiar radio specialty; Nick Altrock, comedian and coach of the Nationals; Wesley Eddy and Maxine Doyle, rival m. c.'s in a friendly way, in an unrehearsed bit of song and foolery; Peter Higgins, the brilliant young tenor, borrowed from the bill at the Earle, and Adrianne and Her Aristocrats, a women's orchestra of no mean caliber.

The National Theater Players themselves contributed a sketch by Leona Powers and Donald Woods, leading woman and leading man of the company; "If Men Were Women," George S. Kaufman's clever travesty, played by Owen Davis, jr., Donald Woods, Raymond Bramley and Forrest Orr; new songs and some of her old hits, with a rhythm dance added, by Ona Munson; Cockney songs, in character, by Clifford Brooke, the director of the company; recitations by Mrs. Adelaide Hibbard, and "The Trial," the short closing number already alluded to.

Critics Sketch Scores.

Two of the Washington critics surprised both the audience and, I dare say, themselves by presenting one of the cleverest and most capably done sketches of the evening. Miss Mabelle Jennings and Edward de S. Melcher left precious little excuse for any charges of amateurism in an amusing skit written, I believe, by Mr. Melcher and bearing the euphonious and completely admirable title of "To Hell With the Critics." Miss Jennings certainly proved that she can "take it" in the climacteric episode of this exciting bit of dramaturgy!

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH setting down a flattering appraisal of "Grand Hotel," for one who does not go in extensively for the cinema, its major triumphs or minor catastrophes, Percy Hammond pretends to see in the work of Greta Garbo one of the less impressive performances in that noble work now on view at Loew's Columbia.

In the New York Herald-Tribune of yesterday, the profoundly erudite Mr. Hammond went to rather greater lengths in praise of this film than I have ever known him to venture before in contemplation of any strip of celluloid. He perceives many differences between the gelatine and the stage renditions of the Vicki Baum novel, but none that is in any sense disadvantageous to the former.

Strangely enough, his major complaint is that the film adhered so closely to the narrative and treatment of the stage play. It would have pleased him better, it seems, if the camera version had "sprawled" a little more in defense of its reputation for being the only medium that can go in for expansive pageantry without seriously impairing drama.

I somehow suspect that the good Dr. Hammond glanced away from the screen during one or two of the more impressive of its photographic revelations.

Speaking of photographic effects reminds me that Mr. Hubbard Keavy, making use of the conveniences of the A. P. wire, calls attention to an artisan in Hollywood who has a bit of a record worth being proud of.

Ernest Lockerbie, it would appear, specializes in angels.

Fat cupids, snorting dragons, couchant lions and hundreds of less spectacular but equally useful items come out of his shop, but it is an order for angels that receives his personal and undivided attention.

For as many years as the movies have used sets—and this pleasant-voiced Scotchman goes clear back to the day when Tom Ince ordered a room with real furniture, built for a picture, thereby putting the painted scenery drop permanently out of business—Lockerbie has worked with plaster and papier mache.

Far back on one of the big studio lots is a dust-covered building called the "staff shop." Fewer curious visitors invade that powdery precinct than look in on any other department of the whole gigantic plant. Yet much of the spectacular beauty of the modern-day motion picture is the result of the work done here.

Hundreds of tons of plaster of Paris, and corresponding amounts of fiber hair, glue and papier mache are used annually. Lockerbie's shop alone employs an average crew of 20 men, working two shifts during sixteen hours of every day, although this number may be doubled during rush periods.

Lockerbie's angels, with their cherubic faces and heavenly forms, may be his personal pride and joy, but most of the work done in his "staff" shop is of a more commonplace nature.

Countless square yards of brick and stone veneer used on exterior sets is made there. At least, one model of every figure ever made is kept for possible future use. All the holy figures common in churches are kept on one shelf.

On another there are accurate copies of almost every Greek and Roman statue, most of them in several sizes. There are authentic busts of 50 or 60 great men and a few great women. There are models of cats and dogs, lions and horses.

The big job of all time in plaster work was with "Noah's Ark," when more than 300 tons of plaster went into various sets. Next to a hideous gargoyle rests a miniature of the ark. And in the next compartment are plaster vegetables and fruit, singly and in bunches. There are totem poles and big torsoed savage gods from every known religion, and a few invented by ingenious authors.

This, of course, is all very well, Mr. Keavy, but, even so, it is in Mr. Lockerbie's personal specialty and hobby that the greatest interest of the producers should center.

After all, in times like these, it is nice to know where to go when you want an "angel!"

Such a perfect spring day as yesterday was no tonic to the daytime receipts of the theaters. The matinees were distinctly off in the sums of their grosses, but with dusk business appreciably picked up. Rock Creek Park, Hains Point, the river, Glen Echo and all roads, good, bad and indifferent, in between, seemed to be getting all of the afternoon play when I rolled over the countryside on another errand that served well enough as an inspection tour of a cursory sort. A thoroughly normal condition at this time of year, ask any seasoned theater man.

The ticket sale for the testimonial performance to reimburse the National Theater Players in the amount they docked themselves to meet the demands of the musicians and thus keep the stock season from closing at the end of two weeks, also took a decided spurt with sundown at the National last evening. When the curtain went up on the specially assembled program, concerning which something should be found in another column of today's issue, it looked as if the required amount of money ought easily to be in the house.

If you don't believe there is snow at the Equator, take a peek at the first air pictures ever made of the peak of Mount Kenya, in equatorial Africa, in the current Fox Movietone News.

These views were made by a cameraman who was permitted to accompany a survey tour of the British Royal Air Corps over the colonial territory of England on the Dark Continent.

I don't mean snow on the Sahara, understand; this Mount Kenya business goes 17,040 feet up into the air and the planes flew over it at 18,500! Br-r-r.

And another thing. That circus' coming to town yesterday for the two-day engagement of four performances, beginning this afternoon, didn't help yesterday afternoon's downtown receipts any, either. Nor did the ball game.

Or don't you care so much for the alibis?

Just the same, I wish they still gave that "grand, free street pageant," with the calliope and elephants and everything, at noon on the opening day.

And so do you, you big four-flusher!

PAINTING DEDICATED AT CATHOLIC CHURCH

Blessed Bernadette Likeness at Immaculate Conception Unveiled at Service.

The unveiling and the dedication and blessing of the painting of Blessed Bernadette Soubirous took place in the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday afternoon. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of the church, presided at the service, and the Rev. F. X. Cavanagh delivered the address. The services were broadcast directly from the church through the courtesy of the Washington Catholic Radio Hour.

The painting of Blessed Bernadette is executed on copper and was copied by a Czechoslovac artist from an authentic photograph, made and imported especially for the Church of the Immaculate Conception. It has been placed in a burnt-oak frame and shrine to harmonize with other shrines in the church. The painting was donated by the White family of this city in memory of their sister, Miss C. Agnes White.

Blessed Bernadette was the little shepherdess to whom Our Lady of Lourdes appeared eighteen times in 1858 at Lourdes in France. The replica of this grotto stands in the church. Bernadette was given the title of Blessed by the Catholic Church on June 14, 1925.

The service included the blessing of the sick and the solemn Lourdes procession at the grotto. The Rev. J. Kelly Reese was celebrant at solemn benediction and was assisted by the Rev. S. A. Czyz as deacon and a friar of the atonement as subdeacon.

Under the direction of Harry Wheaton Howard, organist, the musical program included Miss Florence Yocum, soprano; Fred Nolan, barytone; Miss Ann Arlen, violinist, and the Boys' Sanctuary Choir.

AIRMAN SAYS CROSS WINDS MARRED HOP

sibly northwest, had carried me so far south that the southwest wind I was flying in then had not been enough to counteract them.

I flew north then for another half hour, returning to practically the same position and decided then the best thing for me to do was to fly due east for the following reasons:

1. I figured I was too far south of Ireland to be able to make it with my remaining gas and also I was afraid I would be unable to come down through the clouds and locate my position as it had already turned night.

2. I thought, possibly land would be just as close to the east as to the north and by heading east I would be nearer the shipping lanes.

3. I was thoroughly convinced even though I found land I could never get away with a landing on account of the rocky nature of the coast line, so had already made up my mind that the best thing to do would be to jump.

(Note—Reichers probably means he would attempt to fly his plane over land and make a parachute jump rather than to attempt a forced landing on rocky coast.)

Because of the night and poor visibility, plus my landing speed and the fact that I was tired I felt incapable of judging a forced landing.

So, when sighting the lights of the President Roosevelt, and still no land and with very little gas left, I decided there was only one thing to do and that was to set the Liberty down on the water. I signaled the boat to stand by and came down in the sea about 50 yards away.

It was very dark and visibility so poor that I had to hang my head out to see when landing. As I needed both hands to land, I could not protect my face and the shock threw me forward, hitting the cowl, but, outside of bending my nose out of shape, that required two stitches to straighten it again, there was no other damage.

It was impossible to salvage the ship due to the rough sea. Capt. Fried had to abandon the rescue boat for the same reason.

I am very grateful to Capt. Fried and his crew for the very efficient and courageous rescue, and also to the ship's surgeon for his consideration and kind attention to a nose that was pointing in the wrong direction.

I am sorry I had to lose Mr. Bernarr MacFadden's ship, but he had done enough flying himself to realize that there was no way out. He was a mighty good sportsman to let me use the Liberty, which was one of the finest ships ever built, and which was dear to my heart; and he showed his fine sportsmanship further by radioing me aboard the President Roosevelt that he did not give a thought to the loss of the Liberty so long as I was safe.

That's what I call a swell fellow.

United Food Stores Mark Anniversary

Hornstein Declines Presidency Again and Gets Honorary Title.

With a membership of 100, the United Food Stores, Inc., an organization of grocery and meat stores, celebrated its fourth anniversary Saturday night. Officers for the next year were also elected.

W. M. Hornstein, organizer of the chain of independently owned stores, who has served three terms as president, refused to run again and was elected honorary president. Morris Kraft, previously treasurer, was elected president; Morris Vigderhouse, vice president; George Heider, treasurer, and David Hornstein, re-elected secretary and reappointed general counsel.

Stores in the United Food Stores chain are home-owned and operated by the proprietor. However a warehouse located at Twelfth and E streets southwest is operated on a cooperative basis, with cooperative buying in volume to obtain lowest prices for the benefit of customers. A cooperative newspaper advertising campaign is also given credit for much of their growth and success.

constructive measures and by his frank and willing cooperation with both sides of Congress, the Nation was on the road to recovery. But when Mr. Garner failed in leadership of his group in the House there arose, one after another, a series of shocks to the confidence of the country and the world. It is not too much to say that not only has Mr. Garner lost his leadership but that the Democratic majority in the House has lost its ability for constructive action and with it the confidence of the public.

"Under these circumstances the Democratic spokesmen for weeks have clamored for word from the White House. Japhet in search of his father was not more zealous than they in demanding a clew. And when the President spoke, the Democratic panic was in direct proportion to the favorable reaction which the country gave to the President's message of last Thursday week.

"This message came to Congress while the Senate was actively engaged repairing the damage which the House had done to both the tax program and the economic program. No wonder that Mr. Garner now wishes that the President had remained silent! No wonder that he gives garrulous guarantees that if the President will keep silent, all will be well! But who will guarantee the Garner guarantees?

"Meantime, if Mr. Garner really wants to be of service to his country, I counsel him to forget for a time that he is a candidate for the Presidency, to remember that he is Speaker of the House of Representatives, and from that lofty position to make a public declaration that he and his followers in the House would give support and cooperation in the early completion of the remaining part of the reconstruction program of the President. Then, Mr. Garner not only would give great hope and confidence to the Nation, but would prove himself a great American and by thus restoring his political prestige also would prove himself a great candidate."

Dance Students Present Recital

Lisa Gardiner Assisted by Ensemble of 30 in Varied Ballet.

A students' recital was given Saturday night at Wardman Park Theater by Lisa Gardiner and the senior dance group. Miss Gardiner was assisted by an ensemble of 30 dancers in classical and modern ballets, and a group of Sapnish dances. Miss Gardiner's numbers, "Polka of 1870" and "La Corrida," and Miss Margaret Becker's "Hunting Dance" were received with enthusiasm.

Outstanding numbers on the varied program were "Chopin Waltz," by Katharine Vaughan; "Madrigal," by Alice Hunter; "Variation," by Frances Rands; "Spring Waltz," by Jane Dunscombe, and "Zambra," by Eva Vomachka.

The dance drama, "Lamia," was featured by colorful costumes, lighting and excellent pantomimic interpretation. Those taking part in "Lamia" were Miss Gardiner, Helena McGrew, Boyce Reno, Virginia Fortenstine, Frances Rands, Margaret Becker, Betty Troth, Katharine Vaughan, Jane Dunscombe, Fillis Speich, Lizzie Yoder, Alice Canter, Betty Sahm, Martha Bounds, Kathleen Piazza, Barbara Worrell, Leila Gurley, Esther Whited, Elizabeth Berkeley, Eda Vomachka, Evelyn Glasser, Betty Angerman, Vivian Dawson, Helen Roberts and Christine Stewart.

The "Pas Doble," executed by Miss Gardiner, and the Misses Stewart, Vaughan, Vomachka, Dunscombe, Hortenstine and Bounds, was the dance climax of the program.

300 Young March In May Procession

Mgr. Gavan in Charge of Ceremonies at Shrine of Sacred Heart.

More than 300 children yesterday took part in colorful exercises featuring the annual May Procession of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, Sixteenth street and Park road northwest. The Rev. Patrick C. Gavan, pastor of the church, was in charge of the ceremonies.

Rita Casey was crowned May queen. Her attendents included Ann Freely, crown bearer; Mary Donovan and Jane Probey, train bearers, and Mary Joan McAllister, Marjorie Elsey, Elizabeth Smith and Carolyn Ann Redmond, flower girls.

Following exercises in the small park at Sixteenth street and Park road, where a monument is being erected to the late James Cardinal Gibbons, the procession filed into the shrine to hear an address by Monsignor Gavan. Spring flowers were massed about the interior and the ceremonies concluded with benediction.

Less than an hour before their disappearance they had been observed walking along the canal tow-path about a mile above Seneca.

The hiking party started out in search of them, aided by 100 residents of the vicinity, as well as volunteer fire companies from Gaithersburg and Rockville. One of the searchers was Austin B. J. Clark, brother of Ann.

Whether the girls became lost in the woods or were drowned in either the river or the canal is unknown. Both of them are capable swimmers, according to other members of the party, who also advanced the idea that one of the girls may have slipped into the water and the other might have gone to her rescue, and both might have drowned.

Those in charge of the party think that the two high school students may have been overtaken by darkness and lost their way in the woods. Even though the girls were capable swimmers, they said, and might have fallen into the river, they would have difficulty keeping afloat because of the turbulence created in the water by the heavy rains.

Firemen brought powerful searchlights into the search of the woods, and volunteers equipped themselves with electric torches and spread out through the forest. After five hours search the girls of the party were brought back to Washington while the young men remained to assist volunteers.

All of the young men and women are members of the Allegro Club, composed of attendants at the church Sunday school. They left the vicinity of the All Souls' Unitarian Church at Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest, about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and went to vicinity of Seneca in automobiles.

Upon arrival the hikers separated into groups and chose their own paths through the woods. After Armstead Wharton, of 4812 Thirtieth street, the pathfinder of the hikers, had rounded up the stragglers, the girls were found to be missing.

Crops Threatened By Grasshoppers

South Dakota and Nearby States Plan to Ask for Federal Aid.

Pierre, S. Dak., May 15 (A.P.).—Increasing prospects for another crop-destroying grasshopper plague in the upper Missouri Valley has alarmed officials of South Dakota and nearby States.

With warm weather, large numbers of grasshoppers have started to hatch from the eggs deposited in the soil last summer after the insects had devoured corn, small grain and forage crops, stripping many fields bare.

Gov. Warren Green of South Dakota today awaited action by the executives of Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, Montana and North Dakota, whom he has asked to urge congressional appropriations for combating the grasshopper menace.

The Shipstead resolution, proposing that the Federal Government buy poison mash to be distributed by the States, is to come before the House of Representatives tomorrow.

Entomologists say that immediate control measures are essential if crops are to be saved.

BROWNS SNAP NATS' STREAK BY WINNING DUEL, 1-0

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THIS department is still thrilling over that three-horse finish of the Preakness that found Burgoo King's nose laying on the wire a head in front of Tick On, with Boatswain's snout just the breadth of a hand farther back.

There was a finish to melt emotional reserve of the gargoyles guarding the entrances of the Million Dollar Bridge. The racegoer who could remain calm in the face of that pulsating test of horseflesh and horsemanship could condone the act of the Lindbergh kidnapers. It was that kind of a race best described by that old bromide—hoss race.

The 40,000 who bulged the extremities of Pimlico's creaking plant were treated to a hoss race from the time that Starter Milton snapped the rubber barrier on the field in the stalls until Burgoo King flashed by the judges the winner in a finish that would have found all three leaders hidden beneath the stretch of one good-sized horse blanket.

Burgoo King had none the best of it as the field dashed from the stalls, with Boatswain to the fore and stretching his advantage to two lengths as the bluebloods of the turf swept past the judges' pagoda the first time, but Tick On was justifying his fatoritism by running second to the pace.

The 40,000 had not bargained on this slew start for Burgoo King, which closely attended the pace in the Derby a week before, but they were not unduly exercised by Boatswain's early efforts. He was just a long-shot who could be expected to fade before the challenge of the favorites whenever Robertson, on Tick On, and James, on Burgoo King, were ready to challenge seriously.

But Boatswain didn't fade. This son of Man o' War, bred for the distance, hung tenaciously to the precious length or two he had stolen from the barrier. He was flying out there in front long after the field turned into the stretch, and he was making a race of it, but Burgoo King had displaced Tick On in second position by a half length and was slowly eating up the daylight between him and the leader.

A sixteenth out it was anybody's race. But James, the little Louisville newsboy, who had ridden Burgoo King to victory in the Derby, had the advantage of the outside position as the trio set sail in chariot fashion for the wire. He had free whipping room, while his two rivals were in close quarters, and this extra urging stood Burgoo King in good stead.

It was a perfect spot for a foul. The three were buck-jumping almost abreast as the finish line loomed and leg-locking or vicious handiwork might have been employed by either Robertson or Hanford with little chance of detection. But they were bent only on getting their mounts down to the finish.

Burgoo's margin was a good head, as James, whipping with one hand, fairly lifted his mount over the wire with the other. Robertson, on Tick On, had succeeded in coming through the middle to get his mount's nose down in front of Boatswain. The judges alone could place these latter two. It was a grand finish of a grand hoss race, and whatever the future may hold, Burgoo King and Eugene James were the best combination last Saturday.

D.C. Women's Title Event Draws 60

Medal Play Listed Today, Tomorrow at Manor Club.

Two Former Champs Beaten as Quaker Women Cop.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE women's annual golf tournament for the championship of the District of Columbia will open today on the course of the Manor Club with approximately 60 entries. The field will be divided, the major portion playing eighteen holes this morning and the remainder tomorrow. Match play will begin Wednesday with contestants assigned to flights of eight in the order of their scores. Women golfers who have not yet entered and who desire to play should report at the first tee tomorrow mornnig and will be given pairings upon payment of $3 entrance fee.

The other principal event today will be an amateur-professional tournament on the Indian Spring course under the auspices of the Middle Atlantic Professional Golfers Association.

Indian Springers Beat Kenwood Team.

Forty members of the Indian Spring and Kenwood Clubs, divided into two teams of twenty players each, competed in a team match on the Kenwood course yesterday afternoon. The procession was led by the two club professionals, A. L. Houghton, Kenwood, and George Diffenbaugh, Indian Spring. Their individual match resulted in a victory for Houghton, whose fine card of 35—36—71 gave him 3 and 2 over his opponent. Indian Spring won the match, 12 to 8. The summary:

A. L. Houghton (K) defeated George Diffenbaugh (IS), 3 and 2; Maury Fitzgerald (K) vs. Thomas M. Belshe (IS), all even. Best ball—Kenwood, 3 and 2.

J. William Harvey, Jr., (IS) defeated Forrest Thompson (K), 4 and 3; Thomas S. Pitt (Argyle) defeated R. M. Bishop (K), 6 and 5. Best ball—Indian Spring, 5 and 4.

Maj. J. E. McClure (K) defeated H. A. Lacey (IS), 1 up; Bruce Worden (K) defeated Dr. L. S. O'Tell, 1 up. Best ball—All even.

L. D. Sasscer (IS) defeated Royce Hough (K), 4 and 3; Elliott Spicer (IS) defeated George A. Tew (K), 1 up. Best ball—Indian Spring, 3 and 2.

Norman J. Hall (K) defeated J. V. Brownell (IS), 3 and 2; Leo F. Pass (IS) defeated George Beyer (K), 3 and 2. Best ball—Indian Spring, 3 and 2.

Charles Demarest (K) vs. Richard Peacock (IS), all even; Thomas Powers (K) defeated L. A. Strong (IS), 1 up. Best ball—All even.

Thomas Good (K) vs. J. R. Emigh (IS), all even; G. A. Yaese (IS) defeated C. P. Medley (K), 4 and 3. Best ball—Indian Spring, 3 and 2.

W. B. Vogel (IS) defeated Harry Whelan (K), 2 up; Dr. G. W. Maxfield (IS) defeated George Llewellyn (K), 1 up. Best ball—Indian Spring, 2 up.

J. E. Voll (K) vs. H. S. Pope (IS), all even; Lloyd Carey (K) vs. Ed Carroll (IS), all even. Best ball—Kenwood, 1 up.

George Brown (K) defeated Howard Eales (IS), 1 up; John C. Wineman (IS) defeated J. Mason (K), 3 and 2. Best ball—All even.

Philadelphia Golf Stars Beaten.

The All-Philadelphia against the All-Washington Women's Golf Team match on the course of the National Women's Country Club yesterday resulted in a victory for the visitors by a score of 19½ points to 10½ points. The feature of the day was the defeat of Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Mrs. Clarence H. Vanderbeck, two former national champions, by Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Middle Atlantic champion, and Miss Winifred Faunce, Manor, who, in a Nassau match, won 2½ out of 3 points. The summary:

Mrs. J. M. Haynes and Miss Winifred Faunce (W.), 2½ points; Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Mrs. C. H. Vanderbeck (P.), ½ point.

Dixie Light-Heavy King Meets Bingo Joe Banovic in Feature; Latter Has Better Record; Five Other Bouts.

BOB GODWIN, Southern light-heavyweight champion, faces another chance to step up the flatic ladder tonight when he squares off against Bingo Joe Banovic, Binghamton, N. Y., whirlwind, in the eight-round bout featuring the Alexandria Day Nursery's benefit card in Portner Arena.

Godwin has never failed to impress in his five previous appearances at Alexandria and figures to continue to do so tonight, although his foe is capable of extending him. The Southerner has been training strenuously at Long Branch, N. J., under the direction of Jimmy De Forrest, veteran trainer of pugilists. De Forrest will be in his corner.

Banovic Has Better Record.

Banovic, with a better record on paper than Godwin (Bingo Joe has beaten more first-rate boxers than Godwin), is said to be a hard puncher with the willingness to toss his full power into a bout at the very outset.

Should Banovic open up the throttle, the fight is certain to furnish plenty of thrills, for against this type of boxer Godwin is at his best. The Dixie 175-pound king hopes to end the bout as quickly as possible, thus increasing his attractiveness in the "major leagues," where Banovic has been operating for two years.

Heavyweights will collide in the eight-round semifinal, involving Godwin's sparring partner, Bob Tow, and Wid Mathews, of Baltimore. Tow, who weighs 200, boasts a victory over Dewey Kimrey, champion of the Carolinas, and has fought close bouts with Battling Bozo and Joe Knight. Mathews is somewhat of an unknown quantity.

A quartet of four-rounders complete the card. The main prelim brings together Henry Irving, Northeast slugger, and Sammy Britt, Philadelphia middleweight. Irving seeks a chance at Young Van, who succeeded him as local middleweight leader, but must hurdle the Britt obstacle in order to make good.

Manley Imported for Go With Belt.

Roy "Kid" Manley, an importation from Arkansas, battles Jesse Belt, Washington; Joe Raspi, Baltimore, meets Marino Marini, Washington, and Doug Swetman, Washington, opposes Soldier Ran in the other bouts. First bout at 8:30.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Godwin to defeat Banovic; Tow to check Mathews; Irving to shade Britt; Manley to outpoint Belt; Marini to down Raspi and Swetman to beat Ran. (Batting average, .743.)

CUBS BEATEN BY PHILS IN SLUGFEST

Three Homers Feature 8-6 Game; Cub Errors Costly.

CHICAGO, May 15 (A.P.).—A barrage of extra base hits in the closing innings gave Philadelphia an 8-to-6 victory over the Cubs in the series opener today, and accounted for Lonnie Warnecke's first defeat of the season.

The Cubs had pecked away at Phil Collins and had a 4-to-2 lead going into the seventh. The Phillies then opened up on Warneke and scored in the last three inninga to get the decision. The Phils had to use four pitchers, but Collins received credit for the victory.

Hurst Bat Hero Of Phils.

The assault on Warneke was led by Don Hurst, who exploded a home run, triple and double, scored three runs and drove in two more. Virgel Davis and Chuck Klein also hit homers, and the former had a double to his credit. Klein and Hurst got their circuit drives during a three-run uprising in the seventh, and Davis made his in the eighth.

The Cub defense, which usually is at its best behind Warneke, let the tall Arkansan down today. Woody English was the big offender with four errors, while Jurges added another one.

Giants Trip Reds, 9-1, As Pop Bottles Fly

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 15 (A.P.).—The New York Giants fell on four Cincinnati Reds pitchers today and won, 9 to 1.

The Reds' lone tally came in the eighth on two singles and an out at first that brought a shower of pop bottles to the field. Grantham hit a bounder toward first that jumped over Terry's head. However, Critz backed up Terry and slid into the sack with the ball about the same time Grantham did. Play was held up seven minutes by the protests after Grantham was called out by Umpire William Klem.

TIGERS SLUG BALL HARD; BEAT A'S

DETROIT, May 15 (A.P.).—A five-run rally in the fifth inning, climaxed by Charlie Gehringer's seventh home run of the season, figured prominently in a 7-to-2 victory by the Tigers over the Philadelphia Athletics here today.

That attack was at the expense of Leroy Mahaffey, who had engaged in a tight pitching duel with Tommy Bridges during the first four innings. Mahaffey yielded to Rube Walberg in the sixth and Bridges gave way to Elon Hogsett in the same inning when he wavered.

Foxx got a home run in the fifth, with none on. Gehringer drove in a total of four runs.

Army-Navy Runners Meet In A. A. U. Championships

NOT the least interesting of the feature events on the program of tomorrow night's District A. A. U. track meet in Byrd Stadium, College Park, will be the 5,000 meters run, which brings together a pair of former service academy stars in Lieut. George Lermond, Army, and Ensign F. E. Highley, Navy.

Lermond, who won the national A. A. U. 2-mile championship when he competed for West Point, is expected to furnish stern opposition for Highley, who was the greatest 2-miler ever turned out at Annapolis.

Another event in which much local interest centers is the 400-meter dash, that has attracted a field of eleven quarter-milers. Most prominent of the list is Jake Edwards, former Tech High School star and now a member of the Pennsylvaria University relay team that established a new mile relay record for the Penn relays last month by traveling the distance in 3 minutes 15 2-5 seconds.

Edwards will be opposed by Gayle McGuigan, Catholic University track captain, and others representing Catholic and Maryland Universities.

Prices of admission to the meet, the first of its kind ever held in this region at night, are $1 for reserved seats and 50 cents for general admission.

Ruffing Fans 12 to Defeat Tribe, 5-0

Indians Held to Five Hits; 45,000 See Gotham Game.

NEW YORK, May 15 (A.P.).—Charley "Rufus the Red" Ruffing, big Yankee right hander, pitched his second successive four-hit game today, turning back the Cleveland Indians, 5 to 0, for the Yanks' sixth victory in a row and the third straight shutout.

Ruffing made the day all the more complete for 45,000 fans by striking out twelve and beating the Cleveland ace, Wesley Ferrell. It was Ferrell's third straight defeat after winning his first five starts.

Ferrell held off the Yankee sluggers for five innings, but after two were out in the sixth New York sent three runs across the plate. Ruth drew a pass, stole second and scored on Ben Chapman's double. Dickey followed with a single and Chapman scored. Then Tony Lazzeri finished the rally with a triple.

Yanks Presented With Runs.

Two Yankees' runs in the seventh were in the nature of gifts. Earl Combs' single and a pass to Lary started it. They advanced on Ruth's out and a balk by Ferrell let Combs score. Lary came in on a wild pitch.

Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland manager, was chased from the field by Umpire Guthrie in the eighth when he continued to argue over the plate umpire's decision on Ferrell's balk.

Close Finish Marks Albany-N. Y. Contest

New York, May 15 (U.P.).—Charley Cabot and Kenneth Mackenzie were only 2 of the 91 who started, but they turned today's fifth annual Albany-to-New York 132-mile outboard motorboat race into a duel and bounced over the finish line just south of Washington Memorial Bridge an even second apart.

Both Cabot and Mackenzie are from New Haven, the former a 29-year-old garage proprietor, the latter, 17, a high school senior. They put on the most magnificent finish in the five-year history of the Nation's most grueling outboard test, drawing cheers from thousands who lined the footwalks of the bridge and the East Shore of the Hudson.

BURGOO KING ARRIVES AT BELMONT PARK FOR WITHERS

Col. Bradley Greets His Champion

James Says He Never Rode Gamer Colt Than King.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, May 15 (A.P.).—Col. E. R. Bradley's beautiful chestnut colt, Burgoo King, which joined turfdom's immortals yesterday by thundering down the stretch at Pimlico ahead of a fighting field in the classic Preakness, arrived at Belmont Park, N. Y., today to prepare for his sprint test there in the Withers mile, May 28.

This mighty son of Bubbling Over, winner of the Kentucky Derby the week before, raced to honors yesterday shared only by Sir Barton and Gallant Fox, the only 3-year-olds in American turf history which have captured both spring classics.

"Well suh!" said Col. Bradley today, as Burgoo King stepped from a huge moving van at stable No. 39, "the hoss seems in mighty fine condition. If he stays that way he'll be able to keep all of his engagements this season."

King to Seek "Classic."

The famous Kentucky turfman said these engagements include participation in the "classic" at Arlington Park, Chicago, in July. Should Burgoo King win the classic, he will win approximately $70,000 for his owner. This sum would include an extra $10,000 awarded for taking three important stakes in a row.

The Withers mile will net the winner about $28,000. Another of Col. Bradley's famous horses, Blue Larkspur, won that fixture in 1929, and in the same season carried off first place honors in the Arlington classic.

The colonel did not witness Burgoo King's triumph yesterday because he had refrained from making the trip to the Maryland track due to ill health. However, he sat close to the United Press wire at Belmont Park and expressed himself as "mighty proud" of his thoroughbred's fighting finish when the results came in.

James Praises Colt.

Jockey Eugene James declared he never had ridden a gamer horse. He said the Kentucky Derby was a walkaway for Burgoo King, "but this Preakness was a fight every inch of the way. We might have made much better time were it not for a little trouble at the start. I don't think there is a 3-year-old in the world who can beat him."

Col. Bradley, Trainer Dick Thompson and Jockey James are agreed that Burgoo King's unusual combination of speed, stamina and fighting heart should permit him to finish this season with a truly remarkable record for a 3-year-old.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

Joe tries his famous secret handicapping system again today. So far a $5 flat play on his selections shows a profit of $150. Saturday's code horse after being practically left at the post finished second. Out of 18 code horses released, 8 won, 8 second, 1 third, 1 lost—not bad. Asbestos' bank roll is $23.69.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL,

Today's charity day at this track and farewell day for major racing in Maryland until the fall. The unemployed will be aided by the profits and I sincerely hope that some of the money finds its way into the pockets of the men who might have had those jobs behind the ticket sellers checking up the bets. Pimlico did away with this feature.

Well, Al, I offer no excuses for my Preakness choice but I can't help reminding you that I picked Brown Pet, Frumper, Jolly Pilot and Mainsheet Saturday and two of my other winning selections were second. I expect both you and the unemployed to profit with these.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—KELTWICK disappointed last week over a heavy course but with prospects of a fast track for today I am relying on this one to start me off with a winner. Ran two nice races before and is favored by a good post position. ALEETA also was well backed the last time. This filly had a rough trip. Luck today would make her second. BOBBY F, providing he gets in the race, will be mighty dangerous.

SECOND RACE—PETURNAL and Johnny McTaggart may upset the dope bucket here and pay off in telephone numbers. Lacked the speed of trials in that only outing. McTaggart will be ready to hustle the youngster today and hasn't a whole lot to beat. TOWN SQUARE turned in a fine race over a heavy track and may be the favorite. NEMERC ran well behind Serenabit and is third choice.

THIRD RACE—WORTHINGTON seems to have brackets in the bag in this maiden race. Has recent races that make him much superior. TUFFY G was close to Spanfair last week and off that showing is named second. YANCY did well at Jamaica and is a possibility.

FOURTH RACE—ILCHESTER was sent to the post in a tough spot and with 122 pounds up. Takes off 12 pounds today. May run up to some fast trials. This one is paired with STROLL ALONG, a fast fellow with two straight victories to his credit. GARDEN MESSAGE collected the big purse the last time and must be beaten. BALLYGRAN has some nice races to recommend him for third.

FIFTH RACE—OPEN HEARTH gets in this race with only 110 pounds and I see Broadway Jones' son taking the purse. Has beaten better and is at top shape. If ANNIMESSIC can run back to that race behind Royal Ruffian he has a chance here. PENCADER'S last was fine.

SIXTH RACE—VOLTAGREEN has a way of beating horses that have beaten her. With this in mind, I am giving her the edge over WISE COUNT. The Count will hardly have Workman to urge him along today and it may be a different story. VOLTAGREEN is likely to draw Gilbert as her rider. FERVOR carries 124 pounds and I can't see him better than third.

SEVENTH RACE—The bug is off HOMELIKE, assuring an experienced rider and I expect the veteran router to furnish a surprise. Not the best plater in the world, but a good one when right. Of course, HAPPEN must be considered. In the race well. TULACH ARD for the third money.

G. U. Preps Take Lead In School Golf Loop

Georgetown Prep assumed the lead in the Prep School Golf League by scoring a 6-0 victory over Friends School in a match played at Garrett Park yesterday. It was Friends' first defeat of the season. Allen defeated Lunn, 6 and 5, and Finn downed Turner, 9 and 7, with Georgetown Prep winning best ball, 7 and 5, in the first foursome. Donoghue was extended to gain a 2-1 victory over Dodge in the second foursome. Zubrod came in with a 5 and 3 win over Eakin, best ball again going to the Garrett Parkers, 5 and 3.

Palais Royal, Hecht's Store League Victors

Palais Royal nosed out Lansburgh, 6 to 5, and Hechts took the measure of Kanns, 9 to 3, in the Department Store League yesterday. Lansburgh extended Palais Royal to the limit before bowing. A run in the seventh and final inning clinched the victory. Hechts coasted in with the decision over Kanns. The Seventh street aggregation sewed up the game with a four-run attack in the seventh inning.

UNLIMITED FAVORITES WIN

Dixie, Ciros, Printers in Victories

Col. Heights, Rock Creek and Federal Storage Win.

Simons, Jones, Ensor and Stevens Among Day's Stars.

THE POST'S Capital City League had its 1932 coming out party yesterday, a very successful one, but, alas, also costly for those teams that happened to be on the short end of some of the largest scores ever recorded in any league games, not to mention the inaugurals.

In Section A the Dixie Pigs hammered out a 13-4 victory over Horning Jewelers, Ciro's Villagers turned back Congress Heights, 4-1, and the Union Printers tacked a 14-1 reversal on the Highway Department. Matters were little better in Section B, where Columbia Heights swamped Franc Jewelers, 12-1, Rock Creek Service Center defeated Diamond Cab, 14-3, and Federal Storage won over St. Joseph's, 9-5.

Horning Jewelers, after holding the Dixies on even terms, collapsed in the seventh inning and allowed eight runs to trickle over the plate. The Pigs pounded Carter and Edmonston for 13 hits. "Huck" Stahl, Eddie Radtke and "Blackie" Adair led the assault. Adair, shared the hurling burden with Long and set the Jewelers down with seven hits.

Ciro's Villagers

Score.

Ciro's Italian Villagers, with Frank Di Nenna serving them up in great style, overcame their Congress Heights jinx. Di Nenna allowed only six hits and fanned as many. "Jodie" Barry and Jack Casper contributed some sparkling fielding feats to aid in the victory. Wilner and Cacher did the most effective stick work, each collecting two hits in four attempts. Di Nenna also had two hits to his credit. The Heights nine performed in creditable fashion but found six hits insufficient to win the game.

Ed Lowery's Union Printers worked off a few pounds of excessive flesh at the expense of the Highway Department. The Printers walloped the ball often and soundly. Si Simons meanwhile was breezing through to victory like an express train. Hodges went to his relief in the seventh when Si threatened to hurl a shutout.

"Lefty" Stevens and his celebrated "hook" had St. Joseph's completely at his mercy yesterday, and the Saints dropped one of the few opening games they have ever lost. Tommy Valenza's capers around the middle sack featured the Federals' defensive work. He accepted nine chances during the game without a miscue. Joe Freschi played well at first base for the winners in addition to poling two of Larry Schneider's tosses for hits.

Rock Creek Club Triumphs.

For exactly five innings Diamond Cab appeared to be on the verge of turning in one of the most stunning upsets this city has ever witnessed. They led Rock Creek Service Center, formerly Olmsted Grill, 3 to 1, until the sixth, when "Snitz" Nau's charges finally solved McPherson and shoved seven markers over the scoring block.

They continued their savage attack in the seventh to score five more and put the game far beyond the reach of the Diamond aggregation. "Tack" Ensor, who twirled for Rock Creek and gave up only three hits, turned slugger for the nonce and collected three bingles. Jules Sorrell also had his eye on the ball. He made five hits. Bernie Jones, former Saks player, fitted in rather nicely with the team at left field.

Franc Jewelers proved to be no match for the powerful Columbia Heights nine, and the latter won going away. Dick Wingate, up to his old tricks, landed on the offerings of Carter for a pair of triples and two singles. "Brother" Harding slammed out a trio of safeties. "Red" Rhodes and Reid held the Franc batsmen to six hits. Howard, Franc catcher, showed to an advantage for his nine.

New York Canoeist Shows Way Home in 5-Mile Race

MAKING his own pace and leading all the way, Ernie Reidel, of the Pendleton Club, of New York, yesterday won the first national 5-mile marathon canoe race on the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal. Reidel, who has held the world's double blade title for ten years, breezed home in the fastest time ever recorded locally for the distance —50 minutes and 15 seconds.

Finishing three-quarters of a mile back of Reidel came Harry Knight, Washington Canoe Club veteran, in second place, while third place was won by Ernie Millar, of the Potomac Boat Club, who staged a thrilling duel with a club mate, George Shorb. Less than 3 yards separated Millar and Shorb at the finish.

John Long, Potomac Boat Club, and Herman Vollmer, Washington Canoe Club, were the only other entrants. They finished in the order named. Several other out-of-town paddlers besides Reidel had filed entries for the race but failed to appear.

Summaries:

First, Ernie Reidel, Pendleton Canoe Club, New York, 50 minutes 15 seconds; second, Harry Knight, Washington Canoe Club, 57 minutes 10 seconds; third, Ernie Millar, Potomac Boat Club, 57 minutes 40 seconds; fourth, George Shorb, Potomac Boat Club, 57 minutes 50 seconds; fifth, John Long, Potomac Boat Club, 59 minutes 45 seconds; sixth, Herman Vollmer, Washington Canoe Club, 1 hour 11 minutes 30 seconds.

WONDER AND PALE DRY WINNERS

Arlingtons, Thompson's Bow in Midget Section.

WONDER BREAD and National Pale Dry were anything but food and drink for their opponents as the midget division of The Post's Capital City League inaugurated its season yesterday. The Wonders scored a well-earned 6-to-2 victory over Arlington Post, and the Pale Drys swamped Thompson's Furniture, 15 to 0.

Raiford held Arlington to seven well-scattered hits to lead the Breadmen to victory. He retired seven men on strikes, while his mates were busy collecting thirteen safeties.

Bohnke, Harris, Schwab Star at Bat.

Two runs in the first inning and as many more in the third put the game on ice for the winners. Bohnke, Harris and Schwab starred at bat for the Wonders, while Buck was best for the losers.

Frank Barno checked Thompson's Furniture with a trio of blows to send the Pale Drys off to a flying start. He also connected for three hits in five trips to the plate to help in the run-making. McReady, and Smith also came through with timely bingles for the winners. Fabrey was credited with two of the three hits the Thompson lads made.

Two runs in the first inning and as many more in the third put the game on ice for the winners. Bohnke, Harris and Schwab starred at bat for the Wonders, while Buck was best for the losers.

Frank Barno checked Thompson's Furniture with a trio of blows to send the Pale Drys off to a flying start. He also connected for three hits in five trips to the plate to help in the run-making. McReady, and Smith also came through with timely bingles for the winners. Fabrey was credited with two of the three hits the Thompson lads made.

SENIOR WINS TO KOONTZ SWANN

Close, Well Played Games in Capital City League.

THE Koontz and Swann Service teams were returned victorious in their opening games in the senior division of The Post's Capital City League, played yesterday. Koontz nosed out the Takoma Tigers, 3 to 2, and Swann took a fall out of their junior class rivals of last year, Clifton Barbers, winning by a score of 5 to 2.

Davis, of Koontz, and Meiklejohn, of Takoma, put on a big-league hurling duel for the benefit of the large crowd which witnessed the fray. The former granted but six hits and his rival only seven. But Koontz bunched a trio of its blows in the sixth inning for a pair of runs, and a one-run lead, which it held until the ninth, when the Tigers knotted the count on hits by Al Stewart and Sidell. The suburbanites' first score was made in round 5. Davis won his own game in the final inning with a stinging single to center which enabled Beall, who had walked, to score.

The combined effectiveness of Bragg's pitching and Wyatt's slugging produced a victory for the Swann nine. Bragg limited the Barbers to five hits and was master of the situation at all times. Clifton averted a shutout by shoving over a run in the eighth frame and another in the ninth. Wyatt connected for three hits, including one good for the circuit, to garner the batting honors of the day. Swann's four runs in the sixth decided the issue.

PEEPING MOON WINS SADDLE-HORSE PRIZE AT BRADLEY FARMS

ONE ENTRY DESTROYED AFTER TAKING TUMBLE

L. C. Leith's Jumping Fool Takes Greatest Number of Blue Ribbons.

In this colorful class teams of three horses were shown over the long course of the Bradley Farms. Each horse was ridden in the colors of a recognized hunt club.

Wins Hunter Stake.

Rathfarnham, an 8-year-old chestnut gray exhibited by William Stevenson, suffered a bad fall in the triple bar jump and had to be destroyed. The jump was won by Squire, exhibited by the Fort Myer Horse Show Team. Eastern Morn, owned by Miss Mary Ellen Corby, placed second.

Light Weight Hunter Winner.

Jumping Fool also won the modified Olympic class, and by virtue of her performance helped her owner to win the silver medal awarded to the exhibitor winning the greatest number of blue ribbons.

THE MAJESTIC MAMMOTH MASTODONS ARRIVE!

EAGER FANS READY FOR CIRCUS TODAY

Ringling & Barnum & Bailey Will Give Four Shows Today and Tomorrow.

Books will be carried to school today by Washington's juvenile population and kids will sit at desks and go through their recitations, but odds will have it that many a vacant stare will greet the teacher's query, for the circus is in town, and kids are kids.

Memories of pink lemonade and ochre-dabbed faces were visioned yesterday as hundreds watched the huge canvas tent of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, world's largest circus, putting up the big top at Camp Meigs grounds.

Even before the canvas cover was completed the more venturous counterparts of "Huckleberry Finn" were to be seen sneaking beneath the tent sides. At Benning, where the circus unloaded, a large group of youthful admirers watched the many loaded trains bring in the animals. Vividly painted wagons drawn by a long string of horses carried the animal members to the circus grounds.

The troupers, arriving at the circus grounds, lent the finishing touches to a scene of a colorful nomad city of flapping white canvas. Preparing for the performance today, a small army of workers was busily engaged in quartering the personnel and equipment and feeding the animals as dusk settled.

Aspirants to the job of carrying water buckets for the elephants proved by their number that the youngsters of Washington still resemble their parents in the attraction to the sawdust rings. Advance yells of "peanuts" and "lemonade" could be heard at the camping grounds mingling with the hammer strokes, as tent pegs were pounded into the earth.

Afternoon and evening performances today and tomorrow will be given by the traveling performers. The circus, the gayest of all events, in a city of events, is here.

Memorial Service For Miss Lathrop

Social Workers Pay Tribute to Former Chief of Children's Bureau.

The church conference of social work, in session at Friends Meeting House in Haverford, Pa., devoted a service yesterday morning to the memory of Miss Julia Lathrop, the first director of the Federal Children's Bureau and the first woman chief of a Government bureau.

The principal address was made by Lewis Meriam, a member of the staff of the Brookings Institute, of this city, who was first assistant chief of the Children's Bureau under Miss Lathrop. Mr. Meriam spoke of the Children's Bureau as "a fitting memorial to Miss Lathrop, being the product of her own vision, wisdom and courage."

Miss Lathrop was appointed chief of the Children's Bureau when it was first created 20 years ago. She was recognized as one of the half dozen most eminent women of the Nation, having been an associate of Jane Addams at Hull House, and a former president of the national conference of social work.

Storekeeper Is Held Up By Cigarette Customer

Entering Israel Furr's delicatessen store at 1217 First street northwest about midnight last night, a colored man asked for a packet of cigarettes and produced a pistol instead of cash.

He ordered Furr to empty the cash register, containing $9.85, and disappeared. Furr told police the man was of medium height and fairly well dressed.

Reichelderfer Speaks On Landing of Negroes

The 313th anniversary of the landing of the first colored people in the United States was observed yesterday at the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church in Pythian Temple, at Twelfth and U streets northwest.

An address of welcome was given by Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer.

Capital 26th In Illiteracy, List Reveals

Twenty-five large cities of the United States show lesser percentages of illiteracy among their populations than Washington, according to a list published by the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, of which Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur is chairman.

Spokane, which led the list for 1930, dropped to fifth place, while Long Beach, Calif., and Peoria, Ill., became tied for first place with a percentage of 0.5 illiteracy among their populations. The National Capital's mark was 1.6.

Fall River, Mass., occupied the last place among the 93 cities listed, with a percentage of 10.2. New Bedford, Mass., was next above Fall River with a rank of 8.8 per cent.

CONGRESS OF S. A. R. OPENING HERE TODAY

Justice Van Orsdel to Call Meeting; Hoover Will Greet Delegates.

With 350 delegates already registered, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution will open its forty-third annual congress this morning at the Mayflower Hotel.

The delegates attended a memorial service at the Church of the Epiphany yesterday afternoon at which the memory of the late president general, Benjamin Newhall Johnson, of Lynn, Mass., was eulogized by the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, pastor of the Universalist Memorial Church, and a former resident of Lynn.

The service was also featured by an address by the chaplain general, the Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, of New London, Conn., and the massing of colors of the flags of all the States.

The opening session this morning will be ushered in with a concert by the United States Marine Band. Associate Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of the District Court of Appeals, president general of the organization, will call the meeting to order. A message from President Hoover will be read.

Greetings will be brought from Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer; Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Samuel Shaw Arentz, president of the National Society, Children of the American Revolution; Mrs. Harry C. Grove, State regent, District of Columbia Society, Daughters of the American Revolution; Justice Walter I. McCoy, vice president, Sons of the American Revolution, and Samuel S. Williamson, president, District of Columbia Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

The delegates will be photographed with President Hoover at noon at the White House. A reception will be given Justice Van Orsdel at the national headquarters, 1227 Sixteenth street northwest, tonight. The congress will continue through Wednesday, with the annual banquet taking place tomorrow night.

Man Gravely Hurt In Fall Under Train

Was Riding Brake Rods of Coach Near Capital's Union Station.

Raymond Young, 33 years old, of St. Louis, Mo., was seriously injured yesterday when he fell underneath the wheels of a New York-bound train while riding the brake rods.

Young, who beat his way to Washington from St. Louis by riding freight trains, got aboard the passenger train as it was leaving Union Station. Near Seventh street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, he fell beneath the wheels.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED IN SERIES OF THEFTS

A long list of robberies of chain grocery stores, gasoline stations and telephone pay boxes, is believed solved by police with the arrest of four men yesterday.

The four men held for investigation are Robert P. Davis, 21; Charles Murray, 36; John Henry Smith, 31, and Clifford E. Lee, 25, all of 313 and 311 D street northwest. Detective Sergt. J. J. Tolson and Precinct Detective John F. Boxwell arrested Murray and Davis yesterday as they were leaving their rooming house, loaded with groceries. Information received from these two led to the arrest of Sheehan and Lee later in the day.

According to police, the gang, said to be from out of town, is believed to have been operating here since last December. Larceny and property damage to telephone boxes are estimated by detectives to be well over $5,000. A $900 cash register was wantonly destroyed in one instance, and in other cases a whole side of a wall was torn out to get the telephone boxes off.

Taxicab Driver Robbed Him of $27, Man Says

John William Brown, of 2111 First street northwest, reported to police that he was taken for a ride into the country yesterday by a taxicab driver, brought back to the city and then robbed of $27.

According to Brown, he hired the cab at Seventh street and Florida avenue northwest and was taken somewhere out in the country to a "beer joint" and then returned to an alley near Seventh street and East Capitol street, where the white cab driver took the money out of Brown's right shoe, where he had hidden it.

Man, 78, Seriously Hurt When Struck by Auto

John Berry, colored, 78 years old, of 219 Q street northwest, is in Casualty Hospital in a serious condition from injuries suffered when struck by a hit-and-run driver yesterday afternoon on Bladensburg road and Neal street northeast.

Berry was crossing the road when struck by a car listed to a sailor attached to the U. S. S. Idaho. He received a fractured leg, lacerations to the head and face and shock.

Right Arm of Man, 74, Broken by Automobile

William G. Flood, 74 years old, of 1424 W street northwest, was injured late Saturday night when struck by an automobile near his home. He was taken to Garfield Hospital for treatment of a broken right arm.

The automobile which struck him was operated by Godfrey Rittenhouse, 23 years old, of 4333 Kansas avenue northwest.

COMMUNITY CENTER ATTENDANCE SUM IS 306,057 FOR SEASON

Plans Are Started for Part in Fourth of July Celebration.

16 ORGANIZATIONS FILE THEIR WINTER REPORTS

Many Bicentennial Programs Sponsored; Relief Activities Held Big Interest.

Sixteen community centers, located in 32 school buildings throughout the District of Columbia, registered a total attendance of 306,057 during the last eight months, according to Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, in her annual report to the council, held last week.

In the absence of J. G. Yaden, president of the council, Miss Edith Grosvenor, vice president, presided and heard reports of the winter, as well as plans for summer from Mrs. Peeples and members of the department.

Highest Attendance.

The highest attendance registered was at Central, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, with 43,506 persons; McKinley Center followed with an attendance of 28,087, and East Washington Center, with 23,115. Activities at all centers varied according to the requirements and desires of the community in which the centers are located, including athletics, dramatics, music, dancing, industrial arts, social events, civic events, discussions and lecture events, and relief activities.

Bicentennial programs were held at practically all centers and active cooperation was given in city-wide events of Bicentennial year by the department as a whole. The Community Institute of Washington and the District of Columbia Model Aircraft League are both sponsored by the department, which likewise directs the annual Play Institute of the District of Columbia, the Recreation Institute, and the one-act play tournament.

Summer Activities.

Two outstanding events in the Capital, the national community Christmas tree program and the Fourth of July celebration, are included in the work of the department, which is now engaged in assisting in plans for the Fourth of July celebration at the Sylvan Theater.

Plans are going forward for the summer festival at the Sylvan Theater, directed annually by the department, with the cooperation of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and with the assistance of the National Capital Civic fund. Programs will be given weekly in July and August, beginning July 6, by groups throughout the city. All Sylvan Theater programs are open to the public.

Man Hit by Trolley Trying to Avoid Auto

While attempting to avoid being struck by an automobile, James W. Lindsey, 63 years old, of 3702 Thirteenth street northwest, was struck by a Capital Traction Co. street car at Fourteenth and Perry streets northwest. He was taken to Garfield Hospital for treatment of a possible fracture of the left shoulder and arm.

He was crossing Fourteenth street, accompanied by his wife, when he stepped into the path of the trolley car. His condition is not thought to be serious.

Man Shot Accidentally While Handling Pistol

He was treated at Emergency Hospital where his condition is not serious.

Burglar Alarm False At Henderson Castle

Police cars rushed to the Henderson Castle, on Sixteenth street, late yesterday in response to a burglar alarm which had sounded.

The trouble was caused by a short circuit in the house wiring. Only the caretaker was in the place at the time.

GREED IS ATTACKED BY BAPTIST PASTOR

Dr. Briggs Inveighs Against Covetousness; Blames It for Many Troubles.

"A man should not be valued by the size of his bank account, for Jesus said a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesses," said Dr. John E. Briggs, speaking yesterday morning at the Fifth Baptist Church.

"So many people who are good otherwise commit the sin of covetousness when they are all together," Dr. Briggs went on.

"The patriarchs warned against it. The prophets thundered against it. God directed Moses to place it among the 'thou shalt nots' of the Ten Commandments. Jesus repeatedly set forth its blighting, withering effects. Paul brands it as a most heinous sin. Covetousness drove Adam from Eden and made a murderer of Cain. Covetousness separated Lot from Abraham and made a thief of Achan.

"It seems covetousness was the primary cause of the World War. Many careful students think it is a large factor in the gloom and depression of the present time. When the United States declared war in 1917 many thought we would wage a war to make a warless world. We gave our sons and daughters and millions and millions of dollars. But the monster hand of covetousness broke forth and profiteering became a habit and a passion.

"In 1928 America, big and boastful, owned one-half of the world. We had silver aplenty and more cotton and wheat and corn and coal than we knew what to do with. Our Government budget was four billion and our estimated wealth was 349 billion dollars. Nobody was satisfied and everybody was grasping for more," Dr. Briggs said.

"But something has happened. A cog has slipped. Our disillusionment has come to pass. Ten millions are unemployed and twice that number are either hungry or on charity. God smote us. Our eyes have been opened and we sit on the ash heap of our folly.

"The remedy is that we take a new appraisal of life's values," Dr. Briggs concluded.

PASTOR BRANDS SIN CHIEF FAULT IN U. S.

"The chief problem of America today is sin," declared the Rev. Robert W. Brooks, speaking yesterday morning at the Lincoln Congregational Temple.

The Rev. Mr. Brooke spoke on "One Way to Solve America's Problems." His text was taken from Galatians, 6:14, "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." He stated that America and the rest of the world were suffering with a psychosis of materialism, and "now because of the absence of things, for many of us, the country is greatly alarmed." He continued:

"To take the Cross seriously brings us to grips with our personal sins. Why does the Government have to spend so much money for police power, a whole army of men to help enforce the law, provide jails and penitentiaries? Why does so much of our family life go to wrack and ruin? What is it that all of our great literature sees as the central problem of human life? Why does a pall of hopelessness hang so dark over European thought as though civilization were sliding toward an abyss and could not be saved? Why are we Americans so ashamed today when we think of wide areas of our public life? Why is it some sections of this city and all large cities are unfit for decent people to go? It is all because of sin.

Sin Symbolized in Cross.

"Sin is no specialty of religion; it is the deepest problem of humanity, and would still be, if every church were burned. Where does sin show itself at its worst? Some will answer, in the dire punishment that it rolls upon those guilty of it. You only need to observe its wretchedness, as it wreaks destruction in the lives of thousands who have pursued its course. But sin at its worst is symbolized in the Cross. There where it rolls its curse upon the innocent. No doubt, those fiendish brutes who destroyed the life of the Lindbergh baby will be tracked down and be made to suffer for that diabolical deed. But their suffering can not compare with the suffering of the stricken and bereaved family, who are innocent of any wrong. There is no one big enough to bear his own sins; because sin inevitably harms the innocent. For every sin that we commit builds a cross on which some one innocent must hang.

"In the second place, if we come to grips with the meaning of the cross, it will show us the need and possibility of individual salvation.

"In the next place, if we took the cross in earnest in America, we could face a new law of life—self realization through self sacrifice. 'If any man would come after me,' said Jesus, 'let him deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me.' This is the key to a larger life.

False Trust in Force.

"Finally, if we took the cross in earnest, we would see that nothing can finally save us but spiritual forces. This past generation has trusted pretty much in everything else. We have put all our hopes in machinery and new inventions, but where have they led us? We have been obsessed by confidence in the latent forces of nature which we have harnessed. Moreover, we have worshipped violence. We have prayed to our armies and navies, putting intothem nearly $1,000,000,000 a year, as though they were our gods to save civilization.

"Jesus, too, lived in a world that trusted force, but He turned his back upon Satanic methods and trusted nothing but spiritual forces. May America profit by the tragedies of the past."

Immanence of God Is Topic of Pastor

Rev. J. J. Rives Holds That Only True Reality Is Within Soul.

"From God we came and to God we return and earthly existence to be worth while must be vibrant with a definite God-consciousness," said the Rev. J. J. Rives, preaching yesterday at the Francis Asbury Methodist Church.

"The one area of true reality is the inner recess of the soul," he continued. "By the attitudes and appreciations that make up the experience of the invisible self we live. It is in this realm that God abides and works. An older theology used to emphasize the transcendence of God. He was up there, we are down here. Even if God wanted to get into human affairs he did it by some miraculous intervention, or by the mysteries of some ecclesiastical organization, or he was inveigled into it by some priestly magic.

"Today we emphasize the immanence of God. We find God in our own deep spirits. He is realized in the experience and the achievement of beauty, truth, of love and of goodness. Human life reaches its highest level where God is known and honored."

Barbecuer Treks 1,850 Miles To Stage Feast for Press

Famous Texas Chef Brings Amarillo Assistants in Covered "Wagon" to Prepare for Big Party for Newspapermen Saturday.

Ending a trek of 1,850 miles in a covered "motorized" wagon, John Snider, nationally known "barbecuer," and six assistants and neighbors arrived in the Capital yesterday afternoon from Amarillo, Tex., to start preparations for the old-fashioned barbecue of the National Press Club at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Md., next Saturday.

The trip from Amarillo was begun last Tuesday in a large truck, covered with canvas after the fashion of the famous covered wagons. On the covering was the brand HK, with which W. H. Kimball, of Amarillo, who furnished the truck, brands his cattle which roam the wide stretches of his ranch.

The party were guests for dinner of President Bascom Timmons at the National Press Club. Immediately after dinner the party, accompanied by Mr. Timmons, M. H. McIntyre, a member of the club's entertainment committee, and Marvin Jones, who represents the Amarillo district in the House, left for Seaside Park.

In addition to Mr. Kimball and Mr. Snider, the party includes Mrs. M. A. Whitfield, Dick Jerman, Mr. Snider's first lieutenant in the art of preparing Texan barbecue; and Barbecue "Sergeants" Bill Baker, Guy Culp and Billy Bruce Kimball, 8-year-old son of Mr. Kimball, all of Amarillo; also Chico, Mr. Snider's 10-year-old tiny Spitz, which has accompanied his master to dozens of States and scores of cities to witness "barbecueing."

Mr. Snider's method of preparing barbecue is unique. He cooks the yearling as a whole. Most barbecue specialists barbecue in halves. It requires from ten to fifteen hours for the average yearling to become excellent barbecue. "Chef" Snider uses his own special sauce. He brought along 200 pounds of Mexican beans, which are to be cooked with fatback and served as a side dish.

Asked how he became a "barbecuer," Mr. Snider said: "Well, when I was a youngster I used to go to lots of barbecues. Before the barbecue had been finished I was usually the only sober man left on the lot, and, naturally had to finish it up. This happened so many times that I finally just decided to become a 'barbecuer.'"

At Seaside Park there are eight cords of wood, ready to be used as fuel in cooking 30 beeves for the feast. Two thousand persons, including the entire congressional delegation from Texas, other members of Congress, diplomats, Army officers and other notables are expected to attend.

Traffic Prisoner Is Foiled In Cell Suicide Attempt

After his arrest on a charge of reckless driving, Charles A. Gaddess, 36 years old, tried to hang himself in his cell at the Third Precinct Station last night, according to police. He was removed to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Gaddess, who gave his address as 3033 Sixteenth street northwest, was arrested on the traffic charge after he ran into the rear of an automobile operated by Mrs. Faith Brinkley, 35 years old, of 1349 Shepherd street northwest. The accident occurrred on Columbia road, near Biltmore street.

Gaddess was arrested by Patrolman W. S. Rinker. Soon after he was placed in a cell, station attendants heard his cellmates shouting for help. They went into the cell and the cellmates told police Gaddess had tried to fashion a noose with his handkerchief. He was then removed to Gallinger Hospital.

2 Given Aid by Capital Man Held as Home Is Ransacked

Being a good Samaritan is costly. For further moralizing on this point, consult Earl Weidemann, 50 years old, of 220 C street northwest, who decided to practice the biblical lesson.

Only a few months ago, a couple of destitute wayfarers appealed to him for aid. Not only did he give them succor; but opened up the doors of his home, offering them lodging and food.

Everything went well with the new dwellers in his home until Mr. Wiedemann went away on May 5. He returned yesterday. Then the seeds of his kindness had fructified. His house was ransacked. Clothing was missing, as well as other articles.

The two men whom he harbored are now unwilling guests at the First Precinct Station, where they are charged with larceny and investigation. They gave their names as John Smith, 45 years old, and Charles Richards, 33 years old, and both gave Wiedemann's address.

PEEPING MOON WINS SADDLE-HORSE PRIZE AT BRADLEY FARMS

Mrs. Whitney's Gray Knight Named Grand Champion Hunter of Show.

L. C. Leith's Jumping Fool Takes Greatest Number of Blue Ribbons.

Mrs. John Hay Whitney's hunt team won the hunt team class, with the Middleburg hunt team, exhibited by Mr. and Mrs. George P. Plummer, a close second.

In this colorful class teams of three horses were shown over the long course of the Bradley Farms. Each horse was ridden in the colors of a recognized hunt club.

Wins Hunter Stake.

Rathfarnham, an 8-year-old chestnut gray exhibited by William Stevenson, suffered a bad fall in the triple bar jump and had to be destroyed. The jump was won by Squire, exhibited by the Fort Myer Horse Show Team. Eastern Morn, owned by Miss Mary Ellen Corby, placed second.

Light Weight Hunter Winner.

Gray Knight also placed first in the lightweight hunter championship.

Jumping Fool also won the modified Olympic class, and by virtue of her performance helped her owner to win the silver medal awarded to the exhibitor winning the greatest number of blue ribbons.

THE MAJESTIC MAMMOTH MASTODONS ARRIVE!

EAGER FANS READY FOR CIRCUS TODAY

Books will be carried to school today by Washington's juvenile population and kids will sit at desks and go through their recitations, but odds will have it that many a vacant stare will greet the teacher's query, for the circus is in town, and kids are kids.

Memories of pink lemonade and ochre-dabbed faces were visioned yesterday as hundreds watched the huge canvas tent of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey, world's largest circus, putting up the big top at Camp Meigs grounds.

Even before the canvas cover was completed the more venturous counterparts of "Huckleberry Finn" were to be seen sneaking beneath the tent sides. At Benning, where the circus unloaded, a large group of youthful admirers watched the many loaded trains bring in the animals. Vividly painted wagons drawn by a long string of horses carried the animal members to the circus grounds.

The troupers, arriving at the circus grounds, lent the finishing touches to a scene of a colorful nomad city of flapping white canvas. Preparing for the performance today, a small army of workers was busily engaged in quartering the personnel and equipment and feeding the animals as dusk settled.

Aspirants to the job of carrying water buckets for the elephants proved by their number that the youngsters of Washington still resemble their parents in the attraction to the sawdust rings. Advance yells of "peanuts" and "lemonade" could be heard at the camping grounds mingling with the hammer strokes, as tent pegs were pounded into the earth.

Afternoon and evening performances today and tomorrow will be given by the traveling performers. The circus, the gayest of all events, in a city of events, is here.

Memorial Service For Miss Lathrop

Social Workers Pay Tribute to Former Chief of Children's Bureau.

The church conference of social work, in session at Friends Meeting House in Haverford, Pa., devoted a service yesterday morning to the memory of Miss Julia Lathrop, the first director of the Federal Children's Bureau and the first woman chief of a Government bureau.

The principal address was made by Lewis Meriam, a member of the staff of the Brookings Institute, of this city, who was first assistant chief of the Children's Bureau under Miss Lathrop. Mr. Meriam spoke of the Children's Bureau as "a fitting memorial to Miss Lathrop, being the product of her own vision, wisdom and courage."

Miss Lathrop was appointed chief of the Children's Bureau when it was first created 20 years ago. She was recognized as one of the half dozen most eminent women of the Nation, having been an associate of Jane Addams at Hull House, and a former president of the national conference of social work.

Storekeeper Is Held Up By Cigarette Customer

Entering Israel Furr's delicatessen store at 1217 First street northwest about midnight last night, a colored man asked for a packet of cigarettes and produced a pistol instead of cash.

He ordered Furr to empty the cash register, containing $9.85, and disappeared. Furr told police the man was of medium height and fairly well dressed.

Reichelderfer Speaks On Landing of Negroes

The 313th aniversary of the landing of the first colored people in the United States was observed yesterday at the Cosmopolitan Baptist Church in Pythian Temple, at Twelfth and U streets northwest.

An address of welcome was given by Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer.

Capital 26th In Illiteracy, List Reveals

Twenty-five large cities of the United States show lesser percentages of illiteracy among their populations than Washington, according to a list published by the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, of which Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur is chairman.

Spokane, which led the list for 1930, dropped to fifth place, while Long Beach, Calif., and Peoria, Ill., became tied for first place with a percentage of 0.5 illiteracy among their populations. The National Capital's mark was 1.6.

Fall River, Mass., occupied the last place among the 93 cities listed, with a percentage of 10.2. New Bedford, Mass., was next above Fall River with a rank of 8.8 per cent.

CONGRESS OF S. A. R. OPENING HERE TODAY

Justice Van Orsdel to Call Meeting; Hoover Will Greet Delegates.

With 350 delegates already registered, the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution will open its forty-third annual congress this morning at the Mayflower Hotel.

The delegates attended a memorial service at the Church of the Epiphany yesterday afternoon at which the memory of the late president general, Benjamin Newhall Johnson, of Lynn, Mass., was eulogized by the Rev. Frederic W. Perkins, pastor of the Universalist Memorial Church, and a former resident of Lynn.

The service was also featured by an address by the chaplain general, the Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, of New London, Conn., and the massing of colors of the flags of all the States.

The opening session this morning will be ushered in with a concert by the United States Marine Band. Associate Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of the District Court of Appeals, president general of the organization, will call the meeting to order. A message from President Hoover will be read.

Greetings will be brought from Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer; Mrs. Russell William Magna, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Samuel Shaw Arentz, president of the National Society, Children of the American Revolution; Mrs. Harry C. Grove, State regent, District of Columbia Society, Daughters of the American Revolution; Justice Walter I. McCoy, vice president, Sons of the American Revolution, and Samuel S. Williamson, president, District of Columbia Society, Sons of the American Revolution.

The delegates will be photographed with President Hoover at noon at the White House. A reception will be given Justice Van Orsdel at the national headquarters, 1227 Sixteenth street northwest, tonight. The congress will continue through Wednesday, with the annual banquet taking place tomorrow night.

Man Gravely Hurt In Fall Under Train

Raymond Young, 33 years old, of St. Louis, Mo., was seriously injured yesterday when he fell underneath the wheels of a New York-bound train while riding the brake rods.

Young, who beat his way to Washington from St. Louis by riding freight trains, got aboard the passenger train as it was leaving Union Station. Near Seventh street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, he fell beneath the wheels.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED IN SERIES OF THEFTS

A long list of robberies of chain grocery stores, gasoline stations and telephone pay boxes, is believed solved by police with the arrest of four men yesterday.

The four men held for investigation are Robert P. Davis, 21; Charles Murray, 36; John Henry Smith, 31, and Clifford E. Lee, 25, all of 313 and 311 D street northwest. Detective Sergt. J. J. Tolson and Precinct Detective John F. Boxwell arrested Murray and Davis yesterday as they were leaving their rooming house, loaded with groceries. Information received from these two led to the arrest of Sheehan and Lee later in the day.

According to police, the gang, said to be from out of town, is believed to have been operating here since last December. Larceny and property damage to telephone boxes are estimated by detectives to be well over $5,000. A $900 cash register was wantonly destroyed in one instance, and in other cases a whole side of a wall was torn out to get the telephone boxes off.

Taxicab Driver Robbed Him of $27, Man Says

John William Brown, of 2111 First street northwest, reported to police that he was taken for a ride into the country yesterday by a taxicab driver, brought back to the city and then robbed of $27.

According to Brown, he hired the cab at Seventh street and Florida avenue northwest and was taken somewhere out in the country to a "beer joint" and then returned to an alley near Seventh street and East Capitol street, where the white cab driver took the money out of Brown's right shoe, where he had hidden it.

Man, 78, Seriously Hurt When Struck by Auto

John Berry, colored, 78 years old, of 219 Q street northwest, is in Casuality Hospital in a serious condition from injuries suffered when struck by a hit-and-run driver yesterday afternoon on Bladensburg road and Neal street northeast.

Berry was crossing the road when struck by a car listed to a sailor attached to the U. S. S. Idaho. He received a fractured leg, lacerations to the head and face and shock.

Right Arm of Man, 74, Broken by Automobile

William G. Flood, 74 years old, of 1424 W street northwest, was injured late Saturday night when struck by an automobile near his home. He was taken to Garfield Hospital for treatment of a broken right arm.

The automobile which struck him was operated by Godfrey Rittenhouse, 23 years old, of 4333 Kansas avenue northwest.

COMMUNITY CENTER ATTENDANCE SUM IS 306,057 FOR SEASON

Plans Are Started for Part in Fourth of July Celebration.

16 ORGANIZATIONS FILE THEIR WINTER REPORTS

Many Bicentennial Programs Sponsored; Relief Activities Held Big Interest.

Sixteen community centers, located in 32 school buildings throughout the District of Columbia, registered a total attendance of 306,057 during the last eight months, according to Mrs. Elizabeth K. Peeples, director of the Community Center Department, in her annual report to the council, held last week.

In the absence of J. G. Yaden, president of the council, Miss Edith Grosvenor, vice president, presided and heard reports of the winter, as well as plans for summer from Mrs. Peeples and members of the department.

Highest Attendance.

The highest attendance registered was at Central, Thirteenth and Clifton streets, with 43,508 persons; McKinley Center followed with an attendance of 28,087, and East Washington Center, with 23,115. Activities at all centers varied according to the requirements and desires of the community in which the centers are located, including athletics, dramatics, music, dancing, industrial arts, social events, civic events, discussions and lecture events, and relief activities.

Bicentennial programs were held at practically all centers and active cooperation was given in city-wide events of Bicentennial year by the department as a whole. The Community Institute of Washington and the District of Columbia Model Aircraft League are both sponsored by the department, which likewise directs the annual Play Institute of the District of Columbia, the Recreation Institute, and the one-act play tournament.

Summer Activities.

Two outstanding events in the Capital, the national community Christmas tree program and the Fourth of July celebration, are included in the work of the department, which is now engaged in assisting in plans for the Fourth of July celebration at the Sylvan Theater.

Plans are going forward for the summer festival at the Sylvan Theater, directed annually by the department, with the cooperation of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, and with the assistance of the National Capital Civic fund. Programs will be given weekly in July and August, beginning July 6, by groups throughout the city. All Sylvan Theater programs are open to the public.

Man Hit by Trolley Trying to Avoid Auto

While attempting to avoid being struck by an automobile, James W. Lindsey, 63 years old, of 3702 Thirteenth street northwest, was struck by a Capital Traction Co. street car at Fourteenth and Perry streets northwest. He was taken to Garfield Hospital for treatment of a possible fracture of the left shoulder and arm.

He was crossing Fourteenth street, accompanied by his wife, when he stepped into the path of the trolley car. His condition is not thought to be serious.

Man Shot Accidentally While Handling Pistol

He was treated at Emergency Hospital where his condition is not serious.

Burglar Alarm False At Henderson Castle

Police cars rushed to the Henderson Castle, on Sixteenth street, late yesterday in response to a burglar alarm which had sounded.

The trouble was caused by a short circuit in the house wiring. Only the caretaker was in the place at the time.

GREED IS ATTACKED BY BAPTIST PASTOR

Dr. Briggs Inveighs Against Covetousness; Blames It for Many Troubles.

"A man should not be valued by the size of his bank account, for Jesus said a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesses," said Dr. John E. Briggs, speaking yesterday morning at the Fifth Baptist Church.

"So many people who are good otherwise commit the sin of covetousness when they are all together," Dr. Briggs went on.

"The patriarchs warned against it. The prophets thundered against it. God directed Moses to place it among the 'thou shalt nots' of the Ten Commandments. Jesus repeatedly set forth its blighting, withering effects. Paul brands it as a most heinous sin. Covetousness drove Adam from Eden and made a murderer of Cain. Covetousness separated Lot from Abraham and made a thief of Achan.

"It seems covetousness was the primary cause of the World War. Many careful students think it is a large factor in the gloom and depression of the present time. When the United States declared war in 1917 many thought we would wage a war to make a warless world. We gave our sons and daughters and millions and millions of dollars. But the monster hand of covetousness broke forth and profiteering became a habit and a passion.

"In 1928 America, big and boastful, owned one-half of the world. We had silver aplenty and more cotton and wheat and corn and coal than we knew what to do with. Our Government budget was four billion and our estimated wealth was 349 billion dollars. Nobody was satisfied and everybody was grasping for more," Dr. Briggs said.

"But something has happened. A cog has slipped. Our disillusionment has come to pass. Ten millions are unemployed and twice that number are either hungry or on charity. God smote us. Our eyes have been opened and we sit on the ash heap of our folly.

"The remedy is that we take a new appraisal of life's values," Dr. Briggs concluded.

Immanence of God Is Topic of Pastor

Rev. J. J. Rives Holds That Only True Reality Is Within Soul.

"From God we came and to God we return and earthly existence to be worth while must be vibrant with a definite God-consciousness," said the Rev. J. J. Rives, preaching yesterday at the Francis Asbury Methodist Church.

"The one area of true reality is the inner recess of the soul," he continued. "By the attitudes and appreciations that make up the experience of the invisible self we live. It is in this realm that God abides and works. An older theology used to emphasize the transcendence of God. He was up there, we are down here. Even if God wanted to get into human affairs he did it by some miraculous intervention, or by the mysteries of some ecclesiastical organization, or he was inveigled into it by some priestly magic.

"Today we emphasize the immanence of God. We find God in our own deep spirits. He is realized in the experience and the achievement of beauty, truth, of love and of goodness. Human life reaches its highest level where God is known and honored."

PASTOR BRANDS SIN CHIEF FAULT IN U. S.

Rev. Robert Brooks Holds Problems Caused by Materialism.

The Rev. Mr. Brooke spoke on "One Way to Solve America's Problems." His text was taken from Galatians, 6:14, "But God forbid that I should glory, save in the Cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." He stated that America and the rest of the world were suffering with a psychosis of materialism, and "now because of the absence of things, for many of us, the country is greatly alarmed." He continued:

"To take the Cross seriously brings us to grips with our personal sins. Why does the Government have to spend so much money for police power, a whole army of men to help enforce the law, provide jails and penitentiaries? Why does so much of our family life go to wrack and ruin? What is it that all of our great literature sees as the central problem of human life? Why does a pall of hopelessness hang so dark over European thought as though civilization were sliding toward an abyss and could not be saved? Why are we Americans so ashamed today when we think of wide areas of our public life? Why is it some sections of this city and all large cities are unfit for decent people to go? It is all because of sin.

Sin Symbolized in Cross.

"Sin is no specialty of religion; it is the deepest problem of humanity, and would still be, if every church were burned. Where does sin show itself at its worst? Some will answer, in the dire punishment that it rolls upon those guilty of it. You only need to observe its wretchedness, as it wreaks destruction in the lives of thousands who have pursued its course. But sin at its worst is symbolized in the Cross. There where it rolls its curse upon the innocent. No doubt, those fiendish brutes who destroyed the life of the Lindbergh baby will be tracked down and be made to suffer for that diabolical deed. But their suffering can not compare with the suffering of the stricken and bereaved family, who are innocent of any wrong. There is no one big enough to bear his own sins; because sin inevitably harms the innocent. For every sin that we commit builds a cross on which some one innocent must hang.

"In the second place, if we come to grips with the meaning of the cross, it will show us the need and possibility of individual salvation.

"In the next place, if we took the crosss in earnest in America, we could face a new law of life—self realization through self sacrifice. 'If any man would come after me,' said Jesus, 'let him deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me.' This is the key to a larger life.

False Trust in Force.

"Finally, if we took the cross in earnest, we would see that nothing can finally save us but spiritual forces. This past generation has trusted pretty much in everything else. We have put all our hopes in machinery and new inventions, but where have they led us? We have been obsessed by confidence in the latent forces of nature which we have harnessed. Moreover, we have worshipped violence. We have prayed to our armies and navies, putting intothem nearly $1,000,000,000 a year, as though they were our gods to save civilization.

"Jesus, too, lived in a world that trusted force, but He turned his back upon Satanic methods and trusted nothing but spiritual forces. May America profit by the tragedies of the past."

UNITY NEEDS URGED BY BISHOP FISKE IN CATHEDRAL SERMON

PREJUDICES ASSAILED; NEW SPIRIT IS SOUGHT

Pentecostal Note Features Address Delivered in Choir.

The call of the hour in these days of economic unrest is to forget partisanship and to unite in unselfish endeavor, and to consider the common good in an united effort, the Right Rev. Charles Fiske, Bishop of Central New York, declared in a sermon yesterday in the choir of Washington Cathedral.

"That is the special task which is ours in these days of depression," Bishop Fiske said, "to show faith in the worthwhile life; to keep dear our ideal of service, and to remember that there are spiritual powers which we must quicken into activity. So in church, in the Nation, in individual lives, will the dream of America's ideals become facts in American life."

"Wall of Isolation."

Preaching on the fact that on the Day of Pentecost, the birthday of the Christian Church—"the disciples proclaimed their message in the mother tongue of the human heart," so there was no barrier of race or language in the world. Bishop Fiske declared that America has tried to build around it "a wall of isolation."

"We in America have talked beautifully of a democracy of service," he continued, "but we have done so little to mold into unity the races that have come to us with their many tongues. We have not yet built up a Nation with world sympathy and a world consciousness.

Need for Unity Stressed.

"This is the birthday of the Christian church. Let it be the birth of a new Christian spirit. Nothing that divides men—their speech, their knowledge, their wealth, their manners—nothing can equal that which unites them in Christ, so that we become part of other people's hopes and fears, their joys and pains.

"At Pentecost it became a reality. Men who had been born in race isolation and nurtured in race prejudice, who turned from a stranger simply because he was a stranger, suddenly saw themselves and the world in a new light and the world's hard lines were softened. The dream became fact. They learned that men were really brothers all and shared in one another's destiny."

Barbecuer Treks 1,850 Miles To Stage Feast for Press

Ending a trek of 1,850 miles in a covered "motorized" wagon, John Snider, nationally known "barbecuer," and six assistants and neighbors arrived in the Capital yesterday afternoon from Amarillo, Tex., to start preparations for the old-fashioned barbecue of the National Press Club at Seaside Park, Chesapeake Beach, Md., next Saturday.

The trip from Amarillo was begun last Tuesday in a large truck, covered with canvas after the fashion of the famous covered wagons. On the covering was the brand HK, with which W. H. Kimball, of Amarillo, who furnished the truck, brands his cattle which roam the wide stretches of his ranch.

The party were guests for dinner of President Bascom Timmons at the National Press Club. Immediately after dinner the party, accompanied by Mr. Timmons, M. H. McIntyre, a member of the club's entertainment committee, and Marvin Jones, who represents the Amarillo district in the House, left for Seaside Park.

In addition to Mr. Kimball and Mr. Snider, the party includes Mrs. M. A. Whitfield, Dick Jerman, Mr. Snider's first lieutenant in the art of preparing Texan barbecue; and Barbecue "Sergeants" Bill Baker, Guy Culp and Billy Bruce Kimball, 8-year-old son of Mr. Kimball, all of Amarillo; also Chico, Mr. Snider's 10-year-old tiny Spitz, which has accompanied his master to dozens of States and scores of cities to witness "barbecueing."

Mr. Snider's method of preparing barbecue is unique. He cooks the yearling as a whole. Most barbecue specialists barbecue in halves. It requires from ten to fifteen hours for the average yearling to become excellent barbecue. "Chef" Snider uses his own special sauce. He brought along 200 pounds of Mexican beans, which are to be cooked with fatback and served as a side dish.

Asked how he became a "barbecuer," Mr. Snider said: "Well, when I was a youngster I used to go to lots of barbecues. Before the barbecue had been finished I was usually the only sober man left on the lot, and, naturally had to finish it up. This happened so many times that I finally just decided to become a 'barbecuer.'"

At Seaside Park there are eight cords of wood, ready to be used as fuel in cooking 30 beeves for the feast. Two thousand persons, including the entire congressional delegation from Texas, other members of Congress, diplomats, Army officers and other notables are expected to attend.

Traffic Prisoner Is Foiled In Cell Suicide Attempt

After his arrest on a charge of reckless driving, Charles A. Gaddess, 36 years old, tried to hang himself in his cell at the Third Precinct Station last night, according to police. He was removed to Gallinger Hospital for observation.

Gaddess, who gave his address as 3033 Sixteenth street northwest, was arrested on the traffic charge after he ran into the rear of an automobile operated by Mrs. Faith Brinkley, 35 years old, of 1349 Shepherd street northwest. The accident occurrred on Columbia road, near Biltmore street.

Gaddess was arrested by Patrolman W. S. Rinker. Soon after he was placed in a cell, station attendants heard his cellmates shouting for help. They went into the cell and the cellmates told police Gaddess had tried to fashion a noose with his handkerchief. He was then removed to Gallinger Hospital.

2 Given Aid by Capital Man Held as Home Is Ransacked

Being a good Samaritan is costly. For further moralizing on this point, consult Earl Weidemann, 50 years old, of 220 C street northwest, who decided to practice the biblical lesson.

Only a few months ago, a couple of destitute wayfarers appealed to him for aid. Not only did he give them succor; but opened up the doors of his home, offering them lodging and food.

Everything went well with the new dwellers in his home until Mr. Wiedemann went away on May 5. He returned yesterday. Then the seeds of his kindness had fructified. His house was ransacked. Clothing was missing, as well as other articles.

The two men whom he harbored are now unwilling guests at the First Precinct Station, where they are charged with larceny and investigation. They gave their names as John Smith, 45 years old, and Charles Richards, 33 years old, and both gave Wiedemann's address.
